LOST PLANE MYSTERY DEEPENS

WRONG DIRECTION?

$500 Million Cut Seen in Arms Budget

Aircraft Slashes Expected; Missile Spending to Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department has completed a tentative budget calling for a reduction of nearly a half billion dollars in U. S. military spending next year, informed sources said Saturday.

They said the proposed spending figure, which still must get White House approval, was close to $40,500,000,000.

Military spending now is running about $40,945,000,000 a year.

* * * *

ALMOST ALL the cutback would be accomplished through reduced aircraft purchases, which would more than offset an increase in missile spending.

The military services are spending $6,265,000,000 this year for planes and $3,825,000,000 for missiles.

The new proposal also was said to call for a slash of approximately 50,000 men in authorized military strength.

This would boil down to an actual cut of 25,000, however, since the services already are now 25,000 below authorized manpower allotment. They have a current total of 2,494,99 men.

The proposal was said to provide about $18,100,000,000 for the Air Force, compared to $18,670,000,000 this year. The Navy would be trimmed less than $100,000,000, while the Army might get a little more than the $9,300,000,000 allowed for the ground forces this year.

Fate of 27 Unknown; Blast Heard

Searchers Climb Range to Check Wreckage Report

CHARLOTTSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Authorities worked feverishly Saturday night to determine if an unidentified object sighted in the Blue Ridge Mountains was a Piedmont Airlines plane missing for more than a day with 27 persons aboard.

But near midnight, a Civil Air Patrol official said, no one had gotten close enough to identify what a park ranger spotted 45 miles southwest of here. Later, however it was reported that the object was probably not plane wreckage.

State police parried unofficial reports that the wreckage of the DC3 was seen. They said earlier reports concerning possible survivors appeared to be unfounded.

* * * *

NEVERTHELESS, rescue squads and ambulance teams from localities in the Buena Vista area stood by, ready to move in if needed.

Authorities said they received a dozen calls from mountain area residents who said they heard an explosion between 8 and 9 p.m. Friday. The plane was last heard from at 8:24 p.m., minutes before it was due to land at Charlottsville.

Park rangers themselves reported hearing an explosion.

Well-informed sources said the new center of the search, about 45 miles southwest of Charlottsville, was in a direct line with the missing plane's flight route from Washington to Charlottsville.

* * * *

FURTHERMORE, the radio beam on which the Piedmont flight was traveling continues down the line and passes over the mountain area.

A reliable source theorized that the pilot, George Lavrinc, could have missed the Charlottsville airfield and then, over the mnutains, tried to turn back, but instead smashed into the mountain.

It was noted that the mountain was taller than the plane's normal altitude of 4,000 feet.

Earlier Saturday night, darkness had brought a temporary halt to the search in the Charlottsville area.

2 Little 'Goblins' Are Felled

POMONA (UPI)—Two costumed boys were wounded, one critically, Saturday night in a "trick or treat" shooting.

Police ordered an all-points search for a 27-year-old male suspect who fled immediately after firing at the youngsters. A 15-year-old witness said the suspect wheeled and drew out a gun in what appeared to be a mock "draw" when the two Halloween-garbed children shouted trick or treat.

But the gun discharged, striking 6-year-old Joseph Tabera in the abdomen. The bullet passed through his body, wounding Michael Robert Mueller, 10, a neighbor, in the upper left leg.

The Tabera boy underwent surgery in an attempt to save his life.

* * * *

POLICE SAID they received conflicting stories about what happened. But they reported the man, believed accompanied by a woman in his flight, had been arguing with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sanchez, the parents of th Tabera boy.

Arthur Delado, stepmother of the younger victim, told police that Joe and his friend came up the steps as Sanchez and the fugitive stood near the front door. He said when the boys shouted "Trick or treat," the man—seemingly in jest—pulled out a gun and fired. When the two small boys fell, the assailant fled in an old-model coupe.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Dr. Albert H. Miller, 87, world leader in the field of anesthesiology, died Saturday at Rhode Island Hospital where he had served since 1900.

LEFT? RIGHT?

'Reversed Mural' Dispute Revived

By LEE CRAIG

A long standing argument has been revived now that workmen have finished installation of the huge mural in front of the new Harbor Department Administration Bldg. on Pier A.

The mural is a symbolic portrayal of harbor history, from the time of Cabrillo to the present, when varied cargoes from exotic lands are unloaded here from modern freighters.

* * * *

BIG DIFFERENCE of opinion when the mural was planned was whether the earliest slice of history should appear on the mural's north or south end.

Architects Warren Dedrick and the late James Friend argued that since traffic to the $3,000,000 building would approach from the north, the sequence should begin from that end.

Several commissioners felt this was nonsense. People are accustomed to read from left to right, they said, and the mural's progression should be in that direction.

* * * *

THE ARCHITECTS won out and the argument was forgotten—until last week.

Now, with the mural in place, the dispute blooms again. The right-to-lefters, however, have one indisputable edge.

The mural is up their way.

2 Services Unite to Save Boy

The Navy and Marine Corps combined Saturday night on a mercy mission via Los Alamitos Naval Air Station to save the life of a little Yuma, Ariz., boy.

Junior Andrew Mitchell, a 4-pound, 9-ounce baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mitchell in Yuma Friday night with a small intestinal block, which required immediate surgery if he was to live.

Dr. Paul Johnson, specialist at the Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, was the man needed to perform the operation.

Capt. P. Teague, Navy doctor at the Marine Corps Air Station in Yuma, took Junior aboard a twin-engine Beachcraft flown by Marine Majors L. F. William and K. J. Smock. They flew to Los Alamitos Air Station near Long Beach.

The plane landed at 5:15 p.m. Saturday and an ambulance sped the boy to Children's Hospital where Dr. Johnson was waiting.

Navy doctors said later they believe the boy has a good chance to recover.

Dad Faints, 6-Year-Old Drives Car

LITCHFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois State Police said a 6-year-old boy drove a car for 6 miles on busy U. S. Highway 66 Saturday after his father fell unconscious at the wheel.

The boy, Jackie Helfer, said he climbed on his unconscious father's lap, to steer the car.

Police Corp. Darrell Quarton said the father, Jack Helfer, was apparently intoxicated. Helfer was brought to St. Mary's Hospital in Litchfield and later to the Montgomery County jail in Hillsboro, where he was held for investigation.

The boy drove the slowly moving car from the junction of Highway 66 and Highway 138 to just south of Litchfield, where two truck drivers. Wilbur Pieper of Nokomis, Ill., and Robert Webb of Pana, Ill., managed to climb in, shut the ignition off and bring the car to a stop.

Witches, Robbers --It's Halloween

By WILLIAM JONES

The witch got into the picture Saturday as Long Beach observed Halloween.

One store owner thought it a joke until two bandits made off with $1,000.

A woman was doused with gasoline.

A 14-year-old treated himself to too much alcohol and had to be carried to the cruiser of arresting policemen.

* * * *

ANOTHER citizen was arrested for drunkenness when he marched into the house of a 50-year-old woman. "Wrong house," said he. "The Halloween party must be somewhere else."

On the other hand, citizens observed examples of good will as countless hundreds of sack-carrying, masked children relentlessly rang doorbells for trick or treat.

One blind man stationed himself at a corner to dispense candy to passing children.

A property owner set up a cotton-candy machine in his front yard to the delight of youngsters.

And police said pranks were at a minimum. Trick-or-treat enthusiasm was cooled by late evening showers.

FINDS OWN LIGHT

Burglar Takes $503 at Church

The sum of $503 was stolen Saturday from the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary Greek Orthodox Church, 1643 Pacific Ave., by a burglar who broke a stained glass window to gain entrance.

The burglar used a church candle to light his way while he ransacked the offices. A steel filing cabinet and an offering box were pried open. Police found wax drippings from the candle throughout the church.

Freed Shooting Suspect Jailed as User of Dope

An 18-year-old Norwalk youth, free for two days from a jail cell, was back behind bars again Saturday.

Edward James LaFay, of 16341 Pioneer Blvd., was arrested Saturday on suspicion of narcotics possession. Deputies said they found LaFay "passed out" in a bowling alley at 11459 E. Imperial Hwy. and found needle marks on his arm.

LaFay had been released Thursday after the district attorney's office refused to issue a complaint against him in the shooting of Marine Pvt. Fred T. Durkin, 18, of Camp Pendleton, in Santa Fe Springs last Saturday.

Spit 'n' Arguers' Leader Dies

John Jeremier Riordan, 88, one of the founders of the "Spit 'n' Argue" Club, died Friday at his 1440 Warren Ave. home.

A resident of Long Beach for 38 years, Riordan helped found the club which today is known as the University by the Sea, in 1920.

"We got together to talk business and politics and took up chewing to keep the women away," was the colorful Riordan's way of describing how the outdoor forum came into being.

Riordan came to Long Beach in 1920 after operating a saloon in Alliance, Neb. He served in the First Nebraska Regiment during the Spanish-American War and was wounded in the Philippine Insurrection. He was a port watchman with the Richfield Oil Corp. prior to his death and a member of William McKinley Camp 323 USWV, Holy Name Society, Claretian Guild, and a parish member of St. Anthony's Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Mary Rita Webb; sons, Paul and Jack L.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today in Mottell's & Peek Mortuary Chapel. Mass of Requiem will be offered at 9 a.m. Tuesday in St. Anthony's Church.

OPTIMIST OF THE ATOMIC AGE

By Staying Prepared We Can Buy Time, Dr. Teller Says

By EDWARD TELLER

LIVERMORE (AP)—In Livermore we are working on weapons with one very serious purpose . . . to be prepared and stay prepared.

We believe that as long as we are prepared for war—with big weapons and with small weapons—there will not be war.

I should mention a property of the Russians which I respect. They are patient and they are taking the long view. As long as they know that we are strong I believe and I hope there will be peace.

If we stay well prepared, we can buy one thing. We can buy time. And whether it is worthwhile to buy time depends on the way you are going to use that time.

I will start out by reminding you of one excellent way the world has used this time which, I claim, our preparedness has bought.

AT THE END of World War II Europe was destroyed. But I have seen Europe recently. The ruins are cleared away. The people live better than they lived before the war. These days it seems difficult to have hope, and yet there is hope and there is enterprise in Europe, and they are going forward more rapidly than any other people in the world.

There is a firm determination this time to work together, to tear down old barriers and to forget the hateful aspects of the past. The hatred that has divided Europe for centuries seems to have been wiped out as if by a miracle.

We have helped. We have helped by providing time and we have helped by the Marshall Plan. But this reconstruction and this spiritual revival is, to my mind, infinitely more than any help which could have come from the outside. It is a symbol of what one can get if one buys time. It is a promise of a brighter future. It is a rebirth of freedom and humanity for hundreds of millions.

But I want to tell you about something even bigger, something which as yet has not been accomplished, which is more challenging, more difficult and more frightening.

The industrial revolution has made our world small. It has brought extensive contacts; it has demanded readjustment between the nations and between peoples.

Perhaps the first thing that the modern age has brought to the continents of Asia, Africa and South America, is a feeling of injustice, a feeling of unrest, a clear knowledge that a good life is possible and that everyone has a right to it. This irresistible movement of the backward people has been called the Revolution of Rising Expectations.

WE OURSELVES started this revolution a long time ago when we declared that all men are created equal. To my mind it is clear what the people of the world want and will have is a fulfillment of this promise: All men should be equal in dignity and equal in opportunity. This is a tremendous challenge.

In our Declaration of Independence we have issued a blank check which will be filled out for more wealth than exists now and for more wealth than we can imagine that anybody could possibly create. Yet it so happens that our forefathers did write this blank check, and all the world is aware of this fact. Our credit, our type of society, our very lives depend on whether this promise can be converted into reality. Obviously we cannot change the world by our unaided efforts. But we are deeply and irrevocably committed.

I am asking myself what we can do to honor this great. this magnificent blank check and I cannot tell you. I do not have the imagination, even on the technical side, much less on the political and organizational sides. But what little I can think of I will tell you.

L.A.C. Says:

Tax Bills Coming

The city and county tax bills will be arriving this week in the homes and offices of some Long Beach property owners. Many of the owners will not receive the tax bills because they will go to the holders of mortgages on the property. But the owner will pay the bills along with the monthly payments of interest and principal. Unless they ask for a breakdown of the taxes, few of them will realize how much they are actually paying in taxes.

The increases in county tax rates over last year are about 5 per cent. The increase in city rates is about 4 per cent. Such increases have come to be so common taxpayers fail to realize how they have mounted over the past several years. This 5 per cent increase compounded each year is increasing taxes at alarming rates. But the property taxes are but a portion of what government is actually costing in increased taxes.

An idea of what is happening is shown in the city budget which shows net total revenue to the city has gone up 23 per cent in the last four years. During this period population of the city has increased by only 3 per cent. The cost of living index has increased about 10 per cent. Thus, the cost of city government has increased seven times as much as population and more than twice as much as the cost of living index.

An idea of some of these increases is shown by comparing actual expenditures for the 1956-57 budget year with the budget for 1959-60. They show general purposes up 29 per cent, library up 28 per cent, the band up 19 per cent and Recreation Department cost up 34 per cent. Much the same increases are shown for other cities, county and state governments. But it is apparent these increases in Long Beach cannot be justified by increased population. We are paying out these increases for approximately the same number of residents.

The largest portion of these increased costs has been caused by increased pay to city employes and their pension and health insurance benefits. But these increases are comparable to those in private industry for the same period. The activities of many of the departments have been increased. A rubbish collection charge has been added to the cost for residents and gas rates raised to pay more money into the general fund. But it all comes out of the pockets of the local residents—as do the increased county taxes. The state has increased taxes this year by about 10 per cent through the cigarette, beer and income taxes.

When costs are increased 23 per cent to take care of the same number of people it means we have a localized inflation that penalizes everyone in the city. It means more money to government and less money for consumer goods. It means the cost of owning a home or operating a business is less attractive. If such expanded costs fail to attract more residents to help pay the costs, it is evident we must curtail these costs or they will destroy values. We have not attracted new residents during this period as newly announced population figures show.

The apathy of the people is largely responsible for increases. They failed to approve consolidation of assessing and tax collection with the county which would have saved an estimated $280,000 a year. There has been no protest against purchase of east beach lots which will cost an estimated $1,500,000 for four short blocks, with no reasonable excuse. The 39 per cent increase in recreation costs for the same population is hard to justify. A survey of the budget would reveal many such incidents. But the small pressure groups favoring these projects find no organized opposition—so the apathy of the people permits their continued rise.

These are factors each recipient of a tax bill should remember when their bills are received this month. It should call for all civic groups in the city to make studies and residential groups should make their voices heard before the City Council if they hope to avoid even greater increases next year.—L.A.C.

SIR WINSTON GRINS

Laughing Horse Ruins Monty's Speech

WOODFORD, England (AP)—A highly controversial statue of Sir Winston Churchill was unveiled here Saturday amid pomp and circumstance—and real horse laughs.

The horse—belonging to the Metropolitan Police Department—laughed nine times during Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery's dedication speech. The peppery field marshal didn't like it a bit.

But Sir Winston—who'll be 85 next month—enjoyed it tremendously. Especially when an angry police superintendent had to lead away the horse and its embarrassed rider.

About 3,000 persons cheered as Sir Winston, accompanied by Lady Churchill, arrived. Churchill gave them the V sign for victory and, taking his time, climbed five steps to a platform and sat down.

* * * *

AT THIS point Montgomery arrived. So did the horse. As the field marshal mounted the platform steps and took out his notes the horse broke the silence with a blood-curdling laugh.

Ignoring the animal, Montgomery launched into his speech. Turning to Sir Winston, he said:

"Let future generations remember how he (Churchill) took tyranny by the throat and tore freedom from its grasp."

"Wheeeeeeee," went the horse.

After brief hesitation, the field marshal continued:

"Future generations will not only need, but will also desire to know what Sir Winston Churchill looked like."

"Wheeeeeeee," laughed the horse again.

* * * *

SIR WINSTON grinned. Montgomery glared at the animal, but went on:

"And nobody knows better than a British soldier how a strong Britain and an untarnished British spirit are the prime ingredients of peace."

"Wheeeeeeee."

At this interruption the field marshal, with heavy sarcasm, commented:

"It's rather a good thing to have a horse joining the ceremony."

"Wheeeeeeee," agreed the horse.

The police superintendent walked to the animal and stroked its nose.

"Wheeeeeeee."

This was the longest laugh of all. And it was the last. Gently but firmly the police officer led the animal and rider through the crowd.

2,000 Battle N. California Forest Fires

By Associated Press

More than 2,000 men battled Saturday night to check a savage outbreak of Northern California forest fires that stripped over 30,000 acres in little more than 24 hours.

At least nine homes were destroyed in the swift surge of flames.

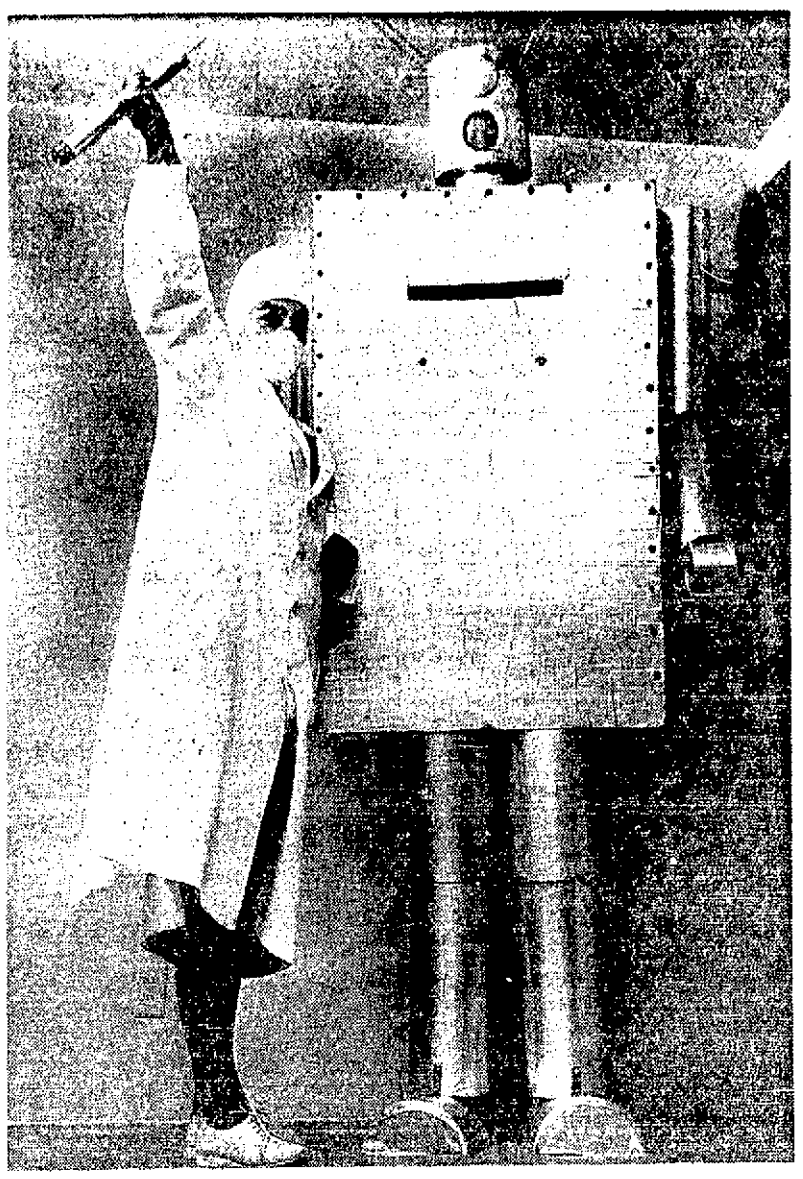

Gale-like winds Friday swept the flames through valuable timber stands in El Dorado and Tahoe National Forests and privately owned logging lands.

The winds subsided Saturday but the small communities of Camptonville and Pike on Highway 49 and Riverton on U. S. 50 remained on alert for possible evacuation.

The State Division of Forestry reported three homes burned in Monte Vista and three more in Gold Run, both small towns on U. S. 40.

Another fast flaring fire destroyed three homes and an abandoned winery near Calistoga, hot springs resort in Napa County.

Highway 40, major route across the Sierra Nevada, was reopened Saturday noon. Motor traffic was warned against travel on U. S. 50.

Welles Tells of $170,000 TV Fix Offer

PARIS (UPI) — Orson Welles said Saturday he was offered as much as $170,000 to star as a genius on a fixed TV quiz show three years ago. He said when he told acquaintances about the offer "they just laughed" it off.

The actor said when he declined the proposition a "notable egghead" took his place. He did not further identify the person and refused to name the network or the show.

But he said the producer was one of those involved in the hearings of the house subcommittee investigating the quiz shows.

* * * *

WELLES SAID the offer was made to him in New York.

He said the producer wanted him to appear as a "genius" with a guarantee that he would last 7 to 12 weeks on the show and win at least $150,000 — possibly $170,000 if the ratings were good.

Welles said he protested he probably could not answer all the questions.

"Don't worry about it," he quoted the producer as saying. "You'll be able to answer anything we ask you."

* * * *

"I GUESS I was still a farm boy," Welles said. "Because I said 'what do you mean I can't miss? If you asked me a question about baseball I'd miss in a minute.'"

Welles said the producer replied: "We take care of all that in the preliminary questioning. We're not going to ask you any questions you don't know."

New Steel Talks Set Monday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steel negotiations recessed Saturday after what United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald called "another exercise of futility" to end the 109-day nationwide steel strike.

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, said the union continues to press for an inflationary wage increase. He said the basic position of the steel companies "is not about to crumble."

* * * *

BOTH SIDES are scheduled to resume negotiations Monday in Washington where they have been summoned by the Federal Mediation Service. Both Cooper and McDonald said they would be there. They met for 90 minutes Saturday.

Arguments will begin Tuesday in the U. S. Supreme Court on a union appeal to set aside a Taft-Hartley injunction that could end the dispute for at least 80 days.

McDonald said the industry is depending on the injunction to halt the strike rather than attempt to negotiate a permanent settlement.

* * * *

COOPER replied:

"The Taft-Hartley injunction is not a bargaining tool. It is a remedy to protect the public's interest when it is seriously threatened."

Cooper said the union is insisting that the major producers agree to terms similar to those accepted by the Kaiser Steel Corp. earlier this week. Two other small basic producing companies also accepted the terms.

Charles A. Devlin Jr., 23, address unknown, was booked on charges of trespassing and drunkenness after entering a house at 1640 Parade St. He told officers he was looking for a Halloween party.

A 14-year-old youth was found in a vacant lot at 418 Sunset St. highly intoxicated. Patrolmen carried him to their car.

ONE POLICE UNIT asked headquarters by radio if they should arrest a man attired in a woman's dress and wig.

"Not today," was the answer. "Unless there are extenuating circumstances."

Authorities also said that youths poured gasoline on a woman. The gasoline was not ignited. She returned home without giving a report.

Observers in the city said an unusual number of fathers turned out under the clear, crisp night to escort their children from house-to-house.

One person reported 13 husbands huddled in the middle of a block discussing sports while their children marched down the sidewalk.

Postal Clerks Elect Lomitan

Tom Rico of Lomita was elected president of the California Postal Clerks Union Saturday at their organizing convention in Santa Barbara.

The group claims to represent 2,000 postal clerks in California. Walter Anseldo of Santa Ana was elected vice president.

Meat Talk Deadlock Unbroken

No visible progress was reported Saturday as negotiations between the Meat Cutters Union and the Food Employers Council continued.

Federal Conciliator John L. Fenton is now presiding at the negotiations which are expected to continue throughout today in an effort to reach agreement on a new contract before the deadline at midnight today.

* * * *

SOME 1,400 large markets and 11,000 union members are involved in the negotiations covering an area that extends south from San Luis Obispo to Imperial County—with the exception of Bakersfield and San Diego counties. Separate negotiations are being conducted in the two counties.

The employers have offered a 60.8-cent-an-hour "package" increase over a five-year period, but they demanded an end to what they termed "featherbedding" practices. The union rejected the offer.

As the negotiations bogged down Saturday, Robert K. Fox, president of the Food Employers Council, charged that a strike against the meat suppliers of Southern California families "for no better reason than to preserve union featherbedding, would be immoral and un-American."

East German Reds Release U.S. Soldier

HEIDELBERG, Germany (UPI)—East German authorities have released a U. S. Army private held since Sept. 21 when he wandered across the East-West German border into Communist East Germany, it was announced Saturday.

An American Red Cross announcement said that Pvt. Michael Petrovcin, 27, of Jersey City, N. J., was turned over Friday night by East German Red Cross authorities at Bad Hersbfeld, to waiting U. S. Army officers who interrogated him Saturday.

Petrovcin was the second U. S. soldier to be handed over by the Communists within a week. Last Saturday, Pvt. John R. Kennedy, 26, of Philadelphia, was returned to U. S. authorities from Czechoslovakia where he had been held since August, 1958.

Neighbor Revives Infant Found Drowning in Tub

A 29-year-old Garden Grove housewife was credited with saving the life of a 7-month-old neighbor girl who almost drowned in the family bathtub when her young brother turned on the water while their mother was out of the room.

Mrs. Helen Young, 27, of 10027 Ridgley Dr., applied mouth-to-mouth respiration to revive Julie Lee Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Cox, 10051 Ridgley Dr.

The child was pronounced out of danger at Palm-Harbor Hospital where she was kept for observation.

The child's mother, Victoria, said she left the bathroom to turn off a vacuum cleaner that had been turned on by her young son. She returned to find her daughter face down in the water, which had been turned on by the boy in her absence.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Smokes Curb Baby Weight

("Medicine and You," a regular Sunday feature of this newspaper, is prepared in collaboration with the Department of Medical Education, Seaside Memorial Hospital.)

By BEN ZINSER

Smoking during pregnancy reduces baby's birth weight, a reduction that is by no means trivial, reports Dr. C. R. Lowe in the British Medical Journal.

He arrived at this conclusion after checking the smoking habits of 2,042 pregnant women delivered in six Birmingham, England, hospitals.

The study included 1,155 women who did not smoke during pregnancy, 668 who smoked regularly, 181 who smoked only during the early months of pregnancy and 38 who ceased smoking in early pregnancy but resumed smoking before delivery.

The mean weight (6.93 pounds) of infants of mothers who smoked during pregnancy was six ounces less than that (7.33 pounds) of infants whose mothers never smoked during pregnancy.

Male infants of smoking mothers weighed less at birth than female infants of non-smokers—a reversal of the usual sex difference in birth weight.

Dr. Lowe says smoking apparently restricts circulation of blood through the afterbirth, resulting in retardation of fetal growth. He concludes that smoking sometimes is responsible for premature-weight babies.

This study lends support to the finding of increased incidence of premature infants born to smoking mothers, previously reported in this column.

BRITISH RESEARCHERS have given relief to persons suffering from a circulatory disorder in the leg by implanting parts of a human afterbirth (placenta) in their legs.

The disorder, called intermittent claudication, is marked by painful leg-cramping and lameness, brought on by artery disease which has interfered with the leg's blood supply.

Twenty-seven of 37 patients got relief when tiny sections of a human placenta were implanted beneath the skin of the thigh. Within six hours the patient usually experienced a feeling of heat and a tingling in both legs.

The researchers, who reported their findings in the British Medical Journal, believe placental hormones, probably estrogen, are responsible for the technique's favorable effect.

A PRACTICAL APPROACH to some infertility problems is the formula offered by E. J. Farris, Ph. D., of the Farris Institute for Parenthood in Philadelphia.

To establish the fertile period, Dr. Farris suggests that women average three recent consecutive menstrual cycles to the nearest whole day and divide this number by two to determine the midcycle day.

Conception, he says, is possible over a range of eight days—including the two days prior to ovulation and five days after.

His research shows that 80 per cent of conceptions occur on cycle days 11 to 14. About 35 per cent take place two days before midcycle and 30 per cent one day before midcycle.

Dr. Farris says the formula is more accurate than observation of body temperature curves or changes in cervical mucus.

THE SO-CALLED STRETCH MARKS of pregnancy, technically known as striae gravidarum, aren't caused by stretching of the skin after all, says a report in Lancet.

Dr. L. O. S. Poidevin of the University of Adelaide, Australia, says he has found a close relationship between the marks (striae) and overactivity of the adrenal glands. Not all pregnant women develop striae, he points out. Olive-oil massage does not prevent the marks from developing, Dr. Poidevin says.

BARBITURATES, WIDELY USED in sedatives or sleeping pills, can interfere with the action of anticoagulant drugs often prescribed to help ward off blood clots in patients with heart disease.

So says Dr. Murray Weiner of New York. Reporting to the American Heart Assn. at its annual convention last week in Philadelphia, Dr. Weiner said his studies show that if barbiturates are taken prior to the anticoagulants, the latter lose their effect. But when the sedatives are given five hours after the anticoagulants, the inhibiting effect is not observed.

HAY FEVER SUFFERERS often are "very anxious and very ambitious," says a report in Physicians Bulletin. A study of 50 hay fever patients showed that emotional factors play a role in precipitating attacks in about one-third of the cases.

Send All Youngsters Abroad To Build Peace, Teller Says

which are full of radioactivity and are difficult to handle.

Radioactivity in a concentrated form is harmful. It is true that stories about worldwide fallout are gross and unjustified exaggerations. But it is also true that a peaceful reactor, if it should get out of control, could cause very great damage in its immediate neighborhood.

By hard work and by great good luck we in this country have avoided major reactor accidents. I think this record can be maintained. I think we can learn more about reactors and we can reduce their cost.

We cannot make energy cheap, like air and water, but we can produce enough of it so that there will be fuel enough for all the world—fuel available in the most remote spots, wherever people want it.

* * * *

THERE IS ANOTHER peaceful application of atomic energy which in my opinion may have an even greater and more immediate impact. We call it Project Plowshare. It is the use of nuclear explosions for peaceful purposes. We can move great quantities of earth or rock. We can make harbors and canals and smooth the course of a river.

Perhaps we might make bituminous substances yield oil. There is perhaps a hope of regulating underground water flow and of creating underground water reservoirs.

What about the weather? We shall be able to predict it. But my guess is that weather predictions further and further into the future will not be possible because the makings of weather are full of the strange phenomenon called instability. Small original causes may grow into very big effects.

When by calculation we can trace the weather to its insignificant origins, then there is a possibility of doing something more significant than forecasting. We might influence the weather.

Let me mention another of these impossible dreams — the exploitation of the ocean.

All fishing today is Stone Age fishing. We go out with the same kinds of nets and hooks and we are after the same kinds of fish.

Could we not grow the fish in the ocean? Could we not grow the right kinds of fish and kill the parasites as we destroy the weeds? Perhaps we could produce the right genetic changes and breed fish which will swim into the appropriate nets and enclosures when the harvest season comes.

* * * *

AN ENTERPRISE like that of controlling the weather cannot be carried out by one individual, or even by one nation. Nations must cooperate to accomplish it, and it is by such cooperation that we can feed all the hungry mouths and can give dignity and a decent livelihood to all the peoples in the world.

None of the great technological innovations can be accomplished without sound international cooperation, without a world order; without some kind of a supra-national government. How to establish it I don't even begin to see. But I would like to make a couple of simple suggestions.

I think it would be a good thing for every one of our youngsters to spend a full year abroad. To work abroad for one year might be made a requirement for finishing college. And as a rule they should not spend the year in the so-called more civilized countries. They should get acquainted with strange peoples, learn how to speak their languages and find out much about the big world in which they will have to survive or go down.

This would mean a million of our kids abroad each year, and we would miss them I know that I shall miss mine. But I also know that I would much rather send them for this purpose than to send them into another war with an entirely different kind of purpose and outcome.

AND IN EXCHANGE for our youngsters abroad we should have something like a million foreign children with us living here. We should make them welcome, and furthermore we should look to arrangements so that these visitors from abroad can go back and work effectively in their own countries.

And finally, I would appeal to the press to write about what is going on abroad, not only in Europe and other important countries, but what is going on in backward, overpopulated or insignificant places, because the development of all people will determine the future of our own country.

Museum to Be Stocked With Famed Footgear

NEW YORK (UPI)—An ex-shoe-shine boy who now heads a large shoe-polish firm is establishing a museum which he hopes will contain some famous footwear.

Among footwear being sought are baby shoes once worn by U. S. Presidents; the spikes worn by Roger Bannister when he first cracked the four-minute mile; the shoes worn by Adlai Stevenson when he campaigned for the presidency in 1952 and which, as one famous picture showed, had a hole in one of them; the favorite sneakers of industrialist Howard Hughes; the baseball shoes worn by Babe Ruth when he hit his 60th homer; and the footwear worn by Sir Edmund Hillary when he scaled Mt. Everest.

Irving J. Bottner, president of the Esquire Shoe Polish Co., says he would be willing to pay handsomely for any shoes accepted by the museum, which he terms the "Sole of Fame." He said the shoes on display will be bronzed and identified with the part they played in history by accompanying newspaper headlines.

U.S. Soon Will Try for Pictures of Moon's Far Side

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) — America, in a few weeks, will try to end Russia's monopoly on original pictures of the moon's far-side surface.

A scanning device will be in the 375-pound payload the new Atlas-Able rocket will try to throw into orbit around the moon. U. S. hopes of getting the first pictures of the lunar backside went up in the explosion that claimed the first Atlas-Able Sept. 24.

The far side is the 41 per cent of the moon's surface which, because its period of rotation almost coincides with its orbit around the earth, is not seen from the mother globe.

Earlier this month, Russia's Lunik III was whirled into an 8-shaped orbit around the moon and the earth. The pictures it took of the far side were released to the free world this past week.

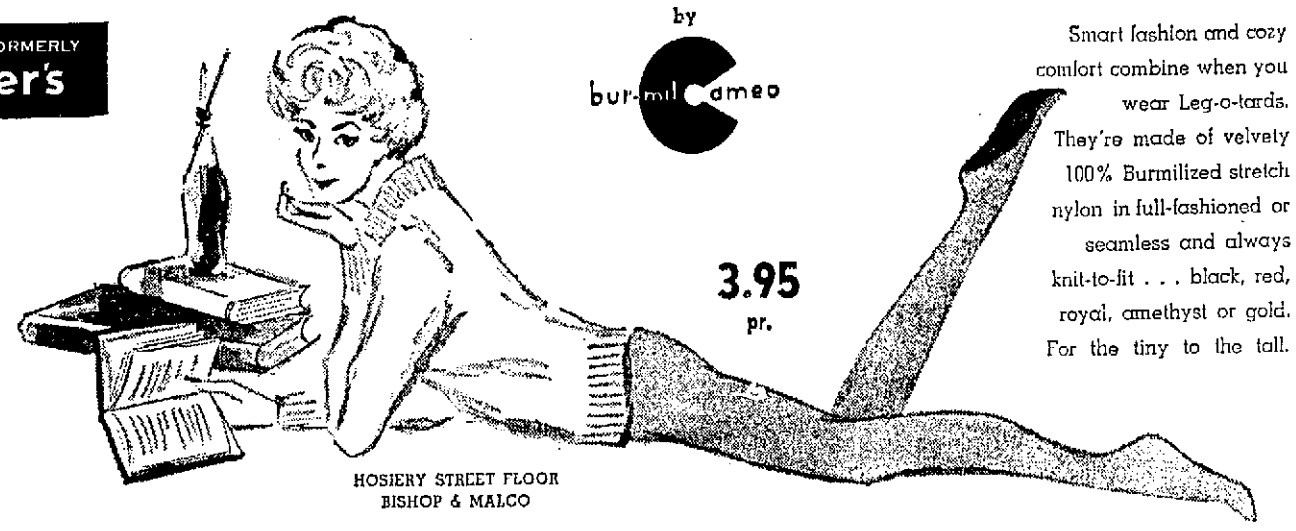

The Atlas - Able, standing about 125 feet tall and utilizing an Atlas ICBM in the first stage, is the biggest, most powerful space vehicle ever put together in the Western Hemisphere. But its satellite is considerably smaller than the 602-pound weight of the Lunik III payload.

However, the U. S. lunar probe will have several duties outside that of taking pictures. It will study properties of space between the earth and the moon, the lunar body's mass and shape, surface details and composition of the earth's nearest neighbor.

The picture-taking will be done by a facsimile system, resembling a television camera, developed by the Space Technology Laboratories.

Father of 6 Children Killed in Fire. Held for Bigamy

SANTA MONICA (CNS)—A Santa Monica cook whose six children were burned to death in a fire in Iowa was jailed on suspicion of bigamy Saturday by his fourth wife.

Herman Leroy Van Horn, 36, collapsed at the Santa Monica police station as he sadly admitted the youngsters, who died in Ottumwa, Iowa, Friday, were his.

Van Horn was arrested on the complaint of Helen Geneva Schoenwetter, 47, who said she and the mild-mannered cook were married in Woodland Hills at a private home less than two months ago.

* * * *

VAN HORN admitted the fourth marriage and said he thought his third wife, Patricia, 28, mother of the dead children, had divorced him. He came here in February looking for a job.

His bride turned him in to police after learning he was already married when they were wed.

She said he failed to go to work Friday, telling his employer he was ill.

Later, she found Van Horn in a bar and he told her about reading about the fire.

Van Horn showed his wife a copy of a newspaper and sobbed, "That's my kids that died in the fire."

HERMAN VAN HORN
Collapses at Station

Captain Robert Guggenmos of the Santa Monica police detective bureau said Van Horn told detectives Al Withspoon and Jack Stone he had been married four times, two of the marriages ending in divorce.

He married his third wife, Patricia, in August of 1949 in Ottumwa. She was the mother of the six children who died with a seventh child when fire razed a two-story home. Only the babysitter, Sharon Ann Dooley, 14, survived.

35,000 Lose Licenses in MVD Drive

LOS ANGELES (CNS) — Thirty-five thousand drivers have had their licenses suspended or revoked and the traffic death rate is down 11 per cent since last April 8.

Robert McCarthy, California Motor Vehicle Department director, told a meeting of the Lions Club at the Biltmore Hotel that this is the score to date of his "tough" anti-accident program.

Currently, he added, suspensions are running at a rate of approximately 4,000 a month.

REGIONAL POLITICS

Five National Contenders Scheduled to Visit Southland in Next 12 Days

By BOB HOUSER

Five prominent contenders for the 1960 presidential ticket—three Republicans and two Democrats — will make Southland visits, all billed as nonpolitical, within the next 12 days.

They are Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, House Minority Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana, and Democratic Senators John Kennedy of Massachusetts, and Stuart Symington of Missouri. One noncontender, former New York Gov. Averill Harriman, also is due next week to balance the political visitations three and three.

* * * *

ONLY ONE, Senator Symington, is scheduled to make a Long Beach appearance, Nov. 12 at the Democratic Luncheon Club and later that day at the National Grange convention.

Senator Kennedy is scheduled to land at Disneyland at 3 p.m. today for a two-day Southland visit, climaxing with his featured address Monday night at a $100-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner in the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Other Kennedy appearances: Arrival at Robinson Department Store parking lot in Beverly Hills at 4:30 p.m. today; 6:30 p.m. reception with members of the Minority Community of Los Angeles County in the Beverly Hilton; 7:30 p.m. meeting with the Ambassador of Ceylon; press conference at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the Beverly Hilton; address for UCLA student rally at 12:15 p.m.; USC Law School reception at 2 p.m. and speech to student body at 2:15; reception with leaders of organized labor at 3:30; predinner reception at 6:30; private reception at 7:30 and banquet at 8.

SEN. SYMINGTON
Will Talk in L. B.

Vice President and Mrs. Nixon will arrive at International Airport at 8:10 p.m. Monday. After a brief press conference, he will go to the Flamingo Restaurant in Arcadia for a 14th anniversary reunion with the Committee of 100 which launched his political career by selecting him to run for Congress in the old 12th District.

Nixon's headquarters for his six-day visit will be the Beverly Hilton. His only scheduled formal activities are as principal speaker Tuesday at the Rosary Hour anniversary dinner at the Ambassador Hotel and Tuesday at dedicatory exercises at Los Angeles City College.

The Vice President plans golf Wednesday at Hillcrest Country Club and Thursday at Irvine Country Club, to be followed by a dinner with Orange and San Diego County friends at Balboa Bay Club.

Sen. Kennedy Urges Aid to S. America

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, declared that the United States has neglected Latin America, Saturday called for a six-point program of assistance to South American nations.

Said Kennedy:

"If we continue to take our Western Hemisphere friends for granted, if we continue to assume that all anti-American agitation is Communist-inspired . . . then the time is not far off when what we patronizingly refer to as our own back yard may well pose a threat to our security."

JUST A 'LITTLE BIT' MORE

Looking the hungry household monarch she is, "Little Bit" scrapes the bottom of the feeding dish outside her cage. "Little Bit," a Mackerel Tip Tabby, was ajudged winner of first place in the color division of the 11th annual Pacific Coast Cat Fanciers' All-Breed Show at Municipal Auditorium Saturday. New Hint of Russ-Peiping Rift Seen in Nikita Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fresh evidence of differences between Russia and Red China were seen by U. S. diplomats Saturday in Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's reference in a speech to Indian-Chinese border troubles.

Khrushchev, speaking before the Soviet Parliament, called for solution of the Peiping-New Delhi territorial arguments by negotiation.

The Chinese Communist leadership has been using force at some points to gain control of border regions long in dispute with India.

U. S. Newsprint Boon to Egypt

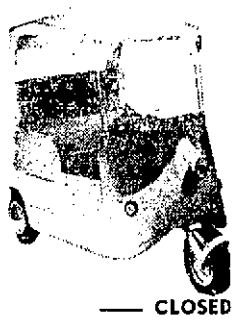

CAIRO (AP) — Egyptian newspapers are publishing these days largely thanks to American aid. The United States came through with two million dollars worth of newsprint after the Soviet Union, which had been supplying the paper, cut off shipments during midyear political tension between Cairo and Moscow.

U.S. Nears Showdown With Russ on A-Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States intends to review its year-old suspension of nuclear weapons tests unless Russia gives signs shortly of agreeing to an international test ban inspection system.

The review could produce a decision to resume underground tests next year. Nuclear explosions deep underground, scientists say, can be managed so that there is no danger of new radio-active fall out hazards.

* * * *

HIGHLY placed officials said Saturday one thing is already agreed among U. S. policy makers. This is that the Soviet government will not be permitted to wrangle a permanent prohibition on tests without a formal agreement providing for an inspection system designed to prevent cheating.

A year ago, the United States began a voluntary moratorium on the testing of nuclear weapons by joint agreement with Britain. Russia was told the suspension would continue for a year provided the Soviets also held no tests during that time.

* * * *

PREVIOUS talks at Geneva have focused on how to create an international inspection system that would meet the requirements of both Russia and the Western Powers. Russia would prefer little or no inspection; the U. S. and Britain want a policing operation so that it would be virtually impossible for any of the powers to hold tests in secret.

Last Tuesday, the talks at Geneva were resumed.

Shell Oil Office Hit by Blaze

A main section of the Shell Oil Co.'s Los Angeles Basin Division headquarters in Long Beach was destroyed by fire Saturday.

Shell officials said valuable production records for the Los Angeles Basin went up in flames in the two-story frame structure at 2080 Obispo Ave.

"All of a sudden the flames were pouring through the roof and out the windows," said Fred Wilbert, 61, of 2071 Eucalyptus Ave., a Shell employe for 39 years, who first reported the fire.

Flames swept the second floor from end to end, scorching office furniture. Charred embers of the fallen roof were all that remained in the burned area.

3 IN YACHT DRINKING PARTY SAVED

Skipper of Grounded Ship Missing

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A boat captain who couldn't swim vanished from an $80,000 yacht Saturday after ramming it into jagged rocks during an ocean-bound drinking party.

His three passengers, a man and two women, were taken off the grounded vessel and jailed for disorderly conduct after telling incoherent stories of the cruise.

Missing was Capt. Mack Dick, 55, who lived aboard the 55-foot Patricia III. Police identified his passengers as Wiley McKee, 39, a boat broker; Victoria Richardson, 25, the boat's cook, and Anna Martinez, 28, all of Miami.

The three said Dick was seen in the Yacht's flooded engine room, working over auxiliary pumps as water gushed through a hole slashed in the bottom when the yacht ran aground.

McKee radioed the Coast Guard shortly after 1 a.m. A harbor patrol boat, first to approach the yacht, also ran aground. Then Coast Guardsmen rescued the three passengers.

Why Switch to "Contacts"?

Over 500,000 men and women now switch to contact lenses every year! Why? (1) The advantages of not wearing spectacles is obvious; (2) plastic contact lenses are comfortable to wear because they do not "touch" the cornea; (3) over a long period "contacts" may be more economical than glasses. Get the facts and you, too, will switch to "contacts"! Come in for a no-obligation demonstration or mail the coupon. Easy terms. 32 years in Long Beach. Open Friday evenings and all day Saturdays.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Ike's Bronchitis Declared Mild

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's doctors Saturday pronounced him in excellent health—with one reservation. They confirmed he has chronic bronchitis.

The physicians termed the bronchitis mild but recommended that the 69-year-old President get away to warmer climates, preferably dry, whenever he can.

The report on Eisenhower's health was made public shortly after he checked out of Walter Reed Army Hospital Saturday morning and drove back to the White House in a light rain. He had entered the hospital late Thursday for his annual head-to-toe physical checkup.

Murphy Successor Chosen

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday named career diplomat Livingston T. Merchant to be undersecretary of state for political affairs.

Merchant will succeed Robert D. Murphy, who has resigned as of Dec. 3. The formal appointment will come later.

MERCHANT

Eisenhower's choice of Merchant was announced after the President conferred for 1½ hours with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Merchant is now deputy undersecretary for political affairs. Like Murphy, Merchant has been closely identified with established U. S. foreign policies during the almost seven years of the Eisenhower administration.

Plans Due Today for Big 4 Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Western Big Four will announce plans today for a top-level allied meeting in Paris, probably beginning Dec. 19, to map strategy for a summit meeting with Russia.

President Eisenhower will meet with British, French and West German leaders to resolve their difference so they can present a solid front to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev early next year.

Yank Seeks Russ Citizenship

MOSCOW (AP)—An ex-Marine from Texas told the U. S. Embassy Saturday he has applied for Soviet citizenship.

"I have made up my mind, I'm through," said Lee Harvey Oswald, 20, of Fort Worth, Tex., slapping his passport on the desk.

The Embassy suggested he withhold signing papers renouncing his U. S. citizenship until he is sure the Soviet Union will accept him.

Oswald's decision on this suggestion was not known. He has been staying at the Metropole Hotel, but was unavailable when reporters tried to get in touch with him.

Quick-Thinking Pastor Saves 8

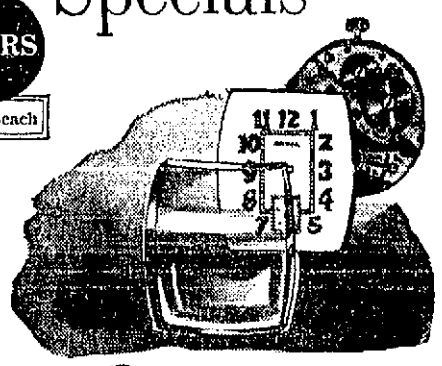

SALAMANCA, N. Y. (AP)—Police said a Baptist minister saved eight children from possible injury or death when he sped a bus to the other side of the bridge after the bridge floor buckled.

Part of the 200-foot iron bridge over the Allegheny River crumbled seconds after the bus reached the other side Friday night, Cattaragus county sheriff's deputies said.

The Rev. Ralph E. Bowen of the Red House Baptist Church in Quaker Bridge was driving the children to a religious service.

'A HATFUL OF RAIN'

Narcotics Drama Well-Played Here

"A Hatful of Rain" is a theaterful of dynamite.

The Michael Gazzo play opened this weekend at the Off-Broadway Theater. Although it is a little deficient as a play, the director and cast exploit its strengths so that it becomes a really gripping dramatic experience.

Dope addiction is not a pretty subject, and "Hatful of Rain" is not a pretty play, but it is, or at any rate to the uninitiated seems to be, authentic and honest in its presentation of the tragic problem of the junkie. It is probably honest also in its final scene, which does not present a pat solution but only a hope of regeneration. The monkey on the back is not dislodged by a shrug of the shoulders.

In "Hatful of Rain" the junkie is Johnny Pope, who who has acquired the habit in a hospital after the Korean War. As played perceptively by Bill McIntyre, Johnny is a thoroughly likable young man who is an unwilling but abject slave to the needle. When seized by the cruel physiological need for a fix, he is as pitiful as a sane human being can be.

* * * *

McINTYRE IS terrifyingly convincing in his scenes of agony. When in the last act he is writing on the floor, gripping the rug with desperate hands, one's fingernails ache with compassion. If this is not the way an addict behaves—and I have no way of knowing—it is certainly the way he ought to behave in this play. McIntyre in his suffering involves the whole audience.

Johnny's brother, Polo, suffers a different kind of agony, that of watching Johnny disintegrate, of concealing Johnny's condition from Johnny's wife, and of aiding Johnny through one session of kicking the habit. Mile DiLano portrays Polo with both sensitivity and power, especially in the early scenes, before the playwright betrays him.

Doris Marie Taylor plays Mrs. Pope, who does not understand what is happening to her husband but who knows that her marriage, which is soon to produce a child, has somehow fallen to pieces. Miss Taylor is somewhat automatic in her responses in a few of her scenes, but always appealingly human in the big scenes that count the most.

Warren Taylor, Al Caler and Bill Davis play the sinister trio of peddlers who threaten and control Johnny. All convey the impression of being hooked and savage without excessive histrionics.

Douglas Scott and Marion Mann complete the cast. All in all, it is a remarkably well-balanced group working together as an effective ensemble.

* * * *

THE EVEN QUALITY of the performances must be in large part the result of intelligent direction. Ken Kennerson has molded play and players into a dramatic entity of great power, and whoever was in charge of production aided the cause with unusually smooth execution of technical details.

Narcotics are frightening. So is this play. The young person who sees it will certainly think twice before taking his first drag or first shot. It is both an object lesson and a worthwhile theatrical event.

Singing Secretaries

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Two Bachelorettes Share Boy Friend

Two pretty 21-year-old secretaries in the Long Beach area have so much talent and appeal they have successfully entered another field in their off-hours—show business.

Diana Hughes, 5134 Verdura Ave., Lakewood, and Phyllis Shaw, 1357 Elm Ave., were entertaining part-time, each doing a single, when they were billed on the same musical comedy program nine months ago. They were mutually impressed and decided to team up.

* * * *

DIANA IS EMPLOYED by Long Beach attorney Eric A. Rose. Phyllis is a secretary at Long Beach Naval Base.

The girls are billed as The Bachelorettes and the Boy Friend. The Boy Friend is a large, toy dog around which the girls have built their act. Their accompanist is 16-year-old Adele Henson of Wilmington.

"We perform in nightclubs, veterans hospitals and for various charities," Phyllis said.

"Our goal is to become top recording artists and perform in the big nightclubs," Diana added.

* * * *

THEY ARE negotiating with a recording studio and hope to launch their career on records in the near future.

What about matrimony? "We're the Bachelorettes!" Phyllis exclaimed.

Both plan to marry someday but "that's a long time in the future."

Meanwhile they are two independent-minded white collar workers who are enjoying life in the glamorous world of show business.

Silent Screen Idol Still Whistle Bait

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ricardo Cortez, a matinee idol of the silent screen, can still evoke a whistle from the women.

His weight is the same as it was when he made his first picture in 1918. His hair is a little thinner but basically he has changed little.

Cortez rode to fame as the threat to Rudolph Valentino back in the days when the famed screen lover was giving his bosses some contract trouble.

"Jesse Lasky made an oral agreement with me to star in movies for him at Paramount," Ricardo recalls. "I had no sooner made the agreement than Metro offered me the lead in 'Ben Hur' and 'Scaramouche.' They said since I hadn't signed a contract I was under no legal obligation but I told them I was under a moral obligation. So the roles went to a comparative unknown at that time—Ramon Novarro."

Meanwhile Cortez zoomed to major stardom with Lasky and other silent movie producers. He has the distinction of being the only star in Hollywood history ever to be billed above Garbo. The Swedish Actress' first Hollywood movie was "The Torrent" in which Cortez starred.

He has a simple recipe for keeping fit: A brief workout each day in the gym, a high protein diet and a few drinks a day.

"And I never live in the past," he says.

'Brigadoon' Ends Tonight

Long Beach Civic Light Opera Assn. will stage the last of a series of performances of "Brigadoon" at 8:30 tonight in Municipal Auditorium.

The Al Ruiz corps de ballet is featured in the production of the Lerner and Lowe musical comedy, in which Scotch brogues and lilting airs blend into one of Broadway's greatest hits.

Crime Does Pay, These Actors Say

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If you want a good job done, hire experienced hands. This appears to be the philosophy of 20th Century-Fox in casting "Seven Thieves."

The plot calls for six men and a girl to rob the vaults beneath the Casino at Monte Carlo. The culprits include:

Edward G. Robinson, who played "Little Caesar" and numerous other screen gangsters.

Rod Steiger, who recently scored a success as the screen's Al Capone.

Eli Wallach, who drew plaudits for his portrayal of mobster Albert Anastasia on TV.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Fonda's Little Jane Fond of Love Scenes

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Jane Fonda had allegedly exclaimed to a friend, "Hollywood's wonderful—they pay you for making love!"

Sitting across from me in Lindy's she pleaded guilty to something close to that remark. "I'm sure," nodded Henry Fonda's daughter, the instant star, "I'm the kind of girl who'll always fall in love with her leading man."

Not that she and Tony Perkins had actually fallen in love in making "Tall Story" but "You work so closely . . ."

"I asked Dad," she said. "I told him, 'You're playing a love scene. You can really get worked up. Do you fall in love with your leading lady?'

"You know Dad." She demonstrated that Henry Fonda had become fatherly at that point. "He said, 'On the contrary, by that time they usually hate each other.'

"I said to myself—'Huh, but you have a child here who is not going to be that way!'"

* * * *

LESS THAN a year ago, Henry Fonda had modestly mentioned around town that his daughter Jane was being tested by his old friend, Josh Logan—and now Jane was under a contract for a picture a year for five years, and was being hailed everywhere as that Fresh New Talent and Pretty New Face that Hollywood, Broadway and TV all needed desperately.

"In my first scene, in my introduction to movie audiences," Jane said, "I smash into Marc Connelly and Ray Walston on my bicycle—and land on Marc Connelly's stomach.

JANE FONDA
Instant Star

"This is not a very sophisticated girl that I play. I've got a crush on Tony Perkins, the basketball star. I'm just crazy about this boy.

"They're carrying him on their shoulders and he says 'I think something's going on down here.' I have a hold of his leg and I'm chewing it."

Having attended Vassar, before becoming one of Lee Strasberg's students, she "would never run after a boy in an overt way—I would do it more subtly—but I do it in the picture because I'm an actress."

* * * *

JOSH LOGAN has had quite an influence on her life.

"He was always around, having been a friend of Dad's for so long. The first time I went to his apartment, I was a shy child of 10 or 11. They served oysters for dinner. I didn't know how to say no—he just terrified me. I ate them, but I've never eaten an oyster since."

When Josh heard Henry's daughter wanted to become an actress, he let her read a scene up at his country home. Afterward, he said, "Well, I didn't expect this"—and so she was signed.

Henry Fonda was in Hollywood a few weeks ago working on his TV series, "Deputy." Somebody called over, "Mr. Fonda, Life Magazine is calling."

"As Daddy tells it, he got terribly excited walking to the phone. He thought, 'Well, they've found out about "Deputy." Wouldn't it be nice if they wanted to put me on the cover?'

"He answered the phone, and a girl said, 'Mr. Fonda, do you have any pictures of Jane as a child?'"

Her Diary's Paid in Full

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood, like the rest of the world, is filled with unusual hobbyists and collectors. Here's an odd one.

Actress Patricia Owens likes to save bills, paid, of course.

She rummages through them once or twice every year.

"It's like a diary," she says. "One was a whopper from a shop in Beverly Hills when I first came to Hollywood. It was for a new gown I wore the first time I went out with a man. I wanted to attract."

Although she didn't connect them, she also has paid bills for a wedding dress (to writer Sy Bartlett) and paid up lawyer's fee for a divorce.

Teachers Will Tour Business, Oil Plants

Nearly 3,000 Long Beach teachers will move into business and industry Wednesday to observe Business-Education Day.

Many will tour oil production centers in a coincidental observance of the fact that oil was discovered a century ago in Titusville, Pa.

All schools of Long Beach Unified District will be closed, except City College.

Teachers will assemble at 8 a.m. in the men's gymnasium on the Lakewood campus of the college and hear an address by M. A. (Bud) Duncan, school board president, and music by the Municipal Band.

After the meeting, the teachers will visit business firms, the Water Department, Harbor Department, Naval Shipyard, aircraft carrier USS Hornet and oil plants.

BUSINESS - EDUCATION Day is sponsored by the school district and Chamber of Commerce. District coordinators for the event are Louis H. Cook Jr., principal of Hoover Junior High, and John Lepick, principal of Longfellow Elementary School. The Chamber committee is headed by Beverly Blair with Chuck Davis as coordinator.

Educators touring oil industry centers will meet at the Wilton Hotel for instructive talks by Joe Wilson, Shell Oil Co.; C. K. Viland, Tidewater Oil Co.; K. W. Kendrick, Standard Oil; S. C. Osborne, Texaco; H. C. Carrothers, General Petroleum, and W. M. Thompson, Richfield.

George L. Geiger, assistant superintendent for elementary schools, will represent the district.

TIPPLERS' SERVICE

Safe Drive Home, in Bed for $2.80

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — Two former taxi drivers have started what may be the world's first get-you-home service for drunken drivers.

Albert Saunders and Eric Layte, both 36 and teetotalers, started the service after Brighton officials rejected a proposal that police drive intoxicated motorists home for $5.60 a head. Saunders and Layte will drive a tippler's car into the garage, help get him undressed and into bed for $2.80.

IT'S WAY OUT, MAN!

INVADE LIBRARY

Beatniks Plop in Plato's Pad

By JIM McCAULEY

The Long Beach Public Library, guardian of Shakespeare and Plato, has been invaded by beatniks.

The main library has 14 reservations for the beatnik bible, "The Holy Barbarians" by Lawrence Lipton. There also are shorter waiting lists for other beatnik books. It's the biggest fad since Davy Crockett.

One gray-haired man in his 70s slipped quietly into the library last week and asked if he could check out "The Beat Generation and The Angry Young Men."

But the bulk of the beatnik book browsers are young males—some ranging down to high school age. The beatnik book readers aren't as disreputable-looking as the modern stereotype of a beatnik. Their dress varies.

As teenagers became swept up by the beatnik interest, librarians here figured: if you can't beat beatniks, join them.

A result has been the erection of a beatnik display in the main library. The display causes teenagers to detour from the main circulation desk to thumb through beatnik books.

MRS. ROSEMARY LANE, a pretty blonde librarian who became the top beatnik expert here, set up the display after studying beatnik lore. Earlier she became acquainted with San Francisco's beatnik cult.

The beatnik display centers around an oil painting of two beatniks. The painting was done on a bread board by Mrs. Trudy Mullen, who works on the library's main circulation desk.

Covers of the best-selling beatnik books beckon library patrons to dig this crazy collection of literature. Mrs. Lane also compiled a "beat bibliography," listing the beatnik works of Jack Kerouac, Gene Feldman, Lipton, Allen Ginsberg and others.

And just to show she is no square, Mrs. Lane didn't use capital letters when she listed beatnik authors and books. Hip beatniks frown on capitalization and other conventions.

City Renews Bid for Carmelitos

BEACH COMBING

With MALCOLM EPLEY

THE volume and heat of talk about smog is regulated by both the season of the year and the area from which the words originate.

This is the season when smog is usually at its worst, and the Pasadena-Altadena area is the spot that takes the worst beating from the nasty stuff. They even get some second hand smog that blows up there after we've used it.

So anything said about smog in Pasadena at this time of year may be expected to be pretty violent. A current news release from the Citizens Anti-Smog Committee, Box 212, Pasadena, lives up to such expectations.

A quick count on some words and terms:

False and misleading—6.
Lies and liars—5.
False—1.
Half-truths—1.
Hoax—2.
Barefaced lie—1.
Unmitigated gall—1.

The Pasadena group thinks little of the county supervisors, the smog control officials, the oil industry. It proposes that smog-haters stage a mass demonstration that will jam the streets, tie up traffic and make a nationwide impression. If your reaction to that is that it will create more smog to get all those cars together, don't offer that suggestion to the Pasadenans. They deny that motor exhausts are the major cause of smog. They blame the refineries.

WIG WEARERS are sometimes an embarrassment to other people, as a man who fits glasses in Long Beach can testify.

The other day he was fitting an elderly lady and had occasion to remove the glasses from her eyes. As he lifted them up he caught her hair and it all came off.

Flustered, he waved it in his hand. She gently took it from him and put it back on her head.

"I wear a wig," she said—an unnecessary announcement.

YOUNGSTERS at the Betsy Ross School in Bellflower, commendably interested in the affairs of the nation, sent a hurry-up call here for some information about Congress. Congressman Craig Hosmer happened to be on hand, and supplied the answer to the question: "How, if the House of Representatives is limited to 435 members, are Hawaii and Alaska represented?"

Hosmer explained that the admission acts for the two new states provided each should be temporarily represented by one Congressman, bringing the total in the House up to 437.

Next year, when reapportionment occurs, the two new states will be blanketed in, and the total will return to 435. In the new apportionment, Alaska is expected to continue with one Congressman and more heavily populated Hawaii will have two.

DRIFTWOOD—H. Edward Morse of Long Beach has a good slogan for the continuing battle against fire in the open country: "Chaperone your cigarettes—don't let them go out alone." . . . And Clarence Tharps sends along a picture of a sign on a marquee at a theater in Colorado Springs, reading: LAST DAY TO SEE CALIFORNIA IN COLOR. He noted: "Another fire—and no rain and this picture may come close to being true." . . . Not even a shapely elbow may be seen when Long Beach policewomen wear the long-sleeved uniform shirts prescribed recently by Chief Wm. H. Dovey. The order abolishes light-colored shirts worn by some of the women. Dark shirts already have long sleeves. . . . Mrs. Minnie Varcoe and Miss Georgia Glenn, 1998 Dawson, will be glad to take old Christmas cards this year to be sent to missions. Packages of cards can be mailed to the ladies or taken to the Dawson St. address.

You Think Kindergarten Is Play?

While mother is scurrying about her housework, she envisions Timmie having another carefree day in kindergarten. "What did you do today?" she'll ask. And Timmie will say, "Nothin'." But when Photographer John H. Neagle visited kindergarten at Birney Elementary School, he found the youngsters hard at work—even when they were at play.

MIXING COLORS at the painting board is serious business for Lynn Bolden, 5, in kindergarten class at Birney School of Long Beach district.

Annex Plans Assure Area Good Service

By GEORGE WEEKS

The city is renewing its efforts to annex the teeming, 67-acre Carmelitos Housing Project in northwest Long Beach, a source of neighborhood and City Hall controversy for many years.

Pending before the City Council's committee of the whole is a list of answers proposed by the city manager's office to questions raised by the County Housing Authority's Board of Commissioners, which administers the project.

Their purpose is to win the board's consent to the first step—an agreement not to protest annexation.

As the owner of all the property in the housing area, the County Housing Authority could block the merger by merely filing a protest.

Even if no protest is filed, a subsequent election with affirmative votes by a majority of electors participating will be required to bring the property into Long Beach.

* * * * *

IN GENERAL, the answers proposed by City Manager Sam E. Vickers give assurance that the city will provide adequate services for the housing center and will not attempt to infringe on the rights of the housing authority.

The concluding statement in the report awaiting Council action points out that annexation "in no way changes the administrative and policy-making powers" of the authority.

Other answers to the board's questions make these points:

City building laws apply only to new construction, and enforcement of new minimum housing standards now in process of adoption would not impose problems.

The city would maintain all streets, extend police and fire protection, provide health and recreation services. Both police and fire protection would be an improvement over that now offered by the county.

Garbage and trash collection service would be provided at the option of the county authority, which could continue private-contract trash collections if it so desired. If trash collection is assumed by the city, the authority would be billed in ac-

Still Waiting for Local Section of S.D. Freeway

THE STATE HIGHWAY Commission's budget actions with regard to the San Diego Freeway are received in Long Beach with mixed emotions.

Considering the 21 per cent cut in federal funds available to the state for highway construction, it's encouraging that the San Diego Freeway, as a whole, received the attention it did.

But it is extremely disappointing that the Highway Commission withdrew the allocation for work on the portion of the freeway which will run through this city and which has been awaited for a decade.

A YEAR AGO THE COMMISSION budgeted $8,500,000 for freeway structures (not for a completed freeway) on the San Diego Freeway route from the Long Beach Freeway to Studebaker Rd. At the same time, the Commission budgeted $6,500,000 for full freeway construction on the San Diego Freeway route between Long Beach Freeway and Alameda St.

Last week, the Commission transferred the $8,500,000 mentioned above to the reserve, but left the $6,500,000. It put in the 1960-61 budget $4,700,000 for construction between Alameda and Carson St. It also transferred $8,600,000 from the reserve to the current budget for full freeway construction from Carson St. up to and beyond the Harbor Freeway. This construction will include an interchange where the two freeways cross.

WHILE THE EFFECT OF THIS juggling is to delay further the Long Beach section, the Commission's action also assures construction of the section between Long Beach Freeway and Harbor Freeway which has been a major objective of this community. With this, Long Beach is, of course, pleased.

But we cannot help pointing out that the $9,000,000 which the Highway Commission allocated for the San Diego Freeway west of the Harbor Freeway, and the $14,000,000 allocated for the San Diego Freeway through Sepulveda Canyon would more than take care of the Long Beach project—structures, grading, paving, and all.

The question is simply one of priority and emphasis. Since the Long Beach section of the San Diego Freeway was adopted as part of the state highway system, the population of this community has increased from 286,505 to 392,010. Orange County, which also will benefit from the Long Beach section of the freeway, has increased its population from 216,224 to 700,000. Another factor to consider is the military importance of the freeway link between the naval and other defense facilities of San Diego and Long Beach.

IN ALL FAIRNESS TO the Highway Commission, this area did not "lose out" entirely. The described allocations for the San Diego Freeway and the allocations for the Long Beach and Garden Grove Freeways are important and will improve highway transportation in an area which is splitting its seams.

But as long as the San Diego Freeway through this area remains unfinished, there will be a serious gap in the system. The city must insist at every proper occasion that the Highway Commission act to close that gap.

Draft?—You've Got to Accept It!

By ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM

WASHINGTON—Coy politicians who don't like to admit they're running for high office, and who find questions about accepting a draft painfully tough to answer, have been offered some advice from one of their own. A prominent politco, who must be nameless here, told friends he wasn't running for Office X. They asked if he'd accept a draft in the event his party wanted him anyway.

"Well," he replied, "the Selective Service Board has set a precedent on that. Not only is it unpatriotic to refuse a draft; to refuse it makes one liable for imprisonment."

WHEN THE COMMISSION on Price Stability, headed by Vice President Nixon, issued its fourth report the other day it was noted that there were three corrections in longhand. The word "decline" was substituted in each case for "drop," "decrease" and "fall," all of which had been used in a single sentence. Allen Wallis, executive chief of the commission, said Nixon personally intervened for the substitutions.

"I have since learned," said Wallis, "that Mr. Nixon wages unending war on a prose style involving elegant variations on verbs."

A POPULAR NEW COFFEE-BREAK sport in government offices is dreaming up bureaucratic and other obstacles to new ideas. It's called "It won't work because . . ." The game got a big play when Postmaster General Art Summerfield revealed that some day maybe mail will be transmitted electronically by facsimile. This would take only a few seconds to send a letter from coast to coast, he said.

Somebody has suggested that such an innovation would force the Post Office to change its famous motto to something like: "Neither snow nor rain nor dense ionization stays these radio waves from the swift completion of their facsimile rounds."

NEW YORK TIMES REPORTER Allen Drury's best-selling novel about the U. S. Senate has made Washington more book-conscious than ever. The success of his book has made many another amateur wonder whether he, too, might not have the golden touch.

Not so with one already well established local author, who turns them out at the rate of one a year but doesn't get a cent in royalties. He is Maurice Stans, director of the budget, whose annual literary production always has the same title, "The Budget of the United States Government." The Stans book, whose 1961 edition will go to press in seven or eight weeks, makes pretty tough reading even for the experts.

Stan himself calls it, "The Thinking Man's Paperback."

Prediction: Knight Will Run for Governor Again in 1962

LOS ANGELES — What happens to the governor of a powerful state when he gets overwhelmingly defeated through no fault of his own? That's the question a lot of people asked about Gov. Goodwin Knight, Republican of California, who had to "move over" and run for senator—thanks to the demands of Sen. Bill Knowland, Vice President Nixon, and the GOP bosses.

The reaction of the voters was overwhelming. They don't like bosses to tell them whom they can vote for. They were ready to re-elect Knight governor. He had done a good job. They were not ready to elect him senator merely because Knowland and Nixon wanted him to "move over."

* * * *

SO THEY gave the Republicans the most crushing defeat in California's history.

Goodie Knight had been enjoying life immensely as governor of California. Married to a beautiful new wife, he went everywhere, saw everybody, appointed good men to office, kept his administration completely free of scandal. Then suddenly he was out.

* * * *

CURIOUS as to whether he was bitter, I went to see him. What was he doing now? What would he do in the future?

"No, I'm not practicing law," he said. "I appointed 300 judges while I was in office and if I appeared before them now, people would say I was seeking favors.

"I've got some property that I neglected when I was in office and I'm taking care of that now. Then I've got a TV program. I'm a competitor of yours," the Governor winked. "I'm on the air with some comment every evening for six minutes. You'd be surprised how fast six minutes go by. I hardly get a chance to say anything."

"How do you feel toward Knowland and Nixon?"

"I'm not bitter," Knight replied. And he seemed to mean it. "It doesn't pay to be bitter. You know, because you published it at the time, that I had every expectation of running for re-election. Every California governor is given a chance to run again. But I had no choice. My supporters began calling me up and telling me I wouldn't get a handful of delegates.

KNIGHT
No Bitterness

People who had contributed to me in the past found that their loans were being called at the bank. So I bowed to the inevitable.

"But now I'm enjoying life."

A politician will usually tell you that he's not bitter in defeat, but usually you can tell whether he means it. Goodie Knight, I knew, was telling the truth.

I asked him if he were going to run far Mayor of Los Angeles, as reported.

"When you've been top dog," Knight said, "you don't play second fiddle."

My prediction is that Goodie Knight will run for Governor of California in 1962 and probably win.

'Rocky' the Man Democrats Fear

WASHINGTON — Polls which purport to show that state and local Republican party officials overwhelmingly believe that the Republican presidential nomination will go to Vice-President Richard Nixon are being met with mass disbelief on the part of their Democratic counterparts. Democrats, almost to a man, are saying that in the end the Republican nominee will be Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

FLEESON

This accounts for the curious suspension of commitments which features the current race among the Democrats' aspirants. Few people, especially those who expect to have weight in determining the eventual outcome of the Democratic convention, are willing at present to take an open stand for any of the hopefuls.

* * * *

IT IS LITTLE noted that all of the more or less open Democratic candidacies were conceived before last year's election. It seemed then that Nixon was almost certain to be the Republican contender. And with rising Democratic strength, it was believed that almost any Democrat could beat Nixon.

Rightly or wrongly, the Democrats reasoned that since the Republican party is normally in a minority status, it would require a candidate who could appeal to the majority of independent voters, plus a fair share of Democrats, to win. They believed that Nixon's sharp partisanship rendered this unlikely.

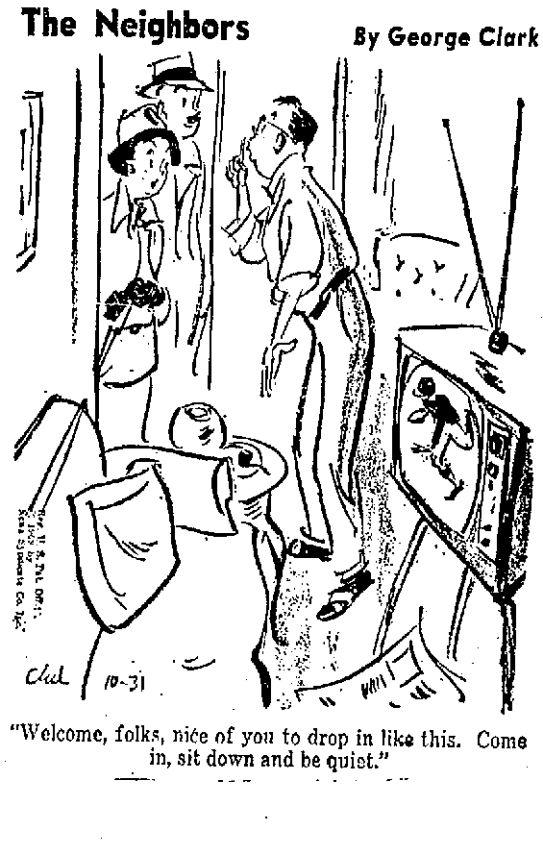

The emergence of Nelson Rockefeller as a leading political personality has changed all this. Democratic politicians may be in error in their assesment of Rockefeller's chances for the Republican nomination, but he is the man they fear.

Today the Democratic candidates are being measured, not against Nixon, but against Rockefeller.

They profess to believe that while Rockefeller's modernism may not appeal to the old Taft wing of the Republican party, if it ever comes to the question of winning with Rockefeller or chancing defeat with Nixon, the choice will logically go to the New York governor.

Cities Have the Population, Farmers the Political Power

"THE NEXT ELECTION is already rigged," political expert Richard Lee Strout writes in the November Harper's Magazine.

His case is that malapportionment—from state legislatures to the U. S. House of Representatives—has given farmers vastly more than their fair share of political power. He asks, "How long will 115 million city suckers stay under the green thumb of 57 million country slickers?"

HOUSER

Strout, Washington Bureau chief of the Christian Science Monitor, says it's a mystery why the cities don't revolt. He speculates it's because they simply don't know how badly they're being cheated.

A reference to California's North-dominated State Senate was inevitable, and Strout makes it, noting that Sen. Charles Brown of Inyo, Mono and Alpine Counties' 14,000 persons packs as much voting weight as Sen. Richard Richards of Los Angeles County's millions, making one rural vote worth some 300 city votes. In some states the ratio is as high as one to 500.

What has done much to devalue the city dweller's vote, writes the author, and to create some of the worst inequities, is not positive acts of injustice but no action at all. As he puts it: "The controlling faction in the state legislature simply does nothing while population within the states gravitates toward the cities. This is the 'silent gerrymander' . . ."

Depicted here, on a national scale, is "political breakdown which is crippling local governments," "distortion of the whole political process," "warping . . . which throws the fairness of every election in doubt" and which "rigs the results of the voting far more effectively than all the ballot-stuffing and bribery which went on in the bad old days of machine politics."

IF ANY ARGUMENTS WERE needed, this testimony supports the case which Supervisor Frank Bonelli makes for reapportionment of the State Senate to give the South an even (20-20) break, as against the present 30-10, cow county dominance.

Bonelli made his point Thursday at a public hearing before the Assembly Interim Committee on Elections and Reapportionment. Part of his testimony amounted to paraphrase of the imbalance described in the Harper's article.

It is hardly necessary to make a case for reapportionment to the big, urban constituency. It is in the timing of the push that potential disaster lies.

WE HAVE JUST COME THROUGH a summer courtship of sorts in which the North has been delicately wooed for cooperation in the water bond issue on next November's ballot.

In 1948, a petition for reapportionment failed overwhelmingly, failing to carry a single California county, even among communities suffering from under-representation.

For successful reapportionment now, in the Bonelli design, that climate would not only have had to change completely but it would have to face a cheek-by-jowl place on the same ballot with the water bond issue. It's unlikely next November will find the North saturated with enough Christmas spirit to sanction both deals.

So, even champions of the Bonelli plan are saying: If Bonelli springs now, can winter frustration be far behind?

Strike Has Other Trades "Shook Up"

EDITOR:

Sometimes I wonder when the rank and file along with the small businessmen are going to realize that they are beating their heads against a blank wall when they vote a strike measure? Their relentless holdout ability hasn't anything to do with the outcome of their particular disagreement.

It has been proved time after time that, after labor leaders have promoted their own publicity, and management's upper echelons have had their vacations, then and only then does the strike start to break. Recent reference can be made in regards to the tete-a-tete between U. S. Steelworkers boss David McDonald and management's Kaiser.

* * * *

MEANWHILE the workers have to live and support their families, and so, ultimately invade other trades and professions, thus lousing up the whole economy. Everyone is "all shook up" except the upper grades.

The majority of us are not qualified to solve the problem in its entirety but we can promote the solution through relentless hammering at our respective representatives. If that type of persuasion fails to get any action then it's time to get some new blood. If persistence is too much bother, then let's just forget the whole thing and allow the greedy to rule us.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

DMV Chief Takes Economy to Heart

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The commendation of Robert I. McCarthy, Director of Motor Vehicles, for his submission of a 1960-61 budget of $2 million less than the current expenditures has given a number of state administrators food for thought.

McCarthy upset the ranks of bureaucracy somewhat a couple of weeks ago when he announced he would save that amount by cutting out 182 positions. No one would be fired, but as persons left the jobs they would not be filled.

CAPPS

There had been some concern about McCarthy's announcement. Under the so-called economy program of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's administration, McCarthy's budget was the first which showed a decrease from the current year budget. And McCarthy's department is one affected as directly by increased population as any other.

McCarthy's budget was aired before a full-dress committee hearing on the night of Oct. 26—an unusual procedure in itself, as budgets normally are screened by the Department of Finance at routine, office-hour sessions.

However, if anyone thought McCarthy's budget reduction would draw fire from John E. Carr, Director of Finance, they were mistaken.

"This is very novel and very gratifying," Carr said. "It is perfectly practical to reduce the unit cost of government without firing a soul. But it is hard for a lot of people to get this through their heads. I would like to see more of this in our state government."

* * * *

McCARTHY said he had taken Gov. Brown literally when he told his directors he wanted economy in government.

"I tried to bring economy to my department by cutting out some of the unnecessary jobs and paper work, without harming the service in any way," he said. "Some of the projects undertaken by my department will be reduced or curtailed and nobody is going to lose his job."

Signal Hill Does All Right by 'Our Nell'

Oil Town's Voters Keep Mrs. Combellack on Job.

By GEORGE ERES

The City of Signal Hill takes a fundamentalist approach to its politics. At the drop of a hat, it will take up recall petitions and remove what it considers to be the "boil on the body politic."

There is apparently not enough oil beneath the ground to soothe the troubles which periodically boil up.

The recall weapon was first brought into use in 1926 a short time after the city was established in 1923. The populace swept from office a council it blamed for a street paving job it was felt was not up to what it should have been.

Recalls followed in 1935, 1948, 1953 and the latest just last week. A recall move in 1958 failed to get off the ground — insufficient signatures.

* * * *

THE LATEST RECALL booted from office four city councilmen. Unscathed was Councilwoman Nellie Combellack, who backed the recall move against her four colleagues.

Voters have done all right by "Our Nell" since she was elected to office in 1948. She weathered the 1953 recall which ousted the mayor and one councilman. A third councilman resigned. Nellie and a fifth councilman were not targets for recall.

She has been one of the firmest fixtures in the history of Signal Hill's tempestuous politics. When her term is up next April, she will have served 12 years—the second longest term in the Hill's history.

* * * *

SHE STATED she will not be a candidate to succeed herself. "I think when people stay in office too long they begin to think they own the community. That's one of the reasons I plan to retire from politics."

She may bow out as the city's mayor—a post she held in 1953. The Council, with four new members, meets Tuesday night—and Nellie is a likely choice or the Hill's First Lady job.

The latest recall election in Signal Hill came about from Council action to contract fire and police services from the county.

There were issues aplenty. A $90,000 model police building — just completed — was sitting unused because the county sheriff's office worked through a Lakewood station. Five police cars and a city fire ambulance were "in storage." And, what aroused the populace primarily, was that the council would not permit a vote on whether the people wanted to contract for these services.

BUT ON SIGNS that appeared throughout Signal Hill, opponents of the recall move attempted to make a basic issue of "Bossism." The signs asked if the Hill's some 4,500 residents wanted "Harvey" as their boss.

"Harvey" is Harvey E. Harris, editor and publisher of the Signal Hill Tribune for the past 19 years.

Harris denies that the Hill is constantly embroiled in recalls as a matter of "second nature." Most of these recall fights were forced on the city, he said, first by Todd (Kid Mexico) Faulkner, who wanted to maintain his Bingo operation and this latest by the council which abolished the city's fire and police departments.

Mrs. Combellack pays tribute to Harris as her political mentor, but denies that he is in any sense a "boss."

"Mr. Harris never dictated to me. But I have gone to him for advice and I found he gave me the best advice on what is best for Signal Hill."

* * * *

NELLIE WAS BORN in 1893—"use the year of my birth and let them figure out my age," she says. She came to Long Beach in 1919 and moved with her husband, Walter, to the Hill in 1934.

She says it was Harris who interested her in Signal Hill politics and persuaded her to run for office in 1948. Previous to that the only significant office she held was as International Supreme Worthy High Priestess of the Order of the White Shrine, a Masonic order.

Nellie said she was always treated like a lady in Hill politics even though the going was rough at times.

Jets of Water Used to Clean Ship Hulls

By LEE CRAIG

Weyerhaeuser Steamship Co. for some time has been using a comparatively new method of cleaning its ship's hulls.

Usual way is by sandblasting. Weyerhaeuser — which also has a timber company—uses a hydraulic "barking" procedure which employs high-pressure water.

A portable pumping apparatus is used to force water through a hose at a pressure of 1,500 pounds per square inch to remove foreign matter and flaking paint from a ship's bottom.

This takes less time, costs less, removes far less good paint from the hull and is faster, Weyerhaeuser says.

H-10 WATER TAXI CO. has made application with the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners to move its operation to Berth 86. H-10 will have to move from its present location at Berth 89 because of the $15,000,000 cargo-passenger terminal under construction for American President Lines at Berths 90-93.

A GREAT DEAL of commotion is being stirred up in Los Angeles Harbor over a proposed Coast Guard move to replace the two-tone diaphone air horn at the Angeles Gate lighthouse with a Leslie superdouble sound emitter. These are fog horns.

For 40 years, San Pedro residents have been lifted from their beds on foggy nights by a window-rattling "BOO, BAW!" at regular intervals.

Come Nov. 30, they'll have to adjust their subconscious to "BOO, BOO!" instead. San Pedro spokesmen, predicting mass insomnia, have appealed to the Chamber of Commerce to take steps to prevent this.

However, the Coast Guard says "BOO, BAW's" upkeep was too expensive. Also, they say, "BOO, BOO" is mechanically and acoustically the world's most efficient horn.

ACCIDENT RATE in the maritime industry is the highest in any American industry, according to Ralph E. Casey, president of the American Merchant Marine Institute.

He blames the high cost of accidents on failure of management and labor to "eliminate the physically and mentally unfit seamen, the chronic troublemakers and claim contrivers."

Injury, illness and death claims cost the shipping industry an estimated $50,000,000 yearly, or a tenth of the industry's payroll, he said.

Crash Drive for Medics Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special advisory group Saturday advocated a crash program of government and private medical school aid to prevent a shortage of doctors and dentists by 1975.

Their report to U.S. Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney declared drastic action must be taken immediately if the supply of doctors and dentists is to cope with the nation's fast-growing population.

* * * *

THE 12-MAN group on medical education was created by Burney last year. It was headed by Frank Bane, executive director of the Council of State Governments.

The group recommended that the federal government pour $500,000 over the next few years into the building of some 20 new medical schools with the states putting up an equal amount.

It also recommended that the government undertake a vigorous new program of scholarship grants to medical students. It said young people from low-income families are "at serious economic disadvantage" if they want to pursue medical or dental careers.

Two Drown in Houston Downpour

By Associated Press.

Cloudbursts hit the Gulf Coast states Saturday and slashing winds ripped sections of Texas.

The deluges dumped 11½ inches of rain on Montgomery, Ala., in six hours, and 9½ inches near Houston, Tex., where low-lying homes were flooded.

* * * *

TWO DEATHS were attributed to the Texas storm.

In southwest Houston, 18-month-old Jerry Eggleston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eggleston, drowned in 16 inches of water filling a ditch before his home. Searchers found the body of Shirley Ruth Mack, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mack, in a creek at nearby Stafford.

White House Mum on New Blast by Briton on Ike's War Record

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House firmly slammed the door Saturday on any comment about a British general's sharp criticism of President Eisenhower's World War II military leadership.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said there "never is going to be any comment" about the claims made in the second volume of the memoirs of British Field Marshal Lord Alanbrooke.

Alanbrooke, chief of the British general staff during the war, said Eisenhower was on the golf course at Rheims, France when the Germans launched the "Battle of the Bulge." He said he protested in November 1944 that no one was running the land battle.

Hagerty was aksed if the President had read the book. He bluntly told reporters he did not know. The President, in the past, has shrugged off postwar criticism of his actions as supreme Allied commander in Europe during World War II.

HE TOLD a news conference a year ago that he has been criticized by "everybody who can write a book and I will be in the future."

He was commenting on a statement by British Field Marshal Montgomery charging that Eisenhower's tactics prolonged fighting in the European theater.

French President Charles de Gaulle's memoirs, just completed, also contain some criticism of Eisenhower as a general.

After Montgomery's memoirs were made public last year, Eisenhower remarked at a news conference:

"We won the war in 11 months from the day we landed (on French soil), and I heard no single prediction before that, at that time . . . that war would be over in less than two years.

"As a matter of fact, Winston Churchill told me that if we were as far as Paris and captured Paris by Chirstmas time, he would remark that that was the greatest military operation of all time."

Housing Project Annex Pondered

cordance with current ordinances.

As for attempting to dictate to the board, the project area would be governed by ordinances "only to the degree that all other areas are so governed."

* * * *

THE CITY COUNCIL has already stated its policy of assenting to continued operation of the project. Additional units could be constructed, although they would be governed by the municipal code.

The board's list of questions has been pending before the Council's committee since last June. It was a response to a resolution adopted three months earlier asking agreement to the annexation procedure.

A new item in the committee's record is a letter from the League of Women Voters, signed by Mrs. Ralph R. Gordon, president, supporting the proposed annexation. The league thus takes the same side as the P-T.A. and numerous school officials.

Said Mrs. Gordon:

"County policing and health services, although the former has improved somewhat since the establishment of the sheriff substation in Lakewood, are still poor and inadequate. . . . Long Beach can and would do a much better job.

"Here is an island of crime and disease, completely surrounding by our city, which cannot help but spill over to the city itself. With annexation Long Beach could control these conditions."

* * * *

SHE NOTED that of the estimated population of 2,700, two-thirds are under the age of 18.

The juvenile delinquency problem is acute, the league president wrote, adding that an organization currently making a survey of the area believes there is "much heroin going in and out of the project."

Councilmen have not yet set a date for renewing their earlier bid for annexation.

Spongbergs Leaving for Far East

Vice Mayor Virgil H. Spongberg is getting set for two overseas welcoming ceremonies in quick succession.

Substituting for Mayor Raymond C. Kealer, Spongberg will leave today by Pan American Clipper for Honolulu, where an official reception is scheduled tonight.

Tuesday he and a party of 70 other city officials and Chamber of Commerce presidents will be welcomed again, this time at Osaka, Japan.

* * * *

THE OCCASION is the annual Japan-American Conference of Mayors and Chamber Officials, which will continue through this week in Osaka.

The group later will visit other Japanese cities for a week, then return via Honolulu. Mr. and Mrs. Spongberg expect to arrive back in Long Beach about Nov. 15.

NEW DISCOVERY FOR HARD OF HEARING

To all readers of the Ind.-P.T. the Diagnostic Offices will give the first treatment for only $3.00.

According to the Basic Diagnostic office it is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Once they try this new and proved method they are overjoyed. Just like magic, in many cases they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the first treatment.

The treatment is simple, it consists of three steps, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given, if the loss it due to catarrh, a different treatment is given, if it is a bone condition, the Tympanic Oscillations treatment is given.

According to Basic Diagnostic 70% of all hard of hearing people will be helped by this method. We believe it is as great a discovery as insulin was for diabetes.

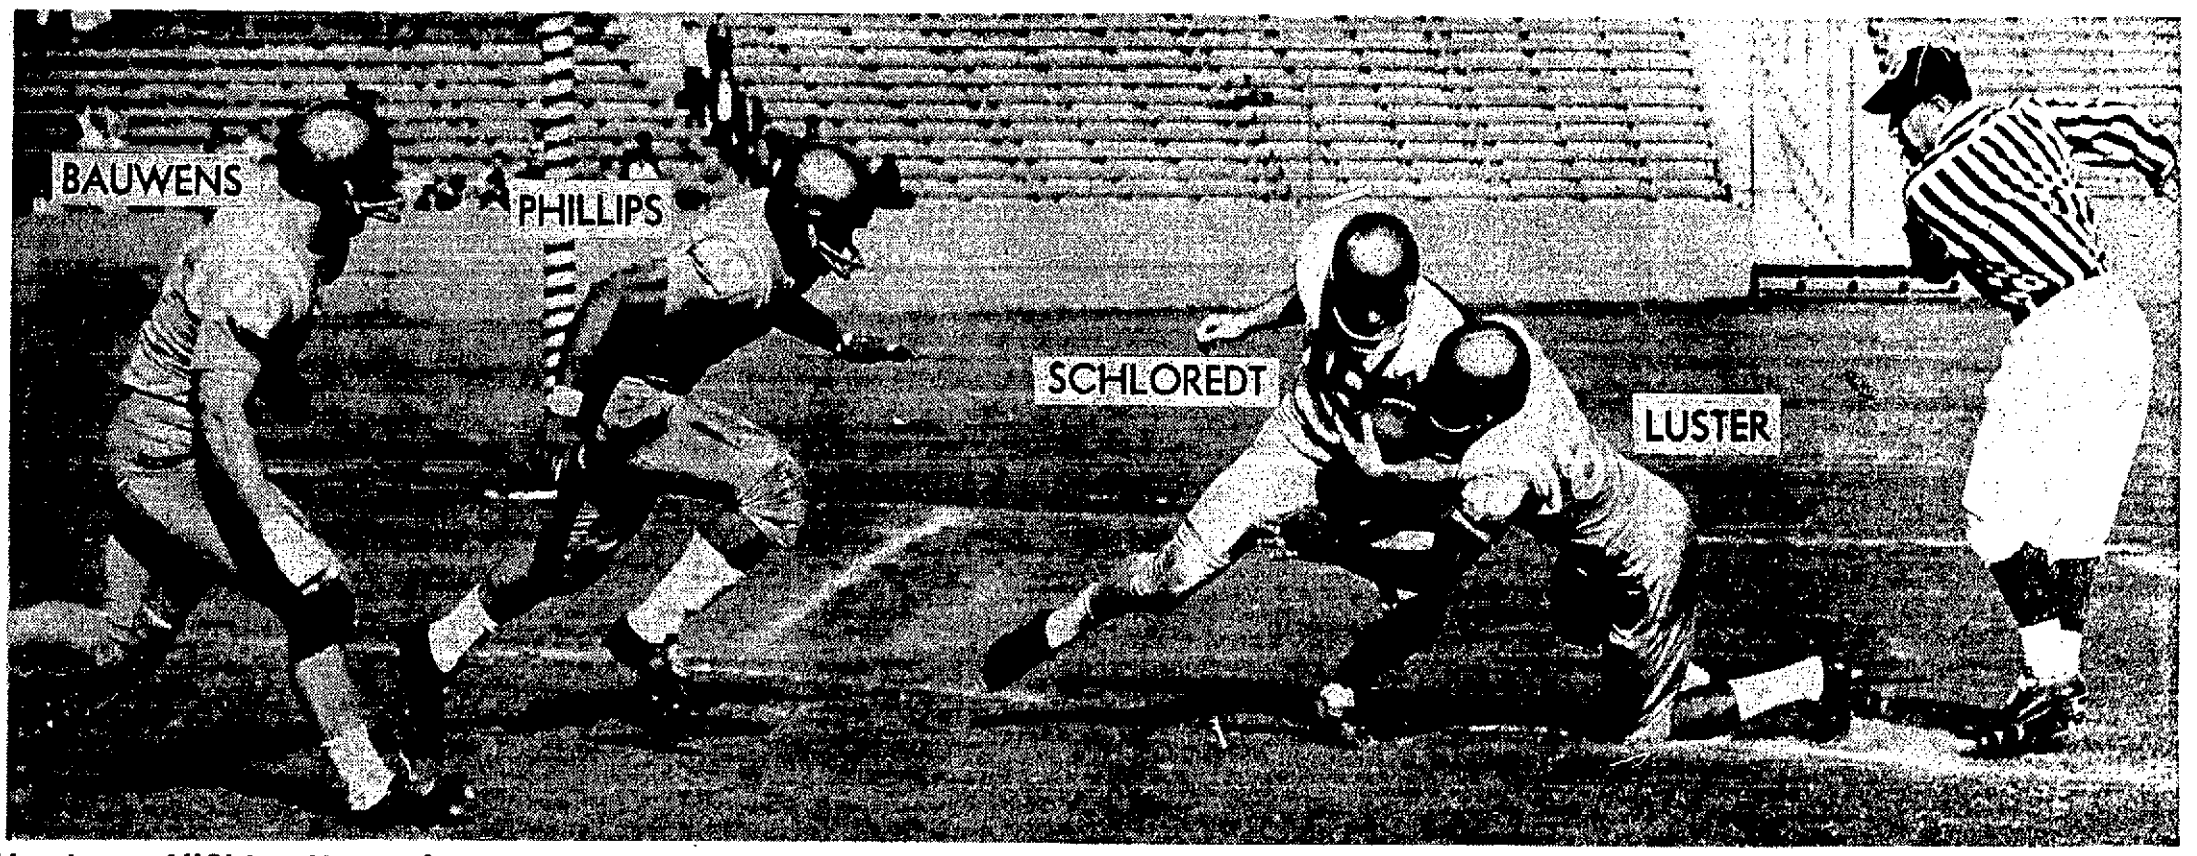

We are so sure that we can help you that we will give you the first treatment for only $3.00 providing you bring in this ad within 10 days from today.

Wood Scores 'Winner' in Final Period

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

BERKELEY — For 5 minutes and 14 seconds Saturday afternoon, the nation's greatest collegiate football upset was in the making, but the sputtering University of Southern California machine finally came to life to scratch out a 14-7 triumph over California's Golden Bears.

A disappointing crowd of 37,000 in Memorial Stadium was shocked at 12:33 of the third quarter when the 14-point underdog Bears, who had dropped five straight decisions, shot in front of the nation's sixth-ranked Trojans, 7-6.

However, the Trojans took the next kickoff and steamrollered through the Bear line like the Cal defenders were paper mache figures to post the winning touchdown with only 2:47 gone in the final period.

Thus, for the third straight week, the once-impregnable Trojans were forced to come from behind to eke out a narrow triumph over a more lightly-regarded opponent.

Two Stunning Plays—and Two Scores

Two stunning plays highlighted the game and both were responsible for touchdowns:

1. Troy fullback Jim Conroy scooped in a screen pass from Willie Wood to ankle 65 yards down the right sideline and the first Trojan touchdown in the initial period.

2. Golden Bear guard Pete Domoto plucked a bobbled SC ball from the air and returned it 33 yards to the Trojan 7-yard line, setting up Cal's only score.

In between those plays, however, most of the action was strictly on the ground, the Trojans winning the ruthless statistics battle there with 287 yards to Cal's 142.

The ferociously-played defensive struggle was highlighted by the ejection of two Trojans, guard Mike McKeever—a stickout again for Troy's muscular defenders—and Conroy. Both were booted from the game for personal fouls, the ejection being the second in a row for Mike "the Knife."

El Trojan opened the scoring on the dazzling Wood-to-Conroy pass play near the end of the first quarter. Willie merely flipped the football to his fullback near the line of scrimmage and behind a horde of blockers Conroy motored beautifully down the right sideline.

Ferocious Blocking Made TD Easy

The Trojan blockers mowed down Cal defenders like they were shocks of wheat on this play, the key, crushing block on the last Golden Bear being applied by halfback Lynn Gaskill, ordinarily not the team's finest blocker.

The attempted conversion misfired when Wood fumbled the pass from center.

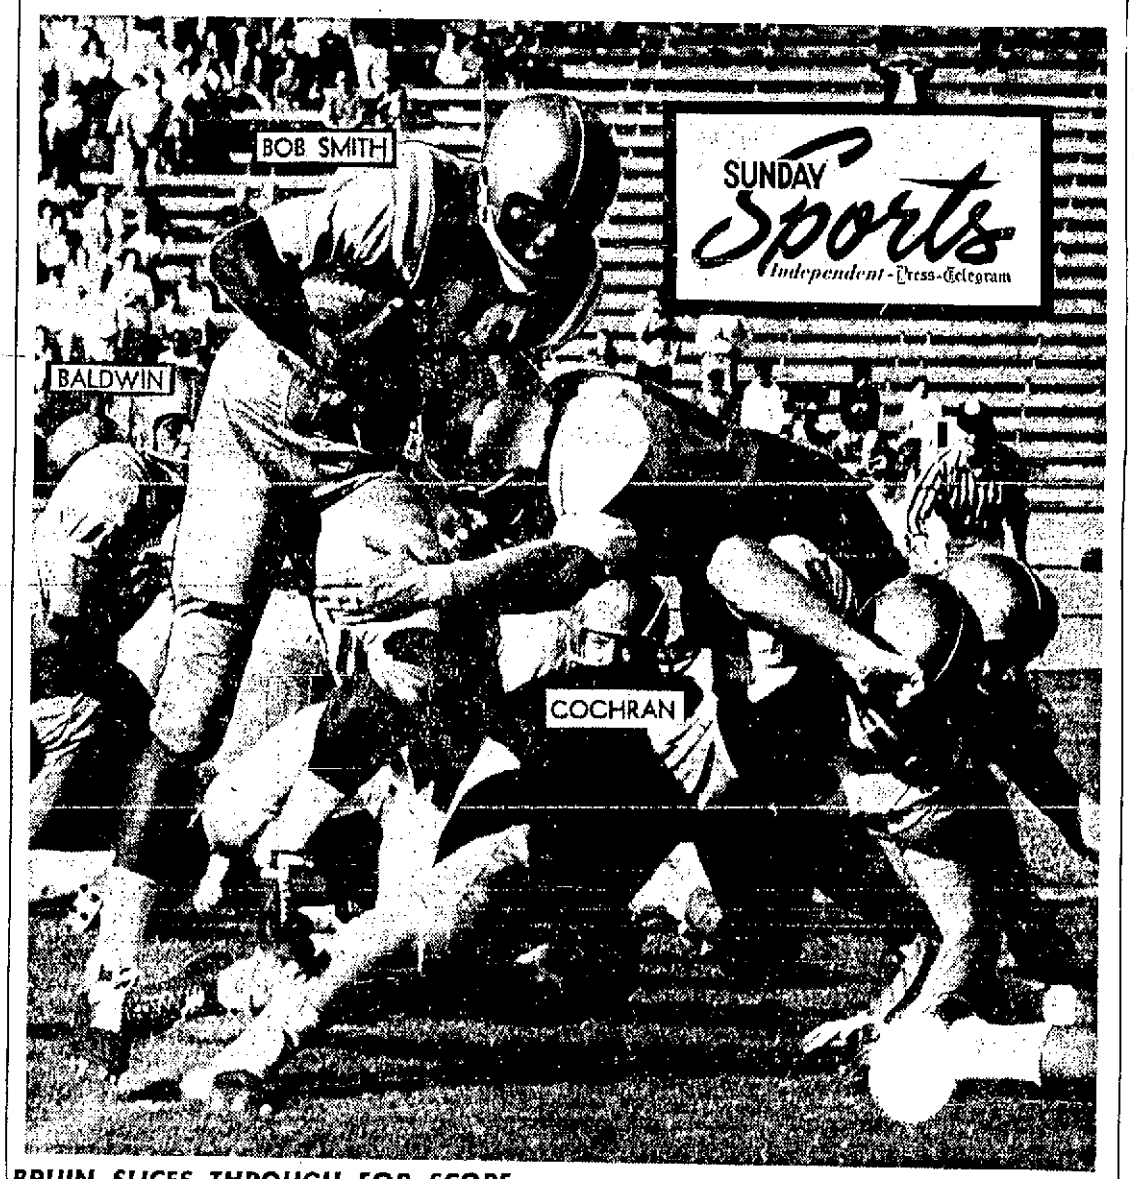

Southern California received two gilt-edged breaks in the second quarter, but couldn't capitalize on either. The first came when Clark Holden intercepted a Bear pass and the second was when Marlin McKeever recovered a fumble on Cal's 47.

SC drove to the Cal one, but in four tries couldn't push into the end zone. This was the first time this season that any team had halted SC within the 10-yard line.

The game remained a rock-and-sock defensive contest until Domoto's unexpected bail steal late in the third quarter. Pistol Pete from Berkeley High School picked off quarterback Al Prukop's fumble in mid-air and blitzed 33 yards to the Trojan 7 before ever-present Gaskill collared him from behind.

Three plays later, Cal had its touchdown, with sophomore Jerry Scattini darting off right guard from the one. Bill Patton, placekicking in only his second game of the

89-YD. TD RUN BY CANNON, 7-3

LSU Halts Rebs on One

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Billy Cannon carried a punt 89 yards through a maze of tacklers for a touchdown Saturday night and Louisiana State's national champions stopped Mississippi's juggernaut on the one-yard line with seconds left to win, 7-3.

In one of the wildest games of the year, Mississippi's third-ranked Rebels crushed the top-rated Tigers for most of the game.

But with 10 minutes left, Cannon took a punt on his 11, made his way down a slippery field and shook off three tacklers for 89 yards and a touchdown.

But Cannon's run seemed to fire the Rebels and they roared back with a 69-yard march that ended on the LSU one. Substitute quarterback Doug Elmore hit the left side of the line in a try for a Mississippi touchdown, but the LSU forward wall stopped him cold.

The victory was the 19th straight for LSU. The loss was the first of the season for Mississippi, third-ranked nationally, after six triumphs.

Mississippi tackle Bobby Khayat's 22-yard field goal had the Rebels in front until Cannon's blazing run sent the Tigers ahead to stay.

Early in the second half, LSU's Wendell Harris tried a field goal from the Mississippi 31, but Rebel guard Marvin Terrell blocked the boot and Larry Grantham recovered on the Ole Miss 13.

LSU's iron-jawed defense kept intact its record of keeping the Tiger goal line uncrossed this year. Khayat's field goal was the third scored against LSU this year.

Schloredt's Passes Ruin UCLA, 23-7

By DAVE LEWIS

Washington's sensational one-eyed quarterback, Bob Schloredt, lived up to his advance notices Saturday with another brilliant come-through performance as he passed for two touchdowns, scored a third himself and set up a field goal with another spectacular aerial maneuver in leading the Huskies to a 23-7 victory over the UCLA Bruian before a Coliseum crowd of 32,838.

The victory was the Huskies' sixth in seven starts and put them in a commanding position in the Rose Bowl race with only three foes remaining to be played—Oregon State, California and Washington State.

It was a bitter blow to the Bruins' hopes of starting up the comeback road, the defeat being the third in five games against one victory and one tie.

It appeared as if the Huskies were about to turn in one of their "typical" Coliseum games—they hadn't won a game in Los Angeles since 1940—when they handed the Bruins a touchdown in the opening minutes of play with a wild snap from center on a fourth-down play that gave UCLA the ball on the Washington one-yard line.

Bruins Come to Life in 3rd Period

The Huskies came storming right back to tie it up, though, and finally moved out to a 14-7 halftime lead.

They were in command until the waning moments of the third period when the Bruins suddenly came to life momentarily after recovering a Washington fumble on the Husky 43-yard line.

Up to that point—nine minutes into the second half—the Bruins hadn't done a thing except for turning Washington's costly centersnap into a touchdown. In fact, they had made only one first down and a total of 43 yards in the first half and only one other first down up to then.

But it was touch-and-go for Washington and its vulnerable seven-point lead in the next few minutes. The Huskies twice had to stave off UCLA bids to get back into the game—recovering Bobby Smith's fumble on the goal line to get out of one troublesome situation, and then holding the Uclans for downs on the 22-yard line before Schloredt pulled them together and got them off the hook with a quick move that resulted in George Fleming's 37-yard field goal and a safe 17-7 lead with only 6:02 left to play.

Smith Fumbles Again, Huskies Recover

The final blow to the Bruin cause came just a few seconds later when Bobby Smith fumbled again on the first play following the kickoff, and center George Pitt recovered on the UCLA 35.

On the very first play, Schloredt passed the 35 yards to end Lee Folkins for the final touchdown that made it 23-7.

Despite the fact that their passing clicked whenever they took to the air, the Huskies for some strange reason stuck mainly to the ground most of the afternoon . . . throwing only 12 times. They completed seven of them, four of which did most of the damage.

Washington supporters were given a rude jolt at the very outset of the game when on what appeared to be a routine fourth-down punt situation from the Husky 35, a bad pass from center sailed over Schloredt's head. The latter recovered on the one-yard line where UCLA took over on downs.

Fullback Ray Smith plunged over from there, but a backs-in-motion penalty nullified the play and set the

Trojan Team Big, Just Like Pros

BERKELEY—Traveling with the Southern California football team this season is like journeying with the Rams, Bears, 49ers, or any other pro club. The 1959 edition of the Trojans is big—and I mean big.

Fully half the club had to stoop to enter the Western Airlines charter plane that winged El Trojan from Los Angeles to Oakland Airport.

"Goodness, these are huge boys," commented the stewardess, who has been on other charter flights with college clubs in the past. "They're the biggest, by far, that I've ever seen. The last team I traveled with had only one or two boys who had to duck to enter the plane, but almost every other one of these youngsters has to duck.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

"There's supposed to be 78 inches from the top to the bottom of the door, so it takes a big man to duck entering that."

Perhaps the biggest "youngsters" on this edition of the Thundering Herd are four tackles: Ron Mix, Garry Finneran, John Wilkins and Dan Ficca. If Wayne Crow or Steve Bates made any yardage through those Giants Saturday, they have to be supermen because those are four of the biggest and roughest-looking collegians I've ever seen.

Big Men All Around

"Man, I'm glad they're on my side," chuckled Willie Wood, the tricky quarterback, when I mentioned his huge tackles. "It makes the guy calling signals feel pretty good to know he's got fellows like those in front of him. Not coming at him.

"Somebody said Dick Norman of Stanford started throwing jump passes last Saturday because he wanted to get the heck out of the way of our big guys. If that's true, Norman's the smartest quarterback on the coast because those guys could make a meatball out of him if they ever squashed him.

"This Trojan club is one of the Figueroa Street institution's greatest of all-time—and, believe me, size has plenty to do with its success."

SAN FRANCISCO PAPERS ARE making a big point this week that the Bay Area is being visited by the most infamous "hatchet men" in football—Detroit's Jim David and SC's McKeever twins.

"We still hate David here," steamed one oldtime San Francisco morning paper columnist," and he deserves every bit of it. When he put the 49er quarterback, Y. A. Tittle, out of commission a few years ago with a broken jaw, it was the dirtiest play I've ever seen."

David's tendencies are still there. Last week against the Rams in the Coliseum, he was all knees and elbows any time a pileup was available. As for the McKeevers, SC publicist Don Richman said he has taken a beating about them during his rounds of luncheons and various functions this past week.

"If they had razors tied to their elbows, they'd slash every team they met to ribbons," cracked one columnist.

"Is either one of those animal twins housebroken yet? another asked Richman.

"They don't bother me," said Richman,—I'm only glad those unhousebroken animals are on our side."

GRABBING THE BRASS RINGS: The old Blues at Cal are upset not a little at the poor performances of the Golden Bears, who had dropped five straight decisions prior to the SC tilt. The word is that Pete Elliott's days are numbered and the No. 1 man to replace him is Eddie Erdelatz, who apparently is looking over the shoulders of every unsuccessful coach west of the Appalachians.

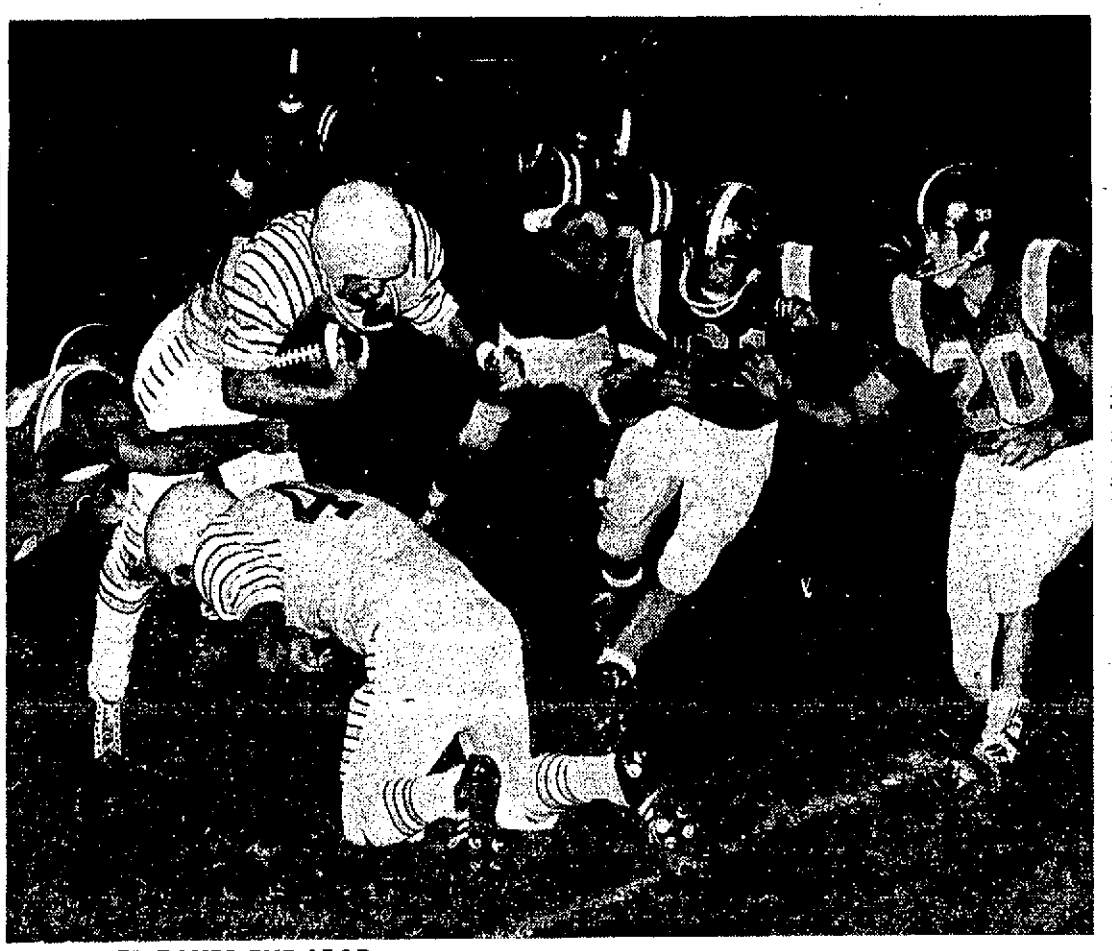

You hear, too, that Ram owners are finished with Sid Gillman unless the Rams do nothing less than win the Western Division title. Second place is no good, because this was the year the Rams were rigged to go all the way —regardless.

If you've wondered what SC tackle Ron Mix has around his neck during every game it's a towel. "When I perspire I get a stiff neck real fast," explained Mix, "so the towel gets the muscles loose."

Clark Holden, muscled SC fullback, had reason to rejoice this week after scoring four touchdowns against Stanford. Outside of one touchdown last year, Holden hadn't scored a point in three seasons with Troy.

L. B. STATE TAKES THE LEAD

Long Beach State College halfback Ron Bridwell slips out of arms of would-be Cal Poly tackler and hurdles over own teammate to score game's first touchdown Saturday night. Bridwell's five-yard reverse play culminated a first quarter, 71-yard drive by the 49ers.——(Staff Photo.)

By JERRY WYNN

Long Beach State's grid dream of the past few weeks turned into a Halloween nightmare Saturday night as Cal Poly of Pomona exploded for 22 points in the third quarter for a 28-7 victory at Veterans Stadium.

The loss was bitter candy for the 49ers to swallow. They had hoped to use the non-conference game as the springboard to a winning season. Instead they were lumped with their fourth defeat against three wins, with Pepperdine and Fresno State left to play.

Before a gathering of about 4,000 (officially 2,618) on all-Long Beach Band Night, the host club appeared to experience the letdown feared for them. Time after time in the first half it frittered away scoring opportunities when a substantial lead might have been compiled.

It was no contest in the second half. Trailing 7-6, Cal Poly came out roaring with two touchdowns in seven minutes and added another with 1:15 left in the third stanza. Long Beach never recovered.

* * * *

THE 49er ground game was limited to 44 net yards by a surprisingly strong Bronco defensive unit called the Arabs. And the L.B. passing game, which accounted for 178 yards, was hurt by four interceptions.

Heroes for the victors were quarterback George Swade who passed for two touchdowns and scored one, and fullback Gary Burnett who scored once and gained 109 yards in 14 carries. The key to the Bronco success in the third quarter was their exploitation of the Long Beach flanks on runs and passes.

Long Beach had 44 plays from scrimmage to only 22 for Cal Poly in the first half but failed to cash in on four recovered fumbles, one intercepted pass and two successful onsides kickoffs.

* * * *

AFTER THREE unsuccessful forays deep into Cal Poly territory — one which ended when Mike Black's 11-yard field goal attempt hit the crossbar — the 49ers finally scored with 2:20 left in the first period.

Ron Bridwell capped a 71-yard, 11-play advance with a five-yard reverse into the end zone. Black booted the PAT for a 7-0 49er lead. Key plays were runs of 21 and 9 yards by Gordy Henderson and a 12-yard pass from Jerry Nicholson to Roger Temple.

Moments later, Long Beach had a first down on the Cal Poly four but couldn't budge the ball in four plays. On fourth down, Roger Hull fooled all but one defender on a razzle-dazzle faked field goal.

* * * *

THE BRONCOS got into the scoring column with 5:08 left in the quarter after an intercepted pass gave them the ball on the Long Beach 32. Five plays later, Burnett tallied on a five-yard slant.

Cal Poly's first third quarter TD came on a 66-yard, 8-play advance with Swade passing 24 yards to John Hardy for the six points. Swade tallied a two-point conversion on a rollout.

The Broncos came right back the next time they had the ball, traveling 68 yards in five quickies. Swade's passing took the ball to the three from where he scored on a keeper.

Cal Poly went only 28 yards on its last TD foray after recovering a fumble. Swade's 23-yard toss to Hardy was the payoff. Burnett bucked over the conversion.

Long Beach got as far as the Cal Poly 9 in a fourth quarter drive. It typified a futile game for the 49ers.

VIKINGS BLOW LEAD, 26-12

Santa Monica Downs LBCC

By JIM HANCHETT

Halfback George Hughley and running mate Tom Flufty broke open a tight game with fourth quarter touchdowns Saturday night to lead Santa Monica City College to a 26-12 victory over Long Beach City College in Corsair Stadium.

For at least the first half, the Vikes had a lopsided statistical advantage in addition to a 12-6 margin on the scoreboard. However, the Corsairs stormed back to tie the score in the third period and wrapped up the victory in the final quarter.

In the opening minutes of the game it appeared that the Vikings would bounce right back into the middle of the conference title race.

The second time the Vikings got the ball they drove 59 yards in seven plays to take a 6-0 lead. Jim Jerauld swept around right end from the six for the touchdown. The key play in the march was a 21-yard burst up the middle by fullback Dick Merritt which put the ball on the Corsair one. A backfield in motion penalty preceded Jerauld's TD dash.

* * * *

SANTA MONICA retaliated after the kickoff as it marched 66 yards in 12 tries for the touchdown. Hughley, the Metropolitan Conference's second leading scorer, provided the six points from the one on the second play of the second quarter.

Long Beach threatened to retake the lead on its next series of downs as Jerauld streaked 61 yards up the middle to the Corsair 24 before being dragged down from behind. Merritt bowled over four tacklers as he sprinted 16 yards to the eight, but Phiu Ortiz fumbled on the ensuing play and Santa Monica recovered.

* * * *

MINUTES LATER Viking end Erle Kelley recovered a bobbled punt on the Santa Monica 17. Four plays later Mickey Castricone sliced off tackle from the five for the go-ahead TD.

But the second half was a different story.

Third string quarterback Rich Garbish engineered an 83-yard drive in the early minutes of the third period to tie the score. His pass to end Vince Guercio provided the payoff from the nine.

After that the Long Beach offense was futile.

* * * *

THE NEXT TIME the Corsairs got the ball, Hughley and Flufty sparked a 45-yard drive which put the Corsairs ahead to stay. Flufty drove over from the one.

As Long Beach took to the air in an attempt to get back in the game, Hughley intercepted a Pete Yoder pass and romped 45-yards untouched to paydirt.

The Vikings held a wide 158-39 yard advantage in the first half rushing statistics, however, Santa Monica earned an equally big edge in the second half, 157-48.

Wilson Scores 32 to Spark Utah, 54-6

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The sensational running of halfback Larry Wilson and the smooth passing of quarterback Ken Vierra carried Utah to an easy 54-6 intersectional football victory over outclassed Arizona Saturday.

Wilson, a 21-year-old senior from Rigby, Idaho, set an all-time Utah individual single scoring record with 32 points. He scored three touchdowns on short runs and caught two touchdown passes.

LINCOLN STARS

Cougars Put Stop to OSC Surge

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Washington State stopped cold Oregon State's mid-season surge and carried off a 14-0 victory in a football game between two Pacific Northwest independents here Saturday.

Halfback Keith Lincoln was the prime force in the first drive, which gave the visitors an 8-0 lead in the first quarter.

Lincoln touched it off with a 33-yard punt return, and ate up more yardage in end sweeps in the 45-yard march.

Quarterback Mike Agee produced the first touchdown, however. When Lincoln bobbled a pitchout, Agee snatched up the bouncing ball and circled right end for nine yards and the score.

Lincoln was having a great day until he was injured midway through the third quarter. By that time, he had run for 119 yards from scrimmage.

Halfback Perry Harper replaced Lincoln ably and accounted for the final touchdown with a five-yard romp around right end.

Lincoln came back in the fourth period but was shaken up again the first time he carried the ball. He suffered a bruised back.

Oregon Keeps Bowl Hopes Alive, 45-7

MOSCOW (UPI)—The University of Oregon Ducks proved they are still very much in the Rose Bowl race Saturday as they moved with equal ease in the air and on the ground to crush outclassed University of Idaho, 45-7.

The Vandals, suffering their seventh straight loss, scored on a 68-yard drive the first time they got the ball, but might as well have gone back to the dressing room after that.

Six Oregon men scored — halfback Willie West was the only repeater—as the Ducks marked up two touchdowns in the second one period, four in the third, and one with under a minute remaining in the game.

The Ducks didn't look much like Rose Bowl material in the first period as the Vandals halted three Oregon drives. Idaho's lone score came when Gary Farnworth ran over from the four, 15 plays after Oregon had been forced to kick out of bounds on the Idaho 32.

Indians Out-Duel San Jose, 54-38

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford's Dick Norman, shooting for normal collegiate passing honors, pitched the Indians to a 54-38 victory over San Jose State Saturday in a football game practically devoid of defense.

Norman, improving on his nationwide lead both in total offense and passing, tossed touchdown passes of 58 and 35 yards to ends Ben Robinson and Chris Burford, the latter the No. 1 pass catcher in the country.

Norman connected in the first half alone for 6 of 12 for 138 yards. He hit on 12 of 22 for 261 yards over-all.

And when Norman wasn't passing, fullbacks Archie Schmitt and Skip Face were running. Schmitt scored twice on runs of 2 and 24 yards while Face scored 21 points. Face went 7 for one and 24 for another, kicked a 30-yard field goal and marked up six conversion points, two by runs and two with place kicks.

Halfback Mack Wylie was conspicuous on at least four key Stanford blocks and intercepted two passes, one good for a touchdown.

Sputtering Trojans Fight Off Cal

campaign, split the uprights to set the scoreboard blazing, Cal 7, SC 6.

The affront stung El Trojan into action and in an 11-play drive from the Cal 48, SC powered into its lead and victory.

Wood set the stage for the killing when he ran the Bear kickoff from his own 18 to the 48. With Alan Shields, another blasting SC soph, carrying the porker seven times in the drive, the Trojans pulverized the Cal forward wall.

Jerry Mollett hit center for 3, then Shields went off right guard twice for eight yards. Wood circled his right end for another seven. Then Shields smashed through right tackle for four more.

Finding a manhole at right tackle, Shields drilled the spot three straight times for 12 yards, before Mollett picked up the script and added nine straight through center.

There was no stopping the angry Trojan at this point. Weary Shields grabbed two more at his favorite watering hole—right tackle—then Wood applied the convincer when he sprinted seven yards around left end into the golden land.

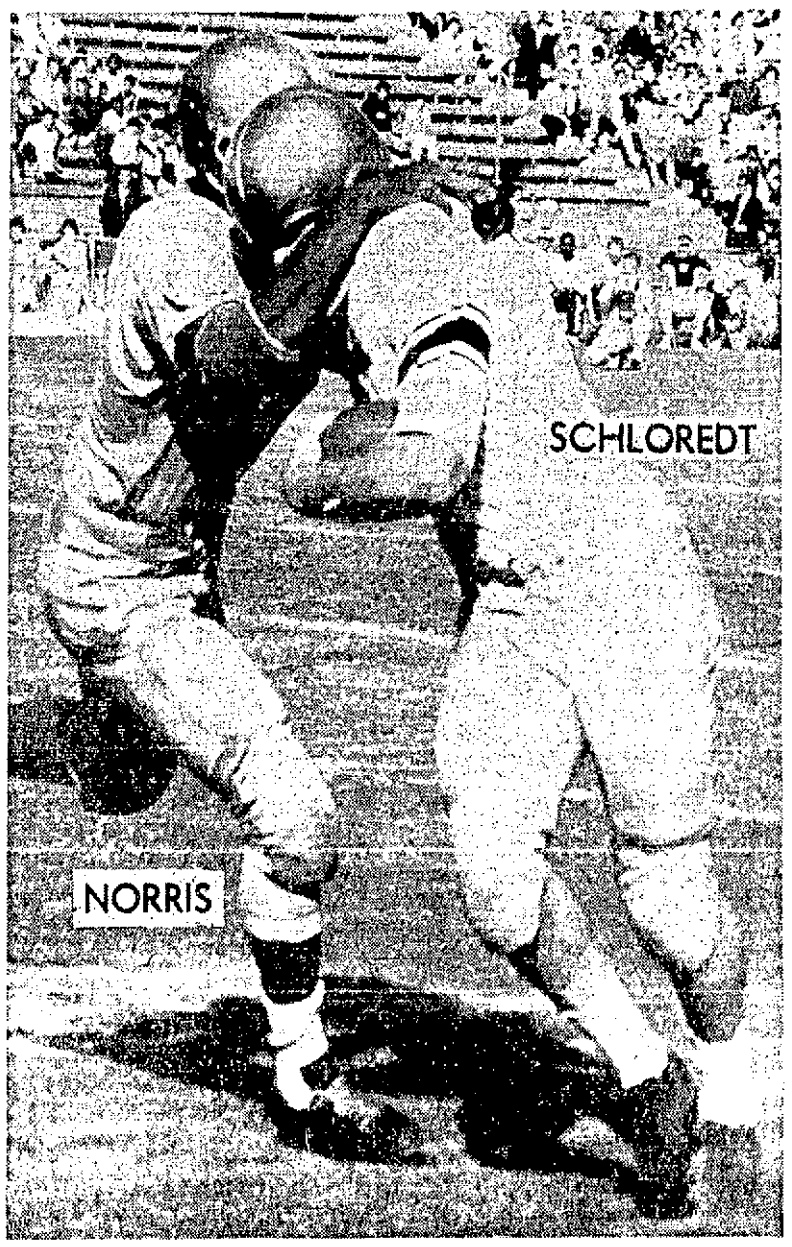

Mike McKeever sent the final Bear defender spinning five yards with a devastating block on the touchdown play.

SC's only successful conversion in two games came at this point when Angle Cola took advantage of the right tackle situation and ambled through the gate for two points.

A last-ditch Bear drive was halted by Wood in the final minute when Willie intercepted a pass. For this effort, among other things, Willie was named back-of-the-game.

Lineman-of-the-game honors went to—who else?—Mike "the Knife", who made almost one-half the Trojan tackles on this almost-disastrous Trojan day.

Lost Early Season Edge, Clark Laments

By DOUG IVES
(I, P-T Staff Writer)

BERKELEY—"I just don't know what's the matter. We've lost our early season edge and haven't been able to regain it. We're just not improving like we should."

These were the words of SC coach Don Clark after his Trojans narrowly escaped with a 14-7 victory over Cal Saturday afternoon.

"We missed the chance to break the game wide open when we failed on the one-yard line," said Clark. Leading 8-0, SC tried four times to score from the Cal one in the second period, but was turned away each time.

* * * *

THE AMIABLE Trojan coach gave Cal most of the credit for thwarting three other SC drives, but hastened to say that on each occasion the Trojans should have scored. "We lacked offensive continuity," moaned the Trojan boss.

"Cal had an abnormal desire to win this one," said Clark. "Take a look at some of our boys and you'll know just how hard they hit." At least six Trojans were injured, and Willie Wood and Clark Holden may not see action against West Virginia.

It was a rock-em, sock-em game from start to finish and the Bears also felt the sting of the "lay-em-out" Trojan defense.

* * * *

THREE OF CAL'S starting backs — Wayne Crow, Jerry Scattini and Steve Bates — were battered so badly by the crunching Troy defense that the latter two may be out for the season. Bates suffered a fractured cheek bone.

SC's "animals," Mike and Marlin McKeever, did most of the damage. Big Mike was ejected from the game for the second straight week. Mike was called for roughing the passer in the final period.

Fullback Jim Conroy got the heave-ho in the fourth period for "unnecessary use of the feet" on Scattini, which sent the Bear to the sidelines for the remainder of the game.

"Penalties hurt us, as usual," said Clark. "It seems like every game we lose a TD or two because of penalties, but I certainly can't tell these guys not to be aggressive."

Cal coach Pete Elliott passed out bouquets in the Cal dressing room, calling the game the "best defensive effort of the year" by his team, which now has lost six straight.

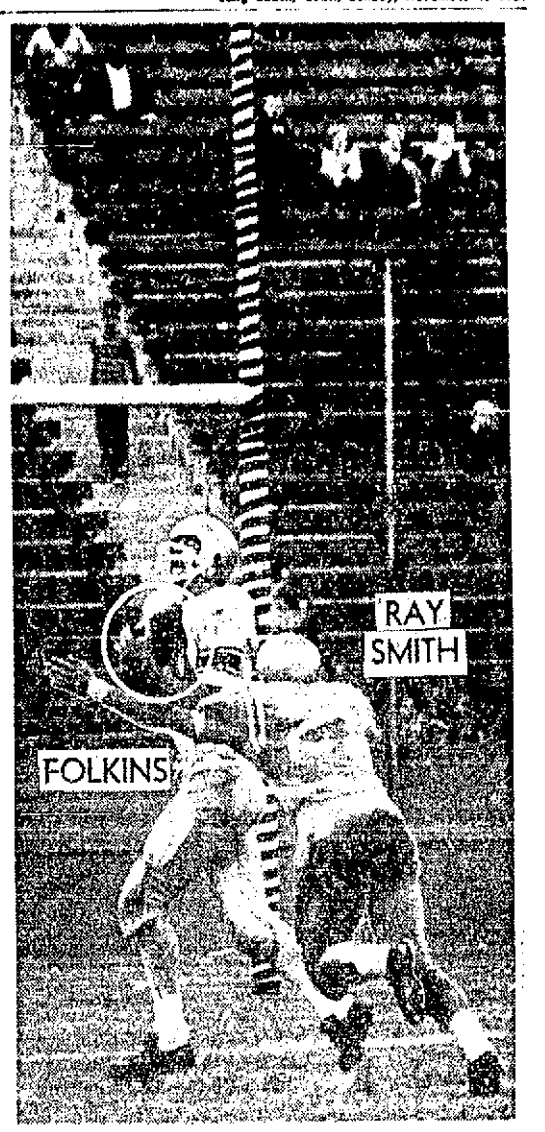

Elliott was lamenting the fact that the Bears, who never showed any kind of an offensive drive, lost to the heavily-favored Trojans. "When you play that hard you deserve to win, and I'm sick about that," said Elliott.

Mike McKeever was voted the game's outstanding lineman, and top back of the game honors went to SC's Willie Wood.

Bruins back to the six . . . but Bobby Smith came right back on a drive inside right end for the TD at 6:34. Ivory Jones' placement made it 7-0.

The Huskies came charging back with a 63-yard scoring advance sparked by a 44-yard pass from Schloredt to Fleming on the UCLA 21. Three plays later, Schloredt whipped a 14-yard pass to Fleming for the tally. Fleming's kick tied it up, 7-7, at 9:34.

Washington assumed a 14-7 lead midway in the second quarter with a crunching 60-yard ground attack featuring Ray Jackson's plunges through the middle and Schloredt's rollouts, with a big assist from Fleming, who contributed a key 16-yard gain to the six-yard line on a sweep around left end. Schloredt capped the nine-play march by banging over from the one. Fleming's kick was good.

UCLA showed no signs of troubling Washington until late in the third quarter when Jones recovered Jackson's fumble on the Husky 44.

The Smiths — Bobby and Ray — led a booming drive that carried to the Washington two-yard line before Bobby fumbled when hit hard on a plunge over right tackle and Fleming grabbed the ball in mid-air on the Husky one as the third quarter ended.

The Bruins got the ball on the Husky 43 when Washington punted and they reached the 23 before Bill Kilmer was nailed on the 22 far short of a first down on a fourth-and-eight play.

From there, Washington moved into position for Fleming's field goal from the UCLA 27 (37 yards overall) on the strength of a spectacular 35-yard aerial strike from Schloredt to Folkins on the UCLA 42.

Schloredt took the handoff from center, reversed to Fleming, who in turn pitched it back to the Huskies' celebrated one-eyed quarterback, who then threw downfield to Folkins.

Just 72 seconds after the field goal, the Huskies rang the bell with the same Schloredt-to-Folkins combination after Bobby Smith's fumble on the 35.

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Fullback Jack Spikes led Texas Christian as it stretched its victory string to four straight, rolling over Baylor 14-0 in soupy weather Saturday night.

Baylor threatened twice on a passing attack but Texas Christian took no chances with the drizzle—slick ball, power-drilling through the Baylor line 80 yards on 18 plays for its first-period touchdown.

Our Mistakes, Their Passes Did It-Barnes

By JEROME HALL

Over the hush of the somber crowd spilling out of the Coliseum Saturday was heard one happy voice, saying:

"I prefer these college games to the pros because I guess I'm just not a perfectionist and I enjoy seeing the kids make all those mistakes."

It was plain to the 32,837 other spectators that sat in on Washington's 23-7 decision over UCLA that this guy had an immensely enjoyable afternoon.

* * * *

A FEW MOMENTS later Bruin coach Bill Barnes broke through the solemnity of the UCLA dressing quarters with:

"There's no doubt about it, our mistakes killed us."

So, after 19 years without a Coliseum triumph over UCLA, the Huskies cashed in with a big one that opens the way to the Rose Bowl.

"You let 'em throw those long TD passes and you haven't got a chance," said Barnes. "Heck, we knew they were coming. We worked hard on them all week. They (Washington) didn't do anything all day that we didn't expect."

The Huskies got 158 yards on seven pass completions (and two touchdowns). So we asked Bruin assistant coach Johnny Johnson who was the rim-of-the stadium spotter, "What's wrong with the pass defense?"

"The same thing that's wrong when we can't hold onto the ball after driving all the way to the goal line—sophomore-itis."

Which points up the biggest Bruin mistake of the day—tailback Bobby Smith's fumble at the Husky goal line which would have pulled the Uclans up to 13-14 and provided the go-ahead conversion.

Barnes said, certainly, his general outlook is one of disappointment, but "I can't say I'm really disappointed with my kids' performance. They were toe-to-toe with 'em for three quarters and going for the lead touchdown when that fumble came. Remember, this is the team that gave SC so much trouble.

"It is a good solid team."

Washington coach Jim Owens refused to comment on his club's Rose Bowl position. But he did insert his opinion that there is no such thing as a "Coliseum jinx" on Washington teams.

(Washington last beat UCLA in the Coliseum in 1940 and hasn't beaten SC there since '50.) "It's purely a matter of talent."

Owens said he thought the UCLA fumbles were more a matter of his team's hard-charging tactics than Bruin mistakes. "Teams have been fumbling against us all year."

When the Huskies coach was asked what kind of an evaluation of the UCLA pass defense he would make if he were writing a scout report, he gave a sneering laugh, made a long pause then replied straight-faced: "We just happened to execute our pass plays real well."

* * * *

OWENS SAID he was not forced to make any adjustments. "They ran what we thought they would."

Last year Barnes unveiled his "W" formation at Seattle and ran the Huskies into the ground. This time the "W" was ineffective because the Bruin blocking was ineffective.

After UCLA passed only once (incomplete) in the first half, Barnes told his tailbacks to toss it around a little more in the second half.

The Bruins completed two of five in the second half (one completion for Bill Kilmer, one for Dean Moore for a total of 40 yards).

Barnes closed the conversations by pointing out a couple more Bruin mistakes:

"When we were in the "W" formation, we should have run wide, but didn't. When we were in our tight single wing, we didn't run inside tackle enough."

Now, there are a couple of mistakes that the immensely happy football fan in the first paragraph didn't even notice.

NEW YORK (AP) — The newly formed American Football League will hold its first draft meeting for the selection of college seniors Nov. 23, it was announced Saturday.

Fishin' Around

Saskatchewan Waters Rewarding

Saskatchewan's famous big trout and northern pike lured 24 Southern Californians—four from Long Beach—to Lac La Ronge in the second annual Ham Bennett mass flight this year, and, as they landed at Los Angeles, they started planning the third trip for 1960.

And why not? They brought home 1,300 pounds of trout and pike fillets! Where else in North America can 24 men return with such rich rewards for a fishing trip?

The Long Beach men making the trip in September were Fire Chief Frank Sandeman; Lee Boswell, 3902 California Ave.; Len Bendinger, 744 Santiago Ave., and Walter Scott, 4255 Chestnut Ave.

Also, for the first time, two women, Barbara Dukes and Beth Eaton, both of Burbank, joined the crowd this year, and gave a remarkable exhibition of fishing in one of Canada's most famous lakes.

Gene Aylesworth, president of the International Association of Spin-Fishing Clubs and a member of the 1958 party; Dick Graves, of the Long Beach Spin-Fishing Club, and this writer reviewed the 1959 trip last week at the Hal Roach Studios in Culver City. Several camera-minded members of the party showed slides and movies, which left all of us with angling blood pressure. And that's high, son!

THE FLIGHT FROM LOS ANGELES was made in a chartered DC3 plane, with a couple of pilots who won high praise for their skill in landing and taking off at La Ronge on a strip normally used only by lighter planes. The trip lasted nine days, with seven of those spent fishing in the lake which embraces a thousand square miles.

Ham Bennett, a renowned projectionist for many years at Roach Studios, got the idea for the 1958 mass flight from a FISHIN' AROUND column describing the wonders of Saskatchewan. Last year he persuaded 19 others—he didn't have to twist their arms very much—to accompany him.

This year, several were turned away because of the limited space in the DC3. Already most of those who went this year have signified their intention of returning, so it looks as though if others are added, Ham will be forced to charter another plane.

The cost to each was $375, which paid for the round-trip flight, lodging at Red's Camp (La Ronge), meals, boats and guides. That's a small price when you consider that normal air transportation from here to Regina is about that much—and you are still 600 miles short of the La Ronge goal.

THE LONG BEACH FISHERMEN classed the junket as "the best trip of their lives." Sandeman, a former logger in British Columbia and a real outdoorsman, said that he had never seen such fabulous fishing. And indeed it was, because no trout under eight pounds was caught! The average was around 10 and even higher for the northern pike. Both species were taken by trolling and by plug-casting.

With two trips behind them, the anglers already have set the date for the 1960 junket, starting the Friday preceding Labor Day and returning the following weekend.

In addition to the women, Bennett and the Long Beach group, those making the trip were Clint Althouse, Harry Barner, Burnell Beckham, William Briggs, L. Brolsma, Cliff Collins, Manny Farber, Kenneth Farber, Lou James, Boris Thorersen, H. G. Whitesides, John Klessas, Scott Larsen, Ken Rohrer and Joe Sliakis. Pilot was Don Korischek, with Paul Rakasit as copilot.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—There was a sudden upsurge in yellowtail fishing at San Diego toward the end of the week, with few takers. Thursday's total, for instance, showed 184 passengers with full limits and all the way 'round. That kind of fishing sounds like midsummer.

If you are planning to try for quail or chukar prior to the Southern California opener two weeks hence, look over the northern shore of Isabelle Lake, Kelso Valley and Walkers Pass. Remember that those chukars move fast and head for the rocky slopes. It's tough hunting, no matter what your age may be.

Guy Lombardo, the orchestra leader, may try for a world hydroplane record within the next three weeks, possibly at the Salton Sea, although final arrangements have not been completed. Lombardo, at a press conference in Los Angeles, said he believed that his boat, the all-aluminum, jet-powered Tempo Alcoa, can make 300 miles per hour under the right conditions. The record of 260.35 is now held by Donald Campbell, of England.

Carpentier Heads Aud Mat Bouts

Edouard Carpentier, conqueror of Lou Thesz and considered the greatest champion wrestling ever has known, will headline a double main event card at the Municipal Auditorium next Friday night.

Carpentier, who ended Thesz' long grappling reign last June, is a dynamic, exciting ring artist, fully deserving of the acclaim he has received all over the U.S. since winning the title.

Carpentier will meet Bob (Legs) Wilson in the night's finale. The other bout of main event caliber matches Alberto Torres and Count Billy Varga.

Longhorns Stampede SMU, 21-0

DALLAS (AP) — Texas shocked Southern Methodist with a touchdown in the first three minutes, with an electrifying 51-yard pass from Jack Collins to Monte Lee setting it up, and went on its undefeated, untied way with a 21-0 victory Saturday.

It kept fourth nationally ranked Texas high on top of the Southwest Conference race.

A crowd of 65,000 sat under ashen skies to watch Texas thoroughly outplay the Methodists, fairly well contain passer Don Meredith and hold SMU scoreless for the first time in 17 games.

Rivers TKO's Lincoln in Sixth Round

Neal Rivers, 167, Los Angeles, scored a technical knockout over Carlton Lincoln, 166, Portland, Ore., Saturday night after 2 minute, 56 seconds of the sixth round. It was a scheduled 10-round bout.

Rivers, former California middleweight champion, was behind on points going into the sixth round when he caught up with Lincoln and floored him with a left hook for an eight count.

He soon had the Portland boxer helpless from a barrage of lefts and rights, and referee Dick Young wisely stopped the bout.

RHINOS SEEK EIGHTH WIN AT SANTA ANA

The Anaheim Rhinos face another soft touch in their semi-pro football schedule this afternoon when they meet Seal Beach Navy in a rematch at Santa Ana Bowl. Three weeks ago, the Rhinos walloped the Navy squad, 69-0.

The Rhinos have scored 284 points while allowing but 67.

Dial Joins Rockets for Winter League Season

Bill Dial, promising left-hander with Salt Lake of the PCL, has joined the Long Beach Rockets' pitching staff for this afternoon's Winter League contest against the Cincinnati Reds' farm hands of Los Angeles. The game will be played at Blair Field beginning at 2 p.m.

Dial held the Dodger All-Stars hitless in two innings here Wednesday night. He will divide the pitching with right hander Bill Bouley, who hurled the Rockets to a 6-3 win over the L.A. Angels in last week's league opener. Bouley went the distance, allowing eight hits.

Vern Highfield and Jim Pagliaroni will split the catching. The rest of manager Jack Graham's lineup includes Bob McCall, first base; Chuck Winslow, second base; Nick Hopkins, shortstop; Ray Steel, third base; and an outfield of Ev Pearson, Don Adams and Bob Carter.

Warfare, 'Dancer' in Big Wins

(Compiled from AP & UPI)

Sword Dancer and Warfare laid claims to "horse of the year" honors in their respective divisions Saturday as each scored impressive victories in rich stakes.

Sword Dancer, undisputed king of the three-year olds, wrapped up "horse of the year" honors at Aqueduct as he defeated all-time leading money winner Round Table by seven lengths in the $100,000-added Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Eddie Arcaro let Sword Dancer run as he pleased for most of the two-mile event before taking the Brookmeade Stable star to the lead turning for home. Round Table, ridden for the first time by Paul Bailey, finished a length in front of the early pace-setter Tudor Era.

Warfare, owned by the Bellehurst Stable of Buena Park, Calif., cut loose a powerful stretch run to win the $283,075 Garden State Stakes and sew up "two-year old of the year" honors.

Field Goal by Stickles Sinks Navy

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Monty Stickles, a specialist in cliffhanger rescues, booted a 43-yard field goal through a gloomy drizzle with 32 seconds left to play Saturday to give Notre Dame a 25-22 victory over Navy.

Stickles' kick before a sell-out crowd of 58,652 capped a desperation rally by an Irish team which had been hobbled by fumbles and pass interceptions.

It was the third time that Stickles, now a senior, had saved the day for the Irish with a field goal. As a sophomore, his fourth period kick gave Notre Dame a 23-21 victory over Army. Last season Stickles booted a third period goal for the deciding edge in a 9-7 victory over Duke.

* * * *

SATURDAY'S WIN was only the third of the season for Notre Dame, but it took an inspired fourth period, in which the Irish scored twice, to get it.

The Irish led 14-13 at the half, but a fumble by Ray Perkowski turned into a Navy touchdown and then an interception of George Izo's pass was converted into a Navy field goal. The Middies were in front 22-14 until midway in the fourth period, when quarterback Don White got the winning drive under way.

* * * *

WHITE, ONE OF three Irish signal callers to see action, started with a 27-yard pass to Les Traver. Ray Ratkowski picked up 19 around end to put the ball on Navy's two and Bob Scarpitto cut through the middle for a touchdown.

White put the Irish into a 22-22 tie by hitting Ratkowski with a two-point conversion pass.

Notre Dame was on the move again with less than a minute to play, smashing through the Navy third team. But a holding penalty ended the drive, and with barely a half minute left Stickles kicked the winner.

Notre Dame	7	7	0	11	25
Navy	7	6	9	0	22

Navy—Maxfield, 1 plunge (Mather kick).
ND—Sefcik, 13 runs (Stickles kick).
ND—Scarpitto, 48 pass interception (Stickles kick).
Navy—Mankowich, 38 pass from Maxfield (kick failed).
Navy—Parseau, 6 pass from Maxfield (pass failed).
Navy—Mather, field goal from 30.
ND—Scarpitto, 2 run (White pass to Ratkowski).
ND—Stickles, field goal from 43.

Expect Over 70,000 to View 'Elimination'

By JACK TEELE

The Chicago Bears and the Rams, pre-season favorites to fight the Colts to the wire in the Western Division title race, today fight each other at the Coliseum for a place in the chase.

Kickoff for football's answer to the "Fight for Lives (their own)" is scheduled for 1:30. More than 70,000 persons are expected to attend.

If any one in the Coliseum today had dared to predict, at the outset of the NFL season, that the Rams and Bears would show a combined loss total of seven after five Sundays of play, he could have named his price.

But such is the situation as the once-proud gridiron gladiators battle on death's doorstep in the Coliseum ring. Either the Rams (2-3) or the Bears (1-4) could lose all title chance with a defeat.

* * * *

IF ONE MUST die, the oddsmakers are betting it will be the Bears. The Rams, who produced a 28-21 upset in Chicago three weeks ago, are favored to repeat by the same seven-point margin.

Supporting Ram hopes for their third straight victory over Papa Halas and his "Mysteries of the Midway" are NFL statistics and Chicago's injury list.

Latest NFL stats show that Halas' touted trio of running backs, Johnny Morris, Willie Galimore and Rick Casares, has netted only 399 yards in five games. In contrast, Ollie Matson has gained 497 alone.

Latest report from the Bears' sickbay shows Harlon Hill still unable to start. If Hill does not play, the Ram secondary could have things a bit easier, for the great end always has been tough against the Gillmans.

* * * *

SEVERAL RAM sick and injured are ready to go. Safetymen Don Burroughs and Will Sherman will be ready if needed and Matson and Jim Phillips will start despite minor injuries sustained in the loss to Detroit last Sunday. Rookie tackle John LoVetere, who missed most of the Lion's game, is recovered and will return to the starting lineup.

TWO PATS, FIELD GOAL MISS

Late Air Force Assault Deadlocks Cadets, 13-13

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Air Force Academy came of football age Saturday as it whipped the ball through the wild gray yonder for a last period touchdown and a 13-13 tie with Army before 67,000 fans in Yankee Stadium.

The kids from Colorado Springs, making their debut against a rival academy opposition, kept their hopes alive with a desperation fourth and eight pass for a first down on Army's 15, and then sent Mike Quinlan rocketing around end for the touchdown that set up the tie and George Pupich's extra point placement.

* * * *

ARMY, A touchdown favorite, had trailed in the first quarter and then took the lead on Bob Anderson's pair of touchdowns in the second period.

Army's Glen Blumhardt fumbled a punt which Mike Rawlins recovered for the Air Force on Army's 25. Army held on its eight and Pupich missed a field goal attempt from the 15.

Army took over on its 20, but after a first down, Al Rushatz committed the second of four costly Army fumbles and Neal Roundtree recovered on the Cadet 30. This time, the Air Force went all the way.

Richie Mayo's passes carried the Air Force to the nine and then Monte Moorberg took it over in two whacks, scoring from the three. Pupich missed the placement.

Anderson sent Army ahead 13-6 at halftime with TDs of six and one yards. The first culminated a 60-yard drive, the second followed a poor center pass and a blocked punt on the six. Tom Blanda missed the second PAT.

Arrington stunned a Tech homecoming crowd of 45,000 with a brilliant 83-yard run late in the first period for Duke's touchdown. Browning converted and then kicked a 28-yard field goal midway in the fourth period.

Duke stopped Tech throughout except in the third period when halfback Floyd Faucette swept end from 25 yards out for the Engineers' touchdown.

Huskers Stun Sooners, 25-21

1st Big 8 Loss in 13 Years

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Nebraska's fired up Cornhuskers snapped Oklahoma's 13 year, 74-game unbeaten string in Big Eight play Saturday with a come-from-behind 25-21 victory.

The big hero among many for Nebraska was sophomore quarterback Ron Mead.

He kicked Nebraska into a 15-14 lead in the third period with a 22-yard field goal and late in the game booted a 33-yard three-pointer.

Victory was put out of reach of the Sooners midway through the fourth period when halfback Pat Fischer returned a kickoff 61 yards to the Sooner four.

* * * *

THREE PLAYS later quarterback Harry Tolly wedged over from the one to put Nebraska ahead 21-14.

Oklahoma went ahead 7-0 in the opening minutes on Prentice Gautt's three-yard slant. In the second period Nebraska made it 7-6 on a four-yard pass from Tolly to end Dick McDaniel, and the Cornhuskers went ahead 12-7 minutes later when guard Leroy Zentick ran 36 yards with a partially-blocked punt.

Oklahoma moved ahead again, 14-12, on Bob Cornell's six-yard keeper. Mead's kick made it 15-14, Nebraska, after three periods, and Gautt's three-dash smash following Tolly's score and Mead's field goal wound it up.

Buckeye Passes Dazzle Spartans in 30-24 Thriller

COLUMBUS (UPI) — Ohio State quarterback Tom Matte fired three touchdown passes Saturday to spark an Ohio rally which earned the Buckeyes a 30-24 victory over Michigan State and saved Ohio from its worst season in nine years.

The smallest home crowd of the season, 83,130, watched Mattee who shifts between quarterback and halfback, win his second game this year with his passing. He threw the last-minute touchdown pass which enabled Ohio to beat Duke, 14-13, in the opening game.

Ohio, which has never lost four games in one season since coach Woody Hayes came here six years ago, went into the game with two victories and three defeats, and it appeared for a while the underdog Buckeyes would lose again, Michigan State jumping off to a 7-0 lead. But then Matte and Co. took over and Ohio never trailed.

Matte's aerial wizardry, the most dazzling display of passing for ground-bound Ohio State in nine years, accounted for a total of 138 yards on five out of eight tries.

Ohio State scored three times by passing, once on a brilliant 55-yard run by sophomore halfback Bobby Ferguson, and on a 25-yard field goal and three conversions by place-kicking specialist Dave Kilgore.

Once Over Lightly

Bear Team a Mystery to Many

One of the big questions of the season is "What's wrong with the Chicago Bears?"

Co-favorites for the Western Division title after a sensational series of exhibition wins, the Bears move into the Coliseum to play the Rams today with a miserable 1-4 record.

There is no faulting the Bears' defensive unit. It has been magnificent to date. Main trouble has been a serious breakdown in the offense.

CLARK SHAUGHNESSY
Fooled 'Papa' Once

The passing is about average for a pro team—not the best in the league and certainly not the worst. The running game, though has been virtually non-existent of late. Most of the Bears' problems have resulted from their lack of movement on the ground.

"The blocking has been faulty," according to one Bear veteran attempting to explain why the offense hasn't been producing. However, all of the pro football people feel that the Monsters of the Midway are ready to cut loose at any moment. They are far from being a 1-4 ball club. Actually, they were very unlucky to lose three of the four games they've dropped.

It's been an extremely disappointing season thus far for owner-coach George Halas. This, according to confidential information, was to be his last year at the helm of his beloved Bears. . . . IF he had a winner.

And before the championship season opened, Halas was confident that he had the title in the bag. Most of the players who opposed the Bears in exhibition games thought so, too.

The Bears may be down, but the controversial Halas is far from being out. He still thinks his Monsters of the Midway can bounce back strong in the final seven games and make a pretty good run for it. They can't afford to lose another game, though, or they'll lose what slim chance still remains.

HALAS, OF COURSE, USUALLY IS the center of a raging controversy of some kind . . . and this season is no exception.

It was not surprising when the Baltimore Colts charged recently that the Bears knew their audible signals so well that they must have stolen them in some manner.

Halas, of course, has been accused of many such tricks down through the years . . . such as spying on other teams, tapping the rival clubs' telephone from the press box to the field, wiring his rival's dressing rooms, anything, in fact, to gain extra information about an opponent's plans.

George, as usual, denied the Baltimore charges. "I'd say that Clark Shaughnessy, our defensive coach, charted the Colt offense perfectly from watching scouting films," he said.

Halas is pretty good at ferreting things out, though. There was the time when Norm Van Brocklin, while still with the Rams, injured a finger on his throwing hand. Joe Stydahar, then head coach, instructed everyone to "keep it a secret."

The Rams were in Chicago for a game with the Bears at the time and Stydahar and his assistant coaches were on their way to the hotel dining room for dinner that night they were greeted by a member of the Bears' front office. "Hi," he said. "How's Van Brocklin's finger?"

SHAUGHNESSY, WHO HAS BEEN WITH the Bears off and on since the late 1930s, was head coach of the Rams for a couple of seasons. Naturally, he knew every trick Halas was likely to pull.

When the Rams moved into Chicago for a crucial contest, Shaughnessy gave his pre-game instructions on the bus to the stadium. He also told the players "Don't pay any attention to anything I say in the dressing room."

Just before going onto the field, Shaughnessy winked at the players and proceeded to explain in detail the play they were to use on the kickoff.

Sure enough, the room obviously had been wired as Shaughnessy suspected because when the Bears kicked off, they all headed for the point where the play that was outlined in the dressing room was supposed to go.

The Bears were burned badly on that one when the ball carrier went the other way. However, it was the only time all afternoon that the Windy City crew was fooled.

HALAS IS NEVER AT A LOSS for words . . . that is, hardly ever. One of the few times he couldn't come up with an answer occurred during a game against the Colts not long ago.

During a game, of course, Halas roams up and down the sidelines yelling insults and "sweet nothings" at opposing players with the force and vigor of an angry truck driver.

He was really spicing up his insults this day and Don Shula, a Colt defensive halfback, was bearing the brunt of the attack.

Finally, Shula felt he had taken enough so he sauntered over to Halas between plays and asked: "Now is that any way for a fine Christian gentleman like George Halas to talk?"

Shula caught Halas completely off balance . . . and Papa Bear was silent for the rest of the game. Despite his win-at-any-cost reputation, Halas is a clean-living, churchgoing individual who is a fine gentleman . . . off the field!

Burton Explodes, Wildcats Romp

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—Ron Burton, coming off the bench after two weeks with an injured ankle, exploded for two touchdowns in one minute Saturday to become the greatest scorer in Northwestern's history and start the unbeaten Wildcats to a 30-13 Big Ten victory over Indiana.

Junior Mike Stock sewed up Northwestern's sixth straight win by kicking and plunging for 18 more points.

The Wildcats were stymied by Indiana coach Phil Dickens' single wing attack until Burton brought them to life in the final minutes of the first half.

He scored from the four and before a minute was over, he grabbed a punt from 63 yards out and went all the way.

That gave Burton, a senior halfback, scoring mark of 124 points, surpassing Otto Graham's total of 121.

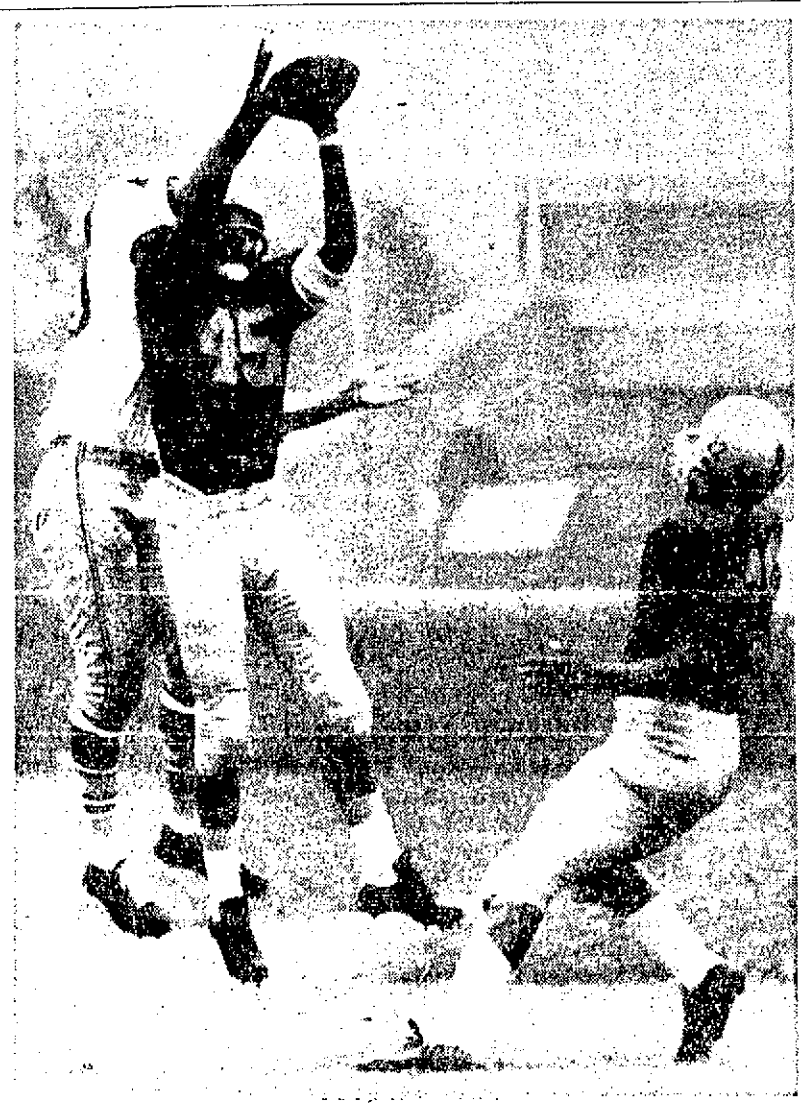

Indiana scored in the first quarter when Vic Jones jumped over from the one. Burton scored twice, then Stock took over in the second half with 24- and 28-yard TD runs, two PATs and a 19-yard field goal.

Illini Hold Boilermakers to 7-7 Tie

CHAMPAIGN (UPI) — Underdog Illinois turned loose two sophomore halfbacks, Johnny Counts and Ethan Blackaby Saturday to spark a sputtering offense to a 7-7 deadlock against Purdue. A game-winning field goal try by Illinois failed on the last play.

Counts, who made 64 yards in nine carries, was the key to the Illini 72 yard parade to the tying touchdown. He ran five times for 57 yards, including a 21-yard sprint into the end zone.

Quarterback Bernie Allen directed the Boilermakers to their touchdown, driving 33 yards on seven plays with Len Wilson going over from the one. Then Allen placekicked the extra point, just as Gerald Wood succeeded after the Illini drove back for their tally.

Badgers Throttle Wolverines, 19-10

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Wisconsin rolled up two first half touchdowns and staved off a late Michigan comeback Saturday to ruin the Wolverine homecoming with a 19-10 victory.

Neither team was able to mount a long drive throughout the game at rain-drenched Michigan Stadium.

But Wisconsin's big line, averaging 225 pounds from tackle to tackle, bottled up the Michigan running attack and the Badger secondary intercepted six Michigan passes to turn the tide.

Michigan didn't score a touchdown until shortly after the final period opened.

Coach Bump Elliott of the Wolverines used his "defensive platoon" effectively throughout the game but it was not enough to compensate for the intercepted passes.

The lone Michigan touchdown cut Wisconsin's lead to 16-10 but a last minute Badger field goal after an interception deep in Michigan territory put the visitors nine points in front and killed any chance of an upset.

Gophers Smash Out 20-6 Win Over Vandy

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Joe Salem, an obsure third string quarterback, and fullback Tom Robbins pulled Minnesota out of its scoring doldrums Saturday and the ponderous Gophers smashed Vanderbilt, 20-6.

Robbins thrilled a homecoming crowd of 49,284 by picking off a flat pass by Vandy's Jim McKee and galloping 62 yards to score half way through the second period.

Salem directed two fourth-period touchdown thrusts that nailed down Minnesota's second victory in six games.

Salem punched over from a foot out early in the quarter after running for 17 and 11 yards on keeper plays and pitching a 29-yard deflected pass to Tom King. A few minutes later fullback Roger Hagberg took a handoff from Salem and barreled 26 yards to score.

While Salem, Robbins and Hagberg provided the offensive heroics, it was the Gophers' vast line averaging 225 pounds between the tackles that licked Vandy in this intersectional.

IOWA CITY (AP)—Iowa, in the midst of a dismal season against Big Ten rivals, found Kansas State a softer touch Saturday and routed the Big Eight Conference team 53-0.

The Hawkeyes have won but one of four games in conference play, but a sparkling performance from sophomore halfback Virgil Williams and Iowa's other fleet backs was too much for Kansas State.

Jayhawks Trip Iowa State, 7-0

LAWRENCE (AP) — Curtis McClinton, a sophomore halfback, scored in the fourth quarter to give Kansas a 7-0 victory over stubborn Iowa State in a Big Eight game Saturday.

McClinton, a 200 pounder, scored from the 15, climaxing a 71-yard drive. John Suder kicked the extra point and that was the scoring.

Bob Kelley Says---

SC Not Giving All, All the Time

There are few of us wacky enough to criticize a winner, but still I must believe the Trojans are lacking something mentally. They have cut their last two victories much closer than comparative manpower would indicate.

SC apparently can't play to its full potential until it falls behind.

BOB KELLEY
A Little Wacky?

Trailing Washington, 15-14, they nonchalantly took the ensuing kickoff and muscled their way right down the field to the winning touchdown.

Down, 21-12, to Stanford, the Trojans turned on the juice and elbowed their way to three TD's.

Behind Cal, 7-6, they took the next kickoff and immediately steamrollered to a touchdown.

My point is, any club powerful enough to grind out scores when they need them, should also be powerful enough not to let itself get in a pickle in the first place.

Obviously, this club is not playing to its 100 per cent potential until it's behind.

MOST CLUBS GET VERY brave when they have you in a hole. I assume Washington, Stanford and Cal were brave when they led SC. Yet even with this mental lift, they were handled like babies by the Trojans.

What would this SC team do if it ever decided to get off winging, and really pound an opponent into the ground?

As I said, you have to be a little wacky to criticize a team with six straight wins. On the other hand, it is very disappointing to see this club not play to its real potential.

The Trojans have the makings of an outstanding college football team. But around the country, do you think you can convince anyone of that?

I doubt it. Not after they squeaked over a couple of clubs with a grand total of one victory apiece all season, by scores of only 30-28 and 14-7.

BY CONTRAST, ONE CAN forgive the Bruins for winning but a single game all year. This club doesn't have it, personnel-wise. Further, it makes the mistakes of the inexperienced that never characterized the late Red Sanders' teams, which not only were also well-coached, but loaded with talent.

Bobby Smith fumbled the ball over to Washington on the half-yard line, when a 14-14 tie or even a 15-14 victory loomed. Instead the final score read, 23-7.

Would that ever have happened to a Sanders' team! No, it wouldn't, because an inexperienced tailback—admitted by his own coaches to be troubled by "sophomoritis"—probably wouldn't have been his No. 1 back.

Whether the penalties hurt UCLA's recruiting is a question in my own mind. You might say: "Sure, they did."

How then, do you explain SC? The Trojans likewise were hit by penalties, in fact, they're still under a ban. Yet they have come up with their finest personnel in seven years.

Perhaps the worst thing that ever happened to the Bruins was that 0-0 tie with Purdue. Maybe the kids believed they were that good. They aren't, though they try like the dickens.

By the same token, SC's shutouts of Pitt and Ohio State apparently have left most of the Trojans majoring in Personal Scrapbook at school.

YALE BUBBLE BURSTS, 12-8

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Bill Gundy, Dartmouth's all-Ivy League quarterback, fired two touchdown passes to burst Yale's unbeaten-and-unscored-upon bubble Saturday and hand the Elis a 12-8 defeat.

It marked the first time in six games that the heretofore irresistible Yale line had yielded any points.

A series of electrifying catches by Dartmouth fullback Bill Hibbs aided Gundy, who time and again threaded short passes through Yale's hard-charging line.

Syracuse Wrecks Pitt, 35-0

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Fifth-ranked Syracuse, geared by vicious line play and the speed of a bevy of offensive backs, smothered Pitt, 35-0, Saturday for its sixth straight football triumph.

The nation's No. 1 team on offense and defense scored in every quarter, with the final touchdown coming on a sparkling 100-yard pass interception run-back by Dan Rackiewicz in the closing minutes.

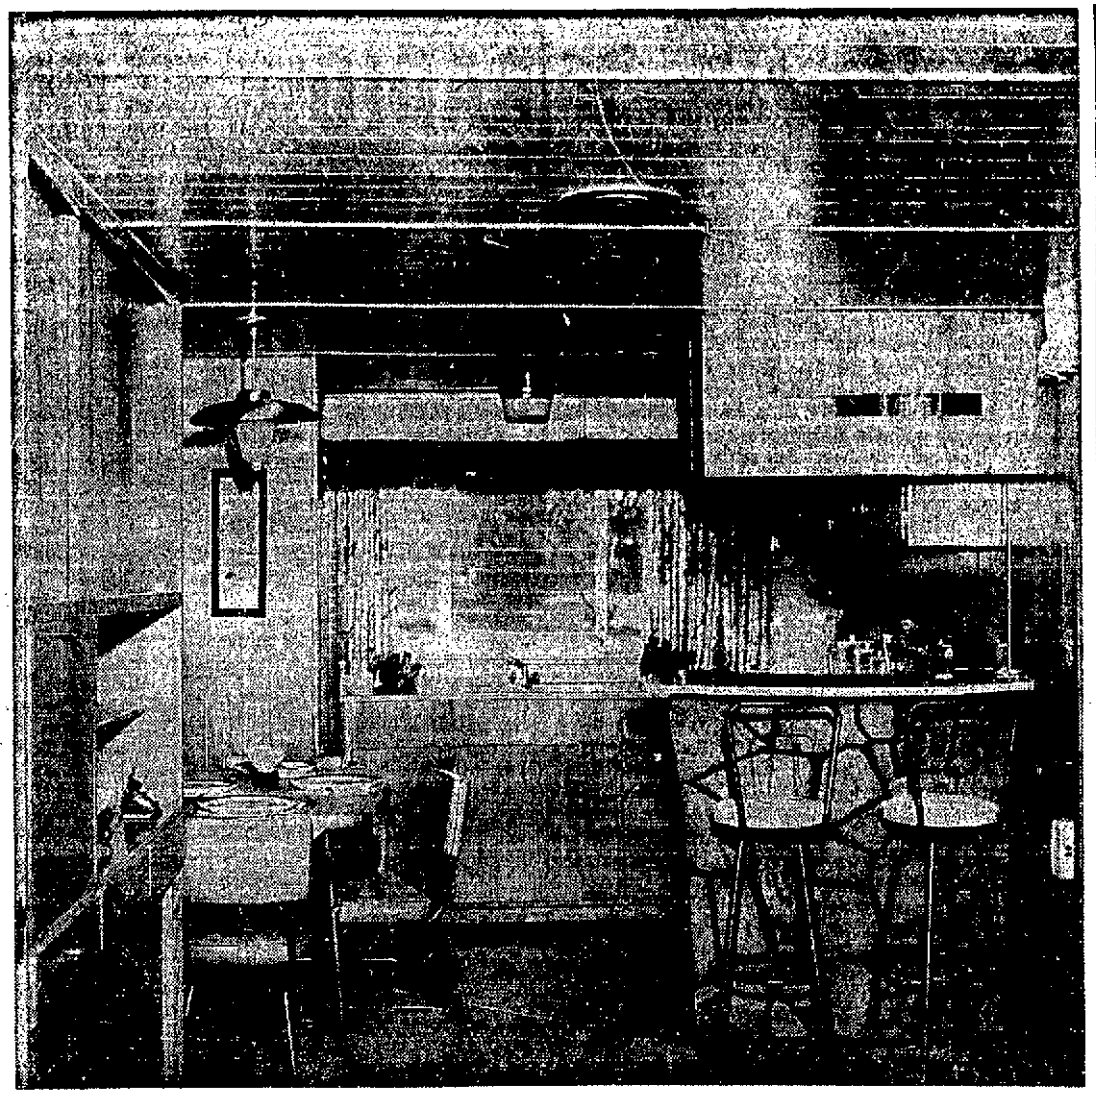

Syracuse struck paydirt the first time it got the ball, driving 37 yards for a touchdown in seven plays. Capt. Ger Schwedes plunged one yard for the score.

Ernie Davis scored the Orangemen's second touchdown with a 25-yard scamper in the second quarter.

The third Syracuse touchdown drive carried 76 yards in seven plays in the third quarter. The tally came on a shovel pass from Dave Sarette to Davis, who lateraled to Art Baker. The play covered 23 yards.

Syracuse scored in the final period on a drive that covered 70 yards in 10 plays. Mark Weber plunged one yard for the TD.

KNOW-HOW PAYS OFF

Kit Trailer Fills Special Federal Bid

In its current program of adding many new navigation facilities in the rugged mountainous terrain of the Western United States, the Federal Aviation Agency recently found a need for comfortable living quarters to house the personnel necessary to maintain the equipment. Specially designed mobile homes appeared to be the answer.

The problem was particularly difficult because of the mountainous, almost inaccessible, location of many of the sites for these very important aides—aides that guide and direct the many aircraft now flying in the Western section of the country.

After receiving many proposals, the FAA selected Kit Manufacturing Company, Inc., Long Beach, to construct the special units. According to Bud Kruse, vice president manufacturing, although the project introduced a few unique production changes, basic Kit engineering principles were easily adapted to this particular production run.

"Kit has had considerable experience in construction of living quarters for the military, construction crews and for many rugged requirements, and this experience proved quite helpful," Kruse said.

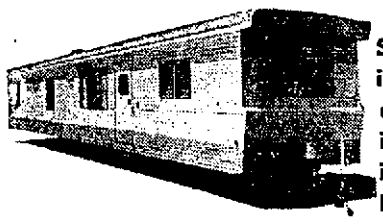

Specifications were also reworked for the interiors since the trailers will be used as "bachelor quarters" and do not need some of the luxury features normally found in house trailers.

* * * *

FOLDING BUNKS and tables, built-in cabinets, an adequate water supply, a sewer system and toilet facilities, shower, heat, lights and complete kitchen facilities are some of the features incorporated within this twenty-seven foot trailer.

These specially designed Kits will be towed to their mountain locations and then anchored to poured concrete pads. In the event the trailer must be moved, the wheels can be replaced and the trailer again towed to its new location. Of a total order of 17 trailers, 15 have already been delivered to the FAA.

Present plans call for the trailers to be located with navigation aids installed on mountain sites near the following communities: Sunnyside, Bryce Canyon, and Delle, Utah; Thermopolis, DuNoir and Crazy Woman, Wyoming; Emmett and McCall, Idaho, Julian, California; Elko, Mina, Sod House, Pioche and Winnemucca, Nevada; Rome and John Day, Oregon.

by TERRY VERNON

All the elements of the old slapstick comedy movie are bound up in the "Sunday Showcase" (4) starring Milton Berle with Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz as guests. This final "special" of the young season for Miltie will air at 8 p.m. today in black-and-white only.

Berle portrays himself while Lucille and Desi are the familiar Lucy and Ricky of their TV shows. Setting is Las Vegas where Berle is the headliner, Ricky directs the orchestra and Lucy is loose on the town.

Jewel thieves, a mock wedding between Lucy and Milton, a chase and all the rest of it are mixed together under the direction of Arnaz.

Headdress Ball Promises to Be a Circus!

Socialites' Gay Chapeaux to Be Spotlighted Feature

Long Beach will be in the spotlight literally and figuratively Nov. 14 when Southland socialites gather in Grand Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel for the Headdress Ball, a shining star on the social scene since its inception nine years ago.

Given by Long Beach Auxiliary of Southern California Symphony Assn. which sponsors Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, the 1959 ball will take a sophisticated "Le Bal Cirque" theme.

* * * *

GUESTS arriving for the swank affair will use a special red-carpeted and canopy-covered entrance on Linden Ave. Spotlights will play on the fabulous ballgowns and elaborate headdresses as guests alight from their cars.

Inside, tasteful circus decor will feature a color scheme of red, pink and white, with candlelighted dining tables and gaily decorated favors for the ladies.

While not revealing the complete scheme of decor, Mrs. William G. Rhorer, ball chairman, has said pillars in the room will sparkle with pink foil and glittered balloons. The bandstand — from which Manny Harmon and his orchestra will play—will have a backdrop of red velvet while centered and spotlighted in front will be a fanciful carousel horse.

* * * *

HEADDRESSES will be displayed on spotlighted tables during the evening's early hours, and will be donned by their creators at 10:30 p.m. for a parade and judging of the most beautiful, original, humorous, best portrayal of theme and grand sweepstakes.

Heading the panel of nationally known judges will be Audie Murphy, star of motion pictures and television; Miss Alice Taylor, manager of Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra; John Hersey, Buffums' fashion coordinator, and Byron Palmer, master of ceremonies for past Miss Universe Pageants. Norman Masterson will emcee the parade.

An innovation at this year's dinner-dance will be the no-host cocktail party from 7 to 8 p.m. in Gaslight and Cameo Rooms, with Mrs. William P. Ellery as chairman. Serving with her and Mr. Ellery as hosts and hostesses will be Messrs. and Mmes. Arthur P. Adkisson, Ralph S. Bowdle, Joseph Wilson and Mmes. Geza J. Krempels, Don Harper Mills and Lewis T. Dorgan.

MRS. RHORER and her co-chairman, Mrs. Albert Stevenson, are being assisted in plans for "Le Bal Cirque" by Mmes. Leroy Carlisle and Dominic Cavalier, decorations; Mrs. Chris Conway, reservations; Mrs. Reese D. Hansen, invitations; Mrs. Frank Vessels Jr., judges; Mrs. Orville Cole, awards; Mrs. Monroe S. Yunker, publicity. Mrs. William E. Webb is auxiliary president.

Purpose of the gala event is to raise money for the Continuance Fund which supports Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra; covers cost of student concert tickets presented each year to worthy Long Beach music students, and defrays transportation costs of Long Beach public school students attending the Youth Concert presented here annually by the Philharmonic under sponsorship of Long Beach Board of Education.

LOS ANGELES Philharmonic, in its 1959-60 season, will present four concerts; Nov. 22, Arturo Basile, conductor; Jan. 12, Alfred Wallenstein, conductor, and Jorge Bolet, pianist; Feb. 7, Eugen Jochum, conductor, and Zino Francescatti, violinist; March 20, George Solti, conductor, and Janor Starker, cellist.

The orchestra, under direction of Johnny Green, also will present a Promenade Concert April 29.

LIKE A fire truck answering an alarm, the signal at Kay Nesbitt's home for a party began lighting up ideas in her head the moment the brushes were cleaned and the paint cans back on the shelf. Tuesday was BC-Day — brunch and celebration date—with Kay inviting about 100 friends to her home to initiate that wonderful new pink Victorian sun room and its dearest companion, the sun patio.

"Secret signal"

For a long time, years in fact, Kay has been collecting antique wicker furniture for this special room and bringing it back to mint condition. Using pink as basic color she has accented with varying shades, including rich dashes of plum, to complete the theme.

Assisting her Tuesday were Deanie Conway, Pat Horrocks, Mary Brooks, Audrey Romeyn, Frances O'Brien and Jean Doody. Champagne punch on the patio preceded hot, delicious brunch.

* * * *

THE SPOOKS were so sophisticated at Mary and Bob Lintz' Halloween party last night they looked just like humans. In fact, they went all out and wore people party costumes. Just like downtown.

Following the mood, Mary and Bob used sophisticated decorations for the cocktail buffet—big pumpkins at the home's entrance smiled in flickering de (candle) light and a witch on a stick (the only one present in native dress) stood watch on the lawn.

Jack-o-Lanterns, their eyes afire, surrounded a bewitching witch and a debonair scarecrow on a floating pool centerpiece. In the living room and den huge pumpkins were hollowed out to serve as flower bowls for massed arrangements of chrysanthemums and in the dining room a handsome arrangement of fall flowers, vegetables and little witches centered the table.

Assisting were Margaret and Allan Scherer and Pat and John Brennan.

SIGNS of our times. Beulah Van Tuyle rode a jet to Tokyo, leaving Tuesday evening and arriving the very next morning at 7:20 a.m. Only it turned out to be Thursday ayem! We asked Mr. Foster and we ought to know! You lose 24 hours in flight, you see. It could be worse. Going the opposite direction, sometimes you get where you're going before you've left and that, brother, can play hob if you're one of those last minute packers.

Beulah will tour Japan quite thoroughly, then Hongkong, Bangkok and India, eventually winding up in Rome to catch a jet to New York, another jet to L.A. This is when she'll get a refund on the time she lost.

* * * *

ANOTHER localite on a jet flight to Tokyo this Week was Aeonne Griffiths with her little ones, David and Karen. They left Sunday night arrived the next day, Tuesday by name (you get the picture) to join Dr. Bob, serving as a lieutenant in the Navy attached to the Marine Corps and stationed in Japan. Next summer—mid or late—should find them back home here, civilian status (and time) refunded to them in full.

ONLY reason Cmdr. Jack Steltenkamp was invited to join his wife, Connie, Rose Nishkian and Ruth Kennedy on their train trip to Berkeley was to make a fourth at bridge! The women, members of SC Mothers Club, took time out from pass and bidding to yell for the Trojans when they battled the Golden Bears yesterday. Back on the Daylight today, Jack as hoarse as any of 'em, huskily murmering things like "Two spades—great catch wasn't it? Three hearts—remember that fourth down in the third quarter? . . ."

* * * *

"YOU KNOW," mused Fran Soldini, "the prime of life should be judged by attitude not by calendar" and when we countered, "What's with this philosophy bit?" she explained she had attended the 100th birthday party Tuesday of long time friend, Mrs. Isabella Horton, mother of Edward Everett Horton, at her home in Encino. Mrs. H., sharp as a tack, rarely considers leaving a party before 2 a.m. She's made herself slow down, though, lately. Got to thinking her bones might be a little more susceptible than they used to be. "Who wants to spend six weeks in bed while one of 'em mends" she confides, slowing to a trot on the sharp curves.

* * * *

FRUSTRATING business, this. Everybody else travels while we stay home and talk about it. Dr. Walt Arnold returned to his bachelor quarters at the Lafayette Hotel the other day after six weeks abroad of which he spent a month attending a seminar at the University of Vienna. Incidentally, he was guest of honor at a cocktail party given for him by Mrs. Elizabeth Engdahl, who happens to be JUST the consel general of Vienna.

* * * *

PARTY FUN was routine, but, oh, those crazy guests when Maureen and Jim Cone entertained at a Beatnik Halloween shindig at their home last Saturday for Ebell Jrs. and husbands. Spaghetti dinner, cocktails and dancing were enjoyed by "characters" that would frighten an old time San Quentinian; namely, Liz and Harry Minor, Norma and Bill Anderson, Margie and Jack Clark, Jerry and Bob Grabham, Mary and Ed Lenahan, Susie and Vern Lewis, Bobbye and Jerry Winn, Marilyn and Jack Teele, Margie and Jack Hansen and Jerry and John McCutcheon.

"So watsa beatnik?"

* * * *

ADD TO fall crop of pledges, recently "planted" on various campuses, Judy Afton, Pi Phi at Oregon State; and Barbara Nishkian, Tri Delt at USC.

FRIENDS of Mildred (Mrs. A. L.) Pettigrew are being told, emphatically and by Mildred, that it's time they housecleaned their book shelves. And what's more, the best housekeeper in town couldn't possibly take offense because Mildred is urging for a good purpose. She was named to the founders' committee for Marymount College and it is her job, as member of a special committee in charge of stocking the library, to collect all the old medical books she can. They break ground today for the college's new facilities in Palos Verdes. Okay, you book hoarders, make like a second hand philanthropist!

Artistic Couple Will Perform at Ebell Club

Ebell Club of Long Beach will enjoy a program by Coby and Arnold Juda, a couple heralded as "truly delightful" by those who have witnessed their "Joint Concert" presentation.

She is a gifted prima ballerina and he an accomplished musician. They have appeared together and as individual performers in Europe, South America and the United States. Coby's mimic interpretations are strongly expressive, particularly in "Golliwog's Cakewalk" and "Clair de Lune" by Debussy. Arnold is not only described as an excellent pianist and winner of various scholarships and awards but has composed special music for "Don Carlos" by Schiller; "Much Ado About Nothing," Shakespeare; "Lilio m," Molnar; "Death of a Salesman," by Miller and many others.

* * * *

MRS. ARTHUR A. Knoll, president, will conduct the 1:30 p. m. business meeting in the clubhouse auditorium prior to program presentation. Mrs. Everett N. Morningstar, program chairman, will introduce the day's guest artists.

Noon luncheon will be served by Group Q with Mrs. Lillian Dean, chairman, directing.

Spirited Spirits Sip Same at Swish Spook Soiree

An old-fashioned Halloween party at the Petroleum Club last night, costumes and all, with everyone singing the good, old songs—"Ghoul of My Dreams," "When the Moon Comes Over the Headstones," "Sailing Down the Styx," "Let the Rest of the Weirds Go By"—wonderful old songs.

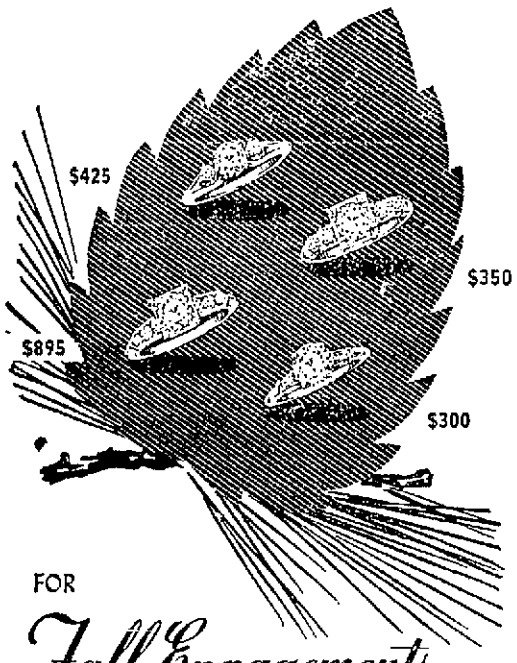

"Community Howl"

A spirit hour (naturally) preceded the diablo steak dinner. Hosts for the night, Janie and Don Kuster, incanted welcomes to all who arrived, seen or unseen.

Marian and Dick Braly decided a little pre-party witch's brew was in order so they invited a few over for a liquid transference session. Glass-tappers were Phyllis and Neil Buchanan, Louise and Ralph Cormany, Patt and Jim Collins, Pat and Bill Herlehy, Lynda and Bob Irvin, Gwen and Dean Jones, Barbara and Charles Jones, Pat and Bob Willis, Shirley and Joe Vasentine, and Tillie and "Corny" Ramsey.

The decorating committee, working like souls possessed all afternoon to turn the club into a hobgoblin's paradise, were Ruth Allen, Janie Kuster, Frankie Linza, Barbara McColm and Gloria Simpson.

Among those sending clothing are Loretta Young, Mrs. Bob Hope, Mrs. Jack Benny, Hedda Hopper, Jeanne Crain, Ann Blythe and Rhonda Fleming.

Miss Gibbs, a graduate of USC, is now teaching for the Los Angeles City School District. Her fiance, who attended Compton College, is now with General Telephone Co. It was announced that June 24 has been selected as the couple's wedding day.

Be a Modern-Day 'Jersey Lily!'

By MARY LOU ZEHMS
I. P-T Women's Editor

Almost a century ago, Lillie Langtry, the fabulous "Jersey Lily," wore the first jersey costume to the races at Longchamps . . . and a style was born.

Worth of Paris had made the gown but Mrs. Langtry herself had found the fabric and created the design. It was a deep blue pleated skirt united to a tight-fitting bodice with a red sash.

Did she know how the cling of jersey would show off her perfect shape? Or was she inspired by the jersey pullovers and caps worn by fishermen on the Isle of Jersey, her girlhood home? At any rate, she made the sensation she had foreseen and Worth was swamped with orders for copies. But Worth also deplored the fact that few women could equal Lillie in jersey for most of them lacked her goddess form.

* * * *

WHAT WAS she like, the Langtry, beloved of royalty, focus of worldwide headlines, the glamour actress of her era? She was tall, limber and agile, and curved in the right places. She wore the masses of bronze hair in the famous Langtry knot. Her fair skin was flawless, her eyes were violet-grey and she had a chiseled Grecian nose.

In that era, glamour girls were called "professional beauties" and Lillie's career as a "P.B." began with an at-home at Lady Sebright's in London. She was gowned in a simple, stark black silk gown without a single jewel or flower . . . and became a sensation overnight.

At once, her coiffure, toques and costumes became mass fashion. Every appearance was the signal for a mob to form. Kings and princes squabbled to share her morning canter in the Tow. She became an actress of exceptional ability, taking London by storm. This success she duplicated in America, touring from coast to coast in a lavish private railway car with sterling silver fittings. She was the admired friend of top figures in art, politics, sports, music, international society and royalty.

* * * *

LILLIE'S 220-foot white yacht was bigger than the King of England's; she also owned a stable of racing thoroughbreds and a fantastic collection of jewels.

After a lavish and romantic career bridging the Victorian and World War I eras, she settled down, mature and still lovely, in a villa at Monaco, surrounded by flower gardens which were her final joy.

Today's styles salute Lillie Langtry's fashion acumen, as women wear jersey morning, noon and night. There are warm wool jersey classics for country living . . . jersey suits that never muss, for travel . . . jersey city and career costumes. And suave matte jersey of rayon is unmatched for draped at-home gowns.

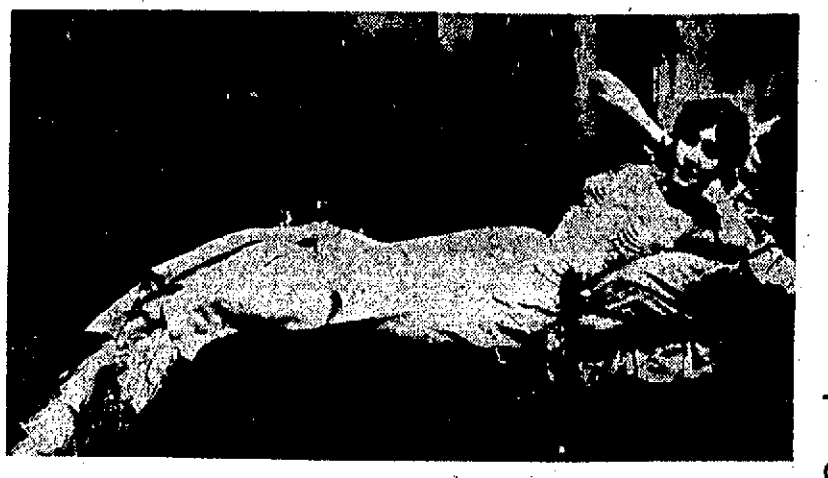

But unlike the Langtry who relied on a natural flawless figure, today's charmers can depend on foundation garments for figure control under clinging fabrics.

* * * *

AND FOR that just-right garment to wear beneath jersey, Playtex has developed a zip-fastened Mold 'N Hold that whisks away calorie curves, smooths your shape, but never loses its own. Best of all, no stays or seams or stitches to show through clinging clothes. So if you have the jersey urge, indulge yourself. But remember that this fashion really needs the feminine form divine.

BE A JERSEY Lily at home in Dorian's gilded housecoat, designed of supple metallic jersey glinting gold. Underneath, rely on smooth control of new zippered Mold 'n' Hold by Playtex.

PAINTING of famous actress Lillie Langtry, now in Museum of City of New York, as she looked in 1900 when nicknamed "Jersey Lily." She wore first all-jersey dress to races at Longchamps—and style was born.

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

Our account of student activities this week at Long Beach State has the variety which we like to see.

Monday noon SAM (Society for the Advancement of Management) will hear Dr. Carl Gregory of the LBSC faculty in an illustrated lecture, "Can Soviet Productivity Bury U. S. Business?" SAM members will get a first-hand account of Dr. Gregory's recent leave of absence which included a month in Russia observing production procedures.

Tuesday evening the Press Club and Alpha Phi Gamma, journalism fraternity, join forces to sponsor a press conference in which Dr. Carl W. McIntosh, LBSC president, is the main speaker. Some 100 newspaper personnel and 20 alumni of the two groups have been invited. Refreshments follow this 8 p.m. affair in the Soroptimist House.

* * * *

WEDNESDAY noon still more of the spoken word with Dr. Samuel Bois, semantics scholar, as the featured speaker on the biweekly Lectures and Forums series. This recently instituted program whose topics already have included pragmatism, capital punishment, and Anne Frank, is proving popular with a large segment of the LBSC student body which favors more talk and less action in the activities program.

Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Soroptimist House, Social Welfare Club sponsors a panel discussion, "Hope for the Narcotic." Panel members include Sgt. Penhollow of the Long Beach Police Department Narcotics Detail; Robert Seabridge of the Los Angeles Adult Parole Authority; Dr. Langer of the Norwalk State Hospital, and two anonymous women members of Narcotics Anonymous.

Dr. David Dressler of the social welfare faculty is the moderator for the discussion which includes a question and answer session followed by refreshments. The meeting is open to the public.

Friday at 8:30 p.m. the Little Theater is the scene of the second program in Phi Beta's classic film series. "All the King's Men" and "The River" make up the double attraction. Admission is 50 cents, and if the enthusiastic response to PB's first offering is an indication, we advise our readers to come early and be sure of a seat.

* * * *

SATURDAY sees board members of ACE (Association for Childhood Education) serving coffee to the southern section board at an ACE meeting in Los Angeles. Drafted for this academic KP are Bill Vance, Olivia Cuva, Seona Davis, Roberta Hawthorne, Kako Sagawa and Eleanor McDonald. Next day the ACE delegation returns to its own campus where the group hosts a faculty tea in honor of the elementary educatinn faculty at LBSC.

Monday also marks the start of mid-term dead week, a period when profs are forbidden to give any exams; the week's true significance, however, is that it serves as a reminder to many forty-Niners that it's time to put aside activities and hit the books for a while: mid-term exams are almost here.

Little Sisters of Minerva (that name intrigues us), the busy auxiliary to Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, replenished ranks by tapping 11 members last Monday: Anita Breitfeller, Barbara Burns, Mim Chalker, Diane Delavergne, Loretta Fota, Carol Howison, Joyce Loedige, Mary Nevin, Carolyn Pancro, Diana Reise and Maura Shea.

City Club to Hear Musician

An unusual and entertaining program has been promised members of Woman's City Club by Mrs. James D. Herdman, program chairman, who will present Tommy Morgan, harmonica virtuoso, at the club's Friday meeting.

The talented young entertainer began his musical career while in the U.S. Air Force Band, Washington, D. C., during the Korean War. While on the band's goodwill tour of Europe and Asia his popularity grew and he appeared in many command performances before royalty in England, Norway, Japan and Africa. For his work he was honored by being entered in the Congressional Record.

* * * *

MRS. LUCILLE E. Swenson, president, will open the meeting at 1:30 p.m. following a musical prelude with Mrs. Kathryn Langdon at the organ. Luncheon will be served at noon. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Sam Landsworth.

A legacy, as willed by the late Mrs Anna Berg Kronman, was presented to the club last Friday by Mrs. Frederick H. Mitchell, executrix of her estate. Mrs. Kronman, one of the first life members of Woman's City Club, generously supported the club's philanthropic work, and in accepting the bequest, Mrs. Swenson paid a fitting tribute to her memory.

Real Estate Club Hears Felix Smith

Valuable information on real estate loans and problems created by the current "tight money" market were explained by Felix Smith to real estate women members of Wire Club when they met at the home of Jo Broumley, 2366 Maine Ave. Tuesday evening.

Smith said he foresees the possibility of interest rates leveling off at 7 per cent in the not too distant future but indicated the rate could go even higher before steadying. He closed his talk with a question and answer period.

* * * *

PRESIDENT Agnes Albo conducted with Winnie Cross, program chairman, introducing the speaker. Mrs. Cross also outlined plans for the club's Thanksgiving dinner to take place Nov. 24 at Bowling Green Clubhouse, Recreation Park. A social hour concluded the evening.

This marked the first official business meeting of the new club year. Earlier a social meeting was conducted in the home of Bess Lyne, 2525 Pine Ave., at which time members recounted, informally, highlights of their summer vacation travels.

Del Mar Rebekahs

Del Mar Rebekah Lodge 275 will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Machinists Hall. Elsie Budge will serve refreshments.

AMONG CAREER WOMEN

Girls With Looks Get Breaks

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Being a Marilyn Monroe in the business world doesn't offer quite the same advantages it does in show business, according to Research Institute of America which announced results of a survey covering opinions of a representative sampling of girls and their bosses across the country.

"Do you get preferred treatment on the job because of your good looks?" the institute asked attractive secretaries, stenos, tool assemblers and receptionists. Four out of five admitted they did. One of the dissenters, however, explained, "My boss leans over backward to avoid it. I get a poorer deal than the other girls." One of her coworkers countered, "Nevertheless, girls with looks get the breaks. Around here we have 20 girls and the ones with faces and figures get the attention."

* * * *

TURNING to the bosses, the surveyors asked, "Do the more attractive girls take advantage of their looks?" The answer, according to the institute (a private, industry-supported organization advising more than 30,000 member corporations on all aspects of business life), was surprisingly unanimous: "They'd be crazy not to."

One thoughtful executive made the point that appearance is an asset, like manual dexterity or the ability to handle detail. "You wouldn't expect a girl to avoid using special skills and intelligence in her job so why should you expect her to put a brake on personal charm?" he added.

Next the bosses were asked, "Do you favor the prettier females in your group?" The average response was staunch—but not conclusive. "I try not to," said most.

From the third group questioned—the not-quite-so-pretty working girls, came these specific complaints: that bosses spent more time in informal conversation with the beauties; were more forgiving of mistakes; were less likely to give the prettiest careerists the undesirable assignments; more consistently observed the pleasant social formalities with pretty girls than with the "Plain Janes".

Finally the institute came up with some suggestions on how bosses can avoid dissatisfaction among employes where beauty versus everyone else in the office could be creating problems.

* * * *

FIRST THE boss should ask himself, honestly, just how susceptible he is to feminine charm of some of his employes. If he can recall any past history of injured feelings or explosions attributable to what the institute calls a "Helen of Troy" complication, he should do some honest and intensive soul searching.

A boss should consider the feelings of all people involved in a department. Any praise, privilege or promotion given should be double-checked to make sure it isn't just a "beauty break" instead of an "ability award." When the situation arises in which the cry could be raised that he is favoring one girl because of looks alone, he should be sure he can provide positive business reasons for his decision.

Although the institute doesn't extend its findings beyond office doors, it did add one thoughtful footnote. Businessmen who also are wise husbands will find plenty of take-home hints in this survey.

Ol' Ted Bemoaning 'Death of Salesman'

By TED KREC

You hear a lot of talk these days about unemployment — first it's up, then it's down; Ike is concerned about it and the Russians are making political capital out of it.

OL' TED

But if I had my way, there'd be quite a few more persons on the unemployed list because we're degenerating into a nation of "order takers" instead of super-salesmen.

What's the matter? I can tell you very tersely: people just don't want to work anymore. Particularly people in selling jobs.

A few months ago my wife and I were looking for a house to buy. We work fantastically long hours on our various endeavors, so we don't have much time left to play games. I consulted one realtor, then another, then another until finally I had about six on the string. Do you know how many houses they came up with? Two. The attitude of many of the salesmen was more or less "ride around until you see our flags outside a place, go in and see if you like it, and give us a call."

* * * *

I CAN remember the days when all you had to do was mention that you were thinking of buying a house and the salesmen were sending you lists of houses and piling up outside your door waiting to TAKE you to look at them. But those days are gone forever — or at least until the next depression when people really have to get out and scratch for a living.

Another example? That's easy. A friend of mine who owns a business was trying to buy some carpeting for stairs and a hall. She started calling the different carpet firms, trying to get someone to come down with samples. Do you know what she was told? That the salesmen were "too busy to be bothered" going out for an order.

Finally she managed to get one young dandy to come down with a few samples. When she evidenced interest in a piece of carpet and asked what it would cost for the job, he said: "Well, REALLY, madam—you don't expect ME to get down and measure it, do you?"

See what I mean? Any salesman can sell if a customer walks in, collars him and says: "I'll take THIS one!" and forces the money on him. But whatever happened to those good old freebooters, the high-pressure salesmen? The men who "built territories" for their companies? In their place today we have the "order takers."

* * * *

RECENTLY a firm with which I am acquainted was trying to hire a secretary. The job called for an efficient shorthand and typing girl with normal intelligence and a neat appearance. One who was willing to learn.

In return the job paid admirably, offered unlimited opportunity, group insurance, paid vacations, wonderful surroundings and stimulating work. The firm is still looking for this girl.

Certainly applicants came in, but their attitude was "What are you going to do for ME?" instead of "What can I do for YOU?"

Many applicants phoned and wanted to know what it paid, if there were paid vacations and group insurance and how long the hours were—so they could see if it was "worthwhile" for them to come down!

To my thinking, this situation started during the war when we had more jobs than people. You couldn't get fired if you burned down the plant. And what has been the end result? A generation of parasites who want everything handed to them.

Don't get me wrong—I'm all for better working conditions, more money, shorter hours, insurance, vacations, coffee breaks and all that jazz.

But I think we're losing sight of the fact that maybe the boss and the public are entitled to one thing, too—a work break!

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Boss Causes Budget Woe

DEAR MOLLY:

Our problem basically is a financial one.

My husband has what sounds like a good job. The boss promised to furnish necessary transportation to get the job done, plus expenses for gas and oil, etc., plus a salary.

But he provided my husband with a worn-out vehicle which has forced us to use the family car, day after month after year. We've even bought tires and kept up repairs. We have no time nor money to enjoy family outings.

My husband is an honest, hard-working manual-labor (plus executive detail) man who hasn't even been given the time off to recuperate from an injury. We are getting nowhere. My husband keeps hoping that the boss will live up to his promises.

I have managed as best I could but I can't take much more. SICKENED

DEAR SICKENED:

It sounds like it's time for a heart-to-heart talk with the boss. Not just a dreary recital of wrongs but a factual report of expenses incurred and a definite demand for a readjustment of the set-up.

If the boss is not agreeable to a realistic reappraisal of transportation needs and expense money, your husband would be better off working for someone else.

Very often bosses become involved in the multiple problems of operating a business in these days of complicated forms and practices, without being aware of the hardships they inflict upon their employes.

Why not get your husband down to speak to his boss? M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am crazy about the most fickle girl in the world—and I don't know what to do about it.

She acts so sweet and charming until she gets a guy hooked and then she loses interest. I'm not the only guy that's suffered at her hands. How can girls be like that?

She isn't the prettiest or the most popular girl. I don't know what she has. Sure, she's a great gal, but so what? Don't let her figure for a moment that she's cast a spell. I swear I'm going to ignore her and then she starts paying attention to me and I'm hooked all over again.

Right now, since school started, she's been real sweet to me and I'm beginning to feel myself falling under her spell again. What should I do?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED:

Since quite obviously you'll ask her out again, how about playing it cool? Treat her impersonally. In this way you get to take her out and still keep your distance. Have fun! M.M.

New High Note for Marilyn

By ELISE EMERY

When Long Beach soprano Marilyn Horne left Thursday for a six-week concert tour in Alaska, she stepped over another threshold of her career—something she has been doing regularly for 21 of her 25 years.

The current tour, part of Alaska's statehood celebration, will be interwoven with appearances in Alaskan schools. Marilyn will return to sing Dec. 8 at USC's Scholarship Concert and Dec. 13 with the Long Beach Symphony. Dec. 14 she will return to Germany, where she has been studying and working since 1956, to prepare the role of Leonora in "Il Trovatore" which she will sing this winter in Hamburg.

The vivacious, 5 feet 2 brunette, whose stature seems miraculously to heighten on stage, crossed her most decisive threshold when she decided to go to Germany.

A product of Long Beach schools — she was graduated from Washington Junior High School and Polytechnic High School—she won a voice scholarship to USC. Teachers and critics recognized the technical excellence and golden warmth of her voice and she was caught up quickly in professional life.

* * * *

FIVE YEARS ago she was chosen as Dorothy Dandridge's "voice" in the movie, "Carmen Jones." A flood of tempting commercial offers poured in, including a lucrative Broadway musical and parts in U. S. opera companies.

Then in 1956 Impresario Martin Taubman from Vienna heard her sing in Los Angeles and offered to manage her career—if she was willing to devote the necessary years to preparation in Europe.

"It was a hard decision," admits Marilyn. "My father, himself a tenor, had guided me so wisely and lovingly since my parents first recognized my interest in singing when I was 4. He watched for the right opportunities for me, would never let my voice be exploited or pushed. He thought that I should stay in the United States.

"As a child I was hard to control, a free spirit. My father and mother knew how much I loved music before I did. My father waited until I finished playing after school, then, so patiently, when I came in, he would have me practice.

"Now, suddenly, he and I were arguing about my career.

"One night I said, 'I'm going to bed, I will tell you in the morning what I am going to do.' The next day I said, 'I'm going,' and that was that."

* * * *

POIGNANT aftermath came shortly when, in New York to see his daughter off for Germany, Mr. Horne was stricken with acute leukemia and died two days later. His last words to Marilyn, as he held her hand, were, "Go on. You have what it takes."

The following year, headquartered at Gelsenkirchen in the Ruhr Valley, Marilyn dedicated to learning the language, study, concert and operatic performances. She sang in the Vienna Festival at Stravinsky's request, and did "Elektra" with Mitropoulos at the Salzburg Festival.

Then she flew back to sing "Cinderella" for the Los Angeles Opera Guild, and to visit with her mother, Mrs. Jay Bentz Horne, 2951 Pacific Ave.; young brother, Jay, 10; sister, Gloria; and brother, Richard.

"Mother is fantastic; she is our rock," says her daughter. "I have to come home from time to time, touch home base, to keep my perspective."

* * * *

DURING THE past two years in Europe, Marilyn has sung 10 major operatic roles and an increasing number of concerts working with some of the world's greatest conductors. Critics in Rome, Turin, Naples, Vienna has given her high praise.

Her favorite role? "Whatever I am singing at the moment," though Tatjana in Tchaikovsky's "Eugen Onegin" rates near the top.

But there's no doubt about her favorite city: "There are those who say Paris is the most beautiful city in the world, and there are those who know Rome is."

The growing promise of a great career is founded solidly on the technical excellence of her voice, but there is another quality, perhaps explained by her admission: "What I really like is people—even other sopranos!"

As she steps across each threshold, Marilyn comes closer to her unwavering goal: "To learn to sing really well so that I can give to others the thrilling pleasure music has brought me."

GIRL OF MANY ROLES

With never-ceasing study and practice, Marilyn Horne prepares her musical roles, believing that many young singers today expect to win success too easily. "The voice is like wine," she says, "it mellows with age."—(Staff Photo.)

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

When Joseph Szigeti was 25 he became head of the violin class at the Geneva Conservatory in Switzerland. Here he met a lovely Russian girl, who had been sent with her sister to a finishing school, but was cut off from her parents by the revolution. Despite seemingly insurmountable legal entanglements they were finally married, and today they share a love grown rich through the eventful years.

Difficult years followed this marriage. The war confined Szigeti's concert tours to Switzerland. Once he ventured a concert in Berlin, but because of a strike no one could get to the concert so he played the program in candlelight to an empty house! Getting back to his wife, who was expecting her first baby, was a torturous ordeal as no trains were running. After interminable days he finally got home, making the journey in total blackout.

* * * *

AT THE GENEVA Conservatory, Jose Iturbi was conducting piano classes and the two men became, and have remained, great friends; both now living in the Los Angeles area.

Szigeti made several tours of Russia, the last one in 1937, and he has the nostalgic memories of those days. He was honored by an invitation from Glazounov to succeed Leopold Auer as teacher of violin in the Leningrad Academy. This was the more flattering since Szigeti's violin playing was (and is) the antithesis of the Auer school of teaching.

Leopold Stokowski heard him play in Zurich in 1925 and engaged him to play with the Philadelphia Orchestra, and so he first came to America at that time.

Still concertizing, only this year did Szigeti sever a managerial contract that had lasted for 30 years. Last summer he gave master classes at the University of Colorado, one of many such classes he has given in the great universities of our country.

* * * *

MANY HONORS have been bestowed upon him. Outstanding among them being the Legion d'Honneur Rosette and a diploma making him an honorary member of the Royal Academy of Music in London.

Beginning nearly 50 years ago with Columbia, Joseph Szigeti is one of the few recording artists who is still active in the recording field. His new recordings with Mercury of the Brahms Concerto with the London Symphony and Brahms Sonata, Op. 100, will be released Dec. 15.

His home is a treasure store of remarkable things; original manuscripts, a great library, beautiful, original paintings and sculpture. But choicest of all is the wonderful Guarnerius violin, dated 1701.

We took reluctant leave of Joseph Szigeti, erudite gentleman of charm and culture; a dispenser of musical good will throughout the nations.

Jazz Concert Here Friday

Pianist Oscar Peterson and his trio will make their first Long Beach appearance in Irving Granz' "Jazz a la Carte" concert Friday in Municipal Auditorium. The program will incude Cal Tjader and his band, and the Hi-Los vocal group.

Peterson is considered by fans and critics as one of today's finest pianists. Other members of his trio are Down Beat winner Ray Brown on bass and Ed Thigpen on drums.

'Auntie Mame' Tryouts Today

Tryouts for "Auntie Mame," successful Broadway hit to be presented by the Off-Broadway Theater in December, will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. today in the Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave.

The play calls for a large cast of men, women, boys and girls of all ages, and especially two boys about 10 years old.

Royal Stanton Will Direct Los Angeles Bach Festival

Royal Stanton, chairman of the Long Beach City College Music Department, has been named director of the annual Bach Festival at First Congregational Church, 6th St. and Commonwealth Ave., Los Angeles, Nov. 20-22.

The festival, devoted to performance of the works of Johann Sebastian Bach, now is in its 26th year.

Stanton is director of the church's Cathedral Choir and previously participated in the Bach festivals.

* * * *

STANTON came to Long Beach after teaching in San Luis Obispo and Pomona schools. He was choral director at Polytechnic High School from 1946; joined the City College music staff in 1950 and became head of the department in 1958.

He is immediate past president of the California Junior College Music Educators; past secretary, California Music Executives; past president, Southern California Junior College Music Assn. and on the board of governors, California Choral Conductors Guild.

Stanton and Lauris Jones, conductor of the Long Beach Symphony Orchestra, will conduct concerts at the Bach Festival.

* * * *

STANTON will conduct the Mass in B-Minor, closing event of the festival, at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22, which will feature the Cathedral Choir, soloists and chamber orchestra. Thirty-five members of the Long Beach City College Schola Cantorum will participate.

Jones will conduct the Occidental College Orchestra in a concert of rarely-heard Bach works at 8 p.m. Nov. 21. The concert will feature the Gregg Smith Singers, Los Angeles choral group. Programmed is Bach's Motet VI and Concerto for Four Harpsichords and Orchestra.

The opening concert at 8 p.m. Nov. 20 will present Alexander Schreiner, organist, Salt Lake City Tabernacle, leading interpreter of Bach's organ works.

At 3 p.m. Nov. 22 massed choral groups and orchestras from the Los Angeles City Schools will be presented.

Classical Music Is Satisfying

Serious music offers satisfying listening for, as one RCA-Victor title indicates, "It's Classic But It's Good." The following new records at the Long Beach Public Library illustrate the point:

Beethoven, "Quartet in E Flat Major for Piano" played by the Festival Quartet; Brahms, "Symphony No. 4 in E Minor" conducted by Munch; Elgar, "Pomp and Circumstance Marches" conducted by Sir Arthur Bliss; "The French Touch" with selections played by the Boston Symphony Orchestra; Glazunoff, "The Seasons: Ballet Suite," Desormiere conducting.

Any of these long-play records may be borrowed from the Main Library in Lincoln Park.

Artist - photographer Alfred Wolff will present "The Crossroads of Man," second program in the 1959-60 Film Lecture series, at five local high school auditoriums this week.

Opening at 8 p.m. Monday in Wilson High School auditorium, the film lecture will be repeated Tuesday at Jordan, Wednesday at Millikan, Thursday at Polytechnic and Friday at Lakewood High School auditorium. Season tickets will be available at the door each evening and at all City College General Adult Division offices during the week.

'Winterset' Next Drama at LBCC

"Winterset," Maxwell Anderson's blank verse tragedy based on the famous Sacco and Vanzetti case, will be presented by Long Beach City College Theater Arts performers at 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. Friday and 8:30 p.m. Saturday in the college auditorium. Tickets will be available at the door.

Leading roles in the student-directed production are played by Garth Puckett as Mio, Caryl Wichman as Miriamne, Jon Johnson as Trock, Ted Cheadle as Garth, Bill Wildman as Esdras, Jim Moran as Judge Gaunt and John Bennett as Shadow. Director is Ron Hogue.

The play is haunted by an unseen ghost—that of Mio's father, executed years before for a murder he did not commit.

* * * *

RUMORS that new evidence has been found bring together Mio, seeking to clear his father's name; the guilty Trock, ruthlessly bent on destroying all who could accuse him; Garth, who knows the truth; Judge Gaunt, obsessed by the fear that he had allowed a miscarriage of justice, and Miriamne, sister of Garth, who loves Mio.

In the tense, ironic climax of the drama, Mio finds the proof he needs—and cannot use it.

Other members of the cast are Mike Rowan, Val Perry, Carole McInnes, Jerry Nikas, William DeMealle, Clint Lev, Reo DeGenero, Sylvia Starratt, Bruce Starratt, Richard Bass, Herman Bryant, Dave Stewart and Henry Dankowski.

Lauris Jones will conduct the symphony orchestra next Sunday evening in Long Beach City College Auditorium.

* * * *

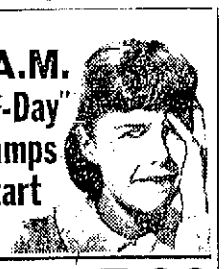

THE PREVIEW, open to the public and holders of concert tickets without charge, is the first of four, one to be given before each concert this season. Those wishing to remain for luncheon may make reservations with Mrs. Fred Ohlendorf, 4220 Heather Rd.

Preview programs have been arranged by a joint committee composed of members of Junior League of Long Beach, of which Mrs. Richard Burdge is president; and the Symphony Guild, headed by Mrs. Don Raney. Mrs. Malcolm Todd is committee chairman.

The guild, which fosters the Long Beach Symphony, reports that its recent Pops Concert netted $1,950 which will be used to further the development of the orchestra.

GREAT MEDICAL NEWS! and a remarkable guarantee

KURB stimulates peripheral circulation like hot water bag heat. You feel warm—more comfortable—relaxed yet exhilarated. We call this *pharmacologic heat.

As pain fades muscle spasms quiet down — cramped muscles function smoothly. You feel like living again.

For monthly upsets get KURB at your druggists'—so safe it can be purchased without a doctor's prescription.

KURB may flush skin

When you take 2 KURB tablets close together you may notice a fleeting flush over face and neck. Many say that the more they flush the faster are results. Money back if not delighted.

*Sensation of heat due to Niacin in majority of cases.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Executive Leo Malco an Efficient Fellow

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P-T Food Editor

He's vice president, general manager and treasurer. It's three-in-one, but that isn't all—he's more than busy civic-wise. Chef of the Week Leo Malco does, however, operate with smooth efficiency the above three jobs at Bishop & Malco, Inc.

Malco is a native Californian, an Angeleno to be exact. What's more, his entire business life has been spent in the same store. Twenty years ago he came to Long Beach as buyer and divisional merchandise manager of their predecessor company, Walker's Department Store.

* * * *

SINCE THAT time he has had many different positions with the company, i.e. general merchandise manager of the downtown store, manager of the Los Altos store and his present position as general manager. More than two years ago, "chef" Joe Bishop and he purchased Walker's, changing the name to Bishop & Malco.

Keeping in prngressive step with Long Beach, they just recently announced plans for a $500,000 modernnzation program to begin early next year. It will include redoing the exterior —refixturing and re-alining the interior with new lighting, air conditioning, and the addition of many new features and improvements to make shopping a pleasure.

Malco likes sports, and outdoor life — mostly fishing, boating and golfing. But time alone, not inclination, has grounded him to the back yard swimming pool. He attempts that daily.

* * * *

ON THE board of directors of Long Beach Associates, he is active in the Better Business Bureau, the Convention Bureau and the Catholic Welfare. He holds membership in the Chamber of Commerce, the Serra and Newman Clubs and is a Downtown Lion. His wife, Elaine, vies for honors with him in civic and charitable work, yet they each spend much time with three children, David, Elaine Anne and Anna.

What our "chef" likes best about cooking is eating—his favorite "dish" being a thick, juicy steak, cooked on an open fire. Just what he's doing with a cucumber poised over an empty salad bowl, we wouldn't know. We understand that he's usually working on a diet, so perhaps he's doing what comes naturally—tossing a salad. So we'll proceed to fill it up for him and top it with Malco's Salad Dressing. He wasn't sure whether it was Italian or French. We weren't, either, so combined 'em with these results.

MALCO'S DRESSING
1 cup salad oil
¼ cup red wine vinegar
Juice of 1 lemon
¼ cup chopped green onions
¼ cup chopped parsley
¼ cup crumbled blue cheese
6 finely cut anchovy fillets
¼ teasp. monosodium glutamate
½ teasp. coarse black pepper
Dash of garlic powder
Mix ingredients to blend. Makes about 1⅔ cups.

The most favorable thing that can be said about South's bidding is that it was poor. He certainly should have shown his heart support at some stage of the auction whereupon the hand would have played in hearts and North would have had no trouble making a grand slam. He would have to ruff two diamonds before drawing trumps, but that would not have been much of a task.

If South's play had been as bad as his bidding he would have gone down at the spade slam, but fortunately for North-South, and their future relations, South knew how to handle the trump suit.

* * * *

HE WON the first club; led a low trump and played low from d u m m y. East made his best play. He won and led a trump right back, but now South was ready for the rest of the tricks.

He won in dummy; came to his hand with a diamond; r u f f e d one club with dummy's last trump; got back to his hand with a heart; drew trumps and got rid of his last two clubs on dummy's hearts.

Dear Abby

Only You Know Answer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I will make this short, although I could write a book about it. I am a sophomore in college. I have just learned that I am going to have a baby. For reasons which I cannot tell you, there is no chance of the baby's father marrying me now or in the future.

I know I will have to leave school and return home p r e t t y soon. My greatest problem is whether I should keep this baby or give it up for adoption. I have cried and prayed but the answer doesn't come to me. Can you help me?

TROUBLED SOUL

ABBY

DEAR TROUBLED: The best answer I can offer is to share w i t h you this letter from a girl who has had to face the s a m e p r o b l e m. Hope y o u will profit by the wisdom in her thinking. God bless you and help you.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 years old and a university student. Last year I gave birth to an illegitimate baby. The father couldn't marry me. Of course I had to leave school and tell my parents why. When my condition was impossible to conceal, I went to a home for unwed mothers.

Abby, you can't imagine what it is like in such a home. There were 50 of us girls from every imaginable station in life, all drawn together by one common experience. We all had little jobs around the home which we did gladly. There were classes offered and plenty of recreation time. We were allowed to take short walks around the neighborhood every afternoon.

With the birth of each baby, the home buzzed with the big question, "Is she keeping her baby?"

Yes, many kept their babies. I gave mine up.

He was a beautiful 8-pound boy and I know he is making some young couple very happy. I also know that although I "lost" my baby, he is gaining more than I could have given him.

My best friend kept her baby. She writes to me often and says she is very happy and has no regrets. I think each of us made the right choice for herself.

If I were to advise a girl who had to make this decision, I would tell her to ask herself, "Can I give my baby a good home? Will I be accepted? Will I ever resent my child? Will my child ever resent me?"

Sincerely Yours,
A FORMER UNWED MOTHER

Big Auto Show During 'Good Ol' Days' Here

One of the most complete auto shows in the nation will be offered free in Long Beach during the Good Ol' Days celebration Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Besides the showing of most of the 1960 model passenger cars, there will be a block long display of the newest in house trailers plus a great display of car club vehicles, midget racers and there will be a gala horseless carriage parade.

The Long Beach MG Club is participating in Good Ol' Days for the first time and will have a great display. Frank Mason will show his "square" TC model MG which has been awarded 38 trophies and there will be many other cars shown, all selected for spectator appeal.

* * * *

IN THE SPORT cars display, hoods of vehicles will be raised so the public may see the chromed details and sparkling accessories the members have installed on their cars.

The hottest of these cars will be displayed on Fifth St. to compete for 24 trophies. The other automobile show will be on Pine Ave.

Vito Romans, general manager, of Downtown Long Beach Associates, the sponsors of Good Ol' Days, said there will never be a dull moment during the three big days. Not only will there be much entertainment on the streets, but the individual stores will have some special events, in addition to the attractive bargains which will be sold at old-time prices.

* * * *

THE EVENT begins at 9:30 Thursday morning with the stores opening their doors for the bargains and Pine Ave. and Fifth St. partially blocked off for the car, house trailer and antique displays.

At 11 a. m. will be judging of the window display contest and judging of the car club displays.

At 2 p.m. will be the Chester Conklin costume contest at Sears corner, 5th and Long Beach Blvd. The old-time movie actor will award prizes for the best costumes worn by the public or by clerks.

The Long Beach City College Old Timers Adult Division Singers, average age 78, will sing at the Sav-On corner, Fourth and Pine Ave. At 3:30 there will be a concert by the Long Beach Municipal Band on Pine Ave. There will be no night events Thursday.

* * * *

SOMETHING WILL be doing from 9:30 Friday morning until late at night, Romans explained. Highlights will include the quarter and half-midget auto racers on display on Pine between 7th and 8th Sts., with demonstrations scheduled for 10 a. m., 3 p. m. and 5 p. m.

The Chester Conklin costume contest Friday will be on the Sav-On corner, Fourth and Pine at 2 p. m. The Municipal Band will play again at 3:30 p. m.

Friday night at 8 p. m. will be the judging of the beard and mustache contests at the bandstand across from the Chicken Pie Shop, 737 Pine Ave. This will be followed by square dancing.

* * * *

SATURDAY MORNING the street displays will include the L. B. MG Club in a concourse between 7th and 8th Sts. on Pine.

At 11 a. m. Saturday will be the horseless carriage caravan from Ocean Ave., out Long Beach Blvd. to Willow, back to 10th St. west to Pine and south on Pine to Ocean. The horseless carriages will then go on display in Lincoln Park with a Turn of the Century fashion show slated with them at 12:30 p. m. The costume contest Saturday will be at 2 p. m. at the Foreman & Clark corner, Broadway and Pine. At 3 p. m. will be a hog calling contest for both men and women at the bandstand, 740 Pine Ave. Awards for the car clubs will be presented at the bandstand at 4 p. m.

CARS ARE 'SPOTLESS'

TCs and MGs will be on display Saturday, Nov. 7, during Downtown Good Ol' Days. Frank Mason, long-time sports car enthusiast and member of the Long Beach MG Club, hams it up as pretty Betty Tanner smiles prettily. Betty is also an owner of an MG and a member of the Long Beach MG Club, which this year received its second national recognition as the "top" MG club.

Big Palos Verdes Development Set

Confirming the rumor that a $50 million Monaco-Palos Verdes residential development would soon get underway on a 180-acre parcel of choice land formerly owned by Palos Verdes Properties, Herbert Kronish, land investor and builder and president of Republic Construction Corp. admitted the purchase of the view property.

At the same time, Kronish announced that a Monaco-Palos Verdes Corp. would be set up to administer the property development, with Seymour Owens, veteran real estate developer, already named as director of sales, and Albert Fink, comptroller for Republic Construction, scheduled to take over similar duties for the Monaco-Palos Verdes Corp.

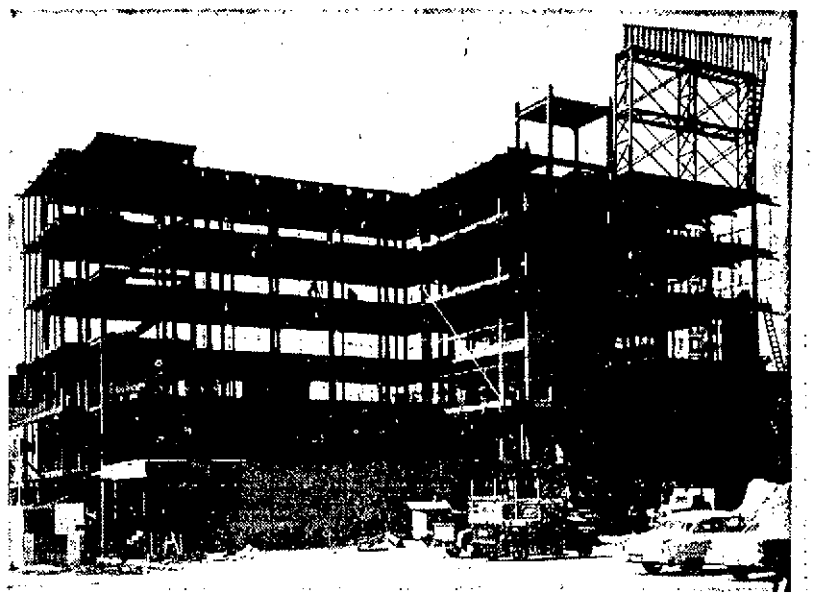

* * * *

"WE HAVE CALLED the whole section Monaco-Palos Verdes because of its remarkable resemblance to the famed European principality," the land developer explained, adding that the American Monaco will have many advantages not shared by its Riviera counterpart.

Strategically located, this prize hillside property at its highest point abuts the proposed site of the new Nortronics Research Center.

"Our plans now call for subdividing our 180 acres into 380 lots, everyone with a view, overlooking Marineland and the sea, or the new L. A. County Palos Verdes Golf Course, or both.

"However," Kronish added, "we also plan to keep this Monaco-Palos Verdes development within the reach of the middle-income group. We'd like to make this American Monaco available to people who have always wanted to have a home with a view. In our Monaco, you don't have to be a prince, or marry one, to get it."

BEACH HOTEL RISING

Steel erection has been completed on the Twilighter Capri Hotel at Long Beach. The building, being constructed by Max Nessel, general contractor, will be jointly operated by the Doric and Lurie Hotel Corp. and is scheduled for completion in February. Situated on a bluff overlooking the ocean, the six-story hotel will have a main entrance on the fourth-floor opening on Ocean Blvd., with a first-floor beach entrance on Seaside Blvd. It will contain 59 rooms, a cocktail lounge, dining room, and banquet room. A swimming pool will be located on the second floor. Steel work was fabricated and erected by Pacific Iron and Steel Corp. of Los Angeles. A total of 165 tons of structural steel was used in the building. When completed, the hotel will contain approximately 36,000 square feet of floor area and will cost $800,000. The building was designed by Francis H. Gentry of Long Beach.

Home Sales in Eastgate Pass $14 Million Mark

AN EASTGATE HOME

Sale of homes in Eastgate have been heavy since the development opened with models such as this selling from $11,950. Nearly half of the 2,500 homes have been sold.

Home sales at the popular Eastgate residential community in Garden Grove passed the $14,000,000 mark this past week with nearly half of the 2500 homes planned for the community now sold, according to Verdie Mattocks, sales manager of McFarland & Mattocks, sales agents.

First announced three months ago, the Eastgate homes have been in great demand because of their unusual custom styling, quality construction and many extra features at a total price well within the budget of average income families.

* * * *

BUYERS HAVE a choice of 15 different exterior designs in a wide variety of architectural styles accented with shutters, planters and effective combinations of wood, brick and stone trim.

Quality materials and the latest improved construction techniques are used throughout the homes. Typical is the unique rigid truss construction of the roofs which permit an unusual flexibility in the arrangement of the spacious rooms. Thickbutt composition shingles and wood shingle trim assure long life with minimum maintenance. Another exclusive feature of the homes is a plastic membrane moisture barrier in the foundation.

The Eastgate homes have a roomy inside living area of 1102 to 1361 sq. ft in a variety of floor plans with 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, living room, family room and well equipped kitchen. An attached double garage and large yard area complete the excellent facilities for comfortable family living.

* * * *

AMONG the many quality features of the homes are ceramic tile counters, solid hardwood cabinets, waste disposal, aluminum frame sliding glass windows and patio doors with screens, and large walk-in wardrobe closets.

Wall-to-wall carpeting and a built-in O'Keefe & Merritt counter top gas range and wall oven are added features included in the larger homes. A living room fireplace is optional in all models at a small additional cost.

Adding to the appeal of the homes is their excellent location in Orange County's most popular residential area, within easy commuting distance of employment centers and near the beaches and many other recreation attractions in the vicinity. The Eastgate community has complete shopping facilities, churches, parks and landscaped streets with sidewalks, ornamental lighting and all improvements.

* * * *

PERHAPS the greatest appeal of the Eastgate homes is their surprisingly low cost of $11,950 to $14,450 with a down payment as low as $195 plus $90 costs available to non-vets.

Four furnished model homes are open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at Eastgate, located at the corner of Knott and Chapman Aves. in Garden Grove, just west of Hwy. 39.

C. W. Cole to Build Two Major Hotels

Charles W. Cole, formerly of the Wilton Hotel here, has resigned as vice president and general manager of the chain of 12 Massaglia-owned hotels. He will continue as general manager of the Hotel New Yorker until the end of the year.

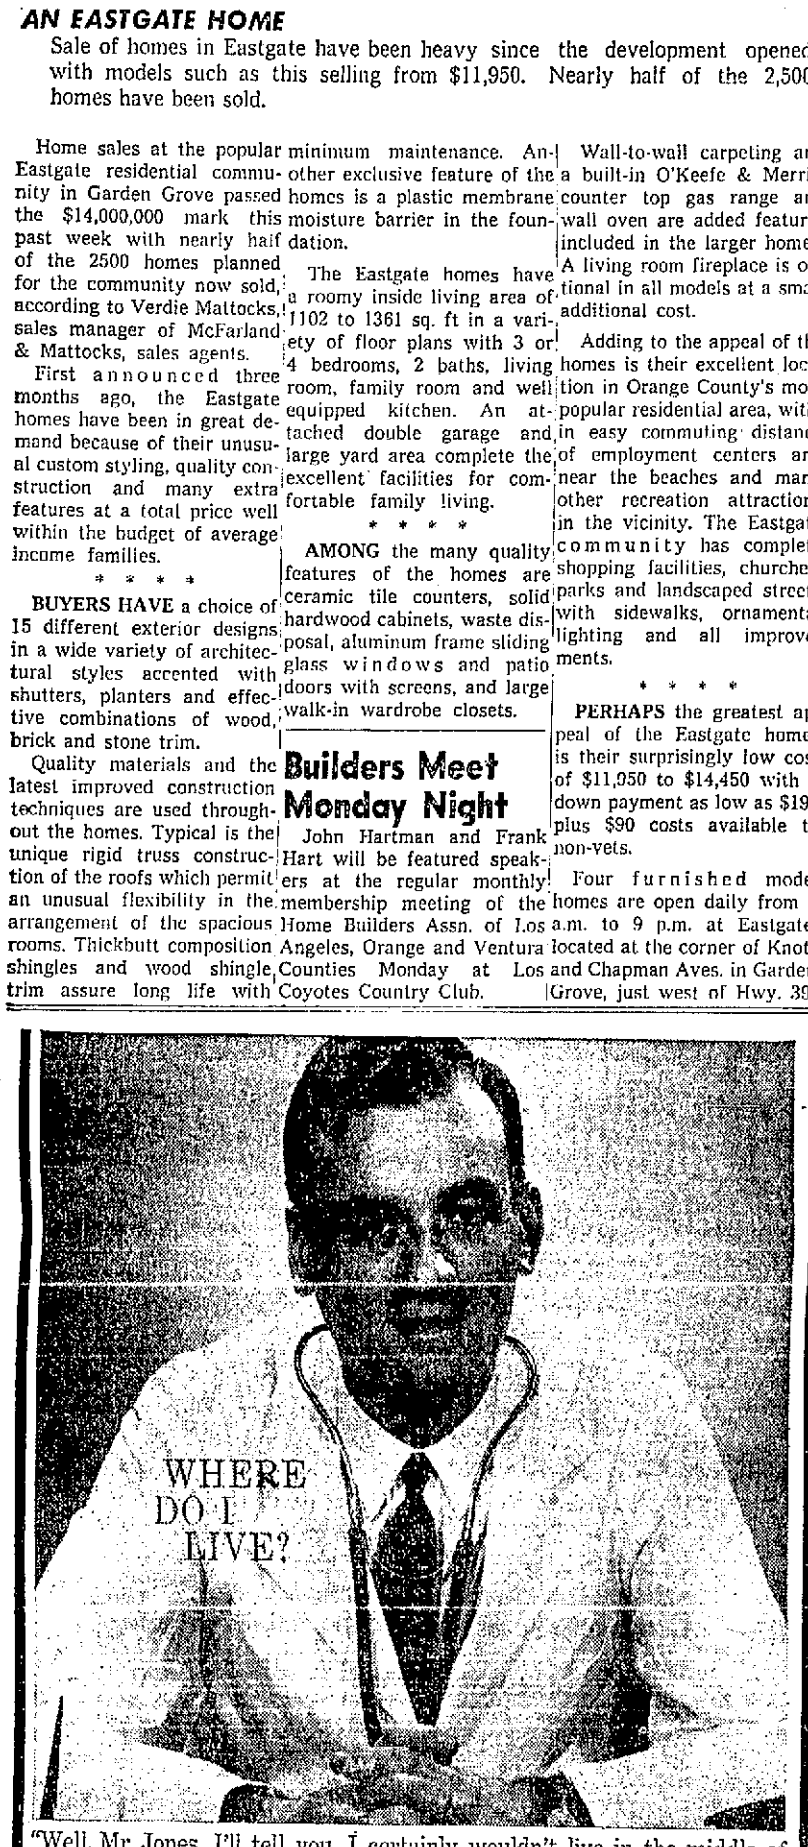

Jan. 1, Cole will open offices in Los Angeles of his new firm, Cole Hotels, Inc., and will develop a chain of Cole Hotels and Motor Inns.

The Hotel New Yorker was recently purchased by New York Towers, Ltd., Alexander Gross, president, from Joseph Massaglia, Jr.

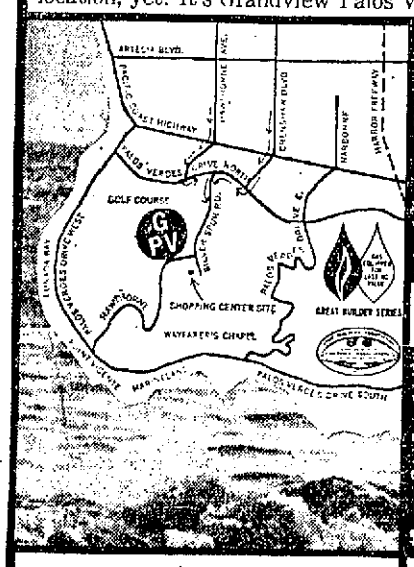

* * * *

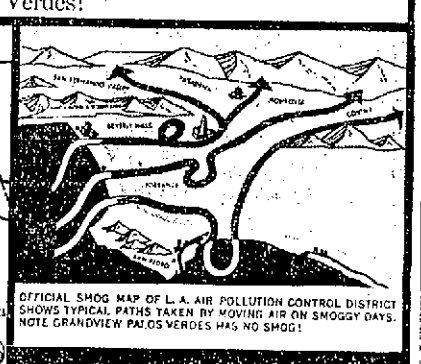

THE PAST TWO YEARS, Cole also operated three hotels as a personal enterprise. Last Spring he opened the Cole Hotel in Albuquerque, and at an additional cost of $500,000, transformed the former million dollar El Fidel Hotel into a streamlined modern hostelry. In Utica, N. Y., he operates the Hotel Utica, and in Tucson, the El Conquistador.

He plans immediately to start construction of two new hotels, one in Reno, the other in Victoria, Texas. In Reno, in association with Tom Raley, of Sacramento, food market operator, Cole will build a $3.5 million, 250-unit Motor Hotel within a mile of city center. Located on Highway 40, it will include a luxury-type gambling casino, featuring floor-show spectaculars. In Victoria, Tex., he will build a Motel Inn of 255 rooms, banquet hall of 1000 seat capacity and swimming pool. Associated with Cole in this enterprise will be A. B. J. Hammett, former New Yorker.

"Well, Mr. Jones, I'll tell you. I certainly wouldn't live in the middle of smog, like others do, and here's why: according to a Los Angeles County Medical Association survey, 60 per cent of physicians specializing in chest ailments had recommended that patients leave the smog area. So had 51 per cent of internists and 50.6 per cent of general practitioners! They advised this because their patients were suffering from eye irritation, chest pains, cough, shortness of breath, nausea, headache—and so on. Not good for adults—and assuredly not good for children. Now, why not move your family out where I live? Clean ocean air (smog-free) water sports, golf, tennis, plenty of shopping facilities. Oh, didn't I tell you the name of the location, yet? It's Grandview Palos Verdes!"*

Even Most Police Can't Find Secret Identification on Car

By JACK VANDENBERG

DETROIT (UPI) — One of the best kept secrets in the nation is the location of a second identification number on every American-made automobile.

Almost every motorist knows that his car has an identification which is registered with state officials for recovery of the car in case it is stolen.

Many know where to find this identification number and those who don't can find out from any gasoline station attendant or law enforcement official.

* * * *

BUT UNTIL NOW only a select, small group of men even knew about the existence of a second identification number and even more select and smaller group of men knew where it is located.

Only a few employes of the companies that make the cars have knowledge of the location of this second identification number. Also "in the know" are FBI agents and special detectives of the National Auto Theft Bureau of the insurance industry.

Even local and state police are not in on the secret. It is guarded with almost as much care as development of a new military weapon.

* * * *

BY LIMITING KNOWLEDGE of the location of this identification number to only a select few, the national auto theft bureau figures it is cutting down the chances of word leaking out to would-be car thives. And, even though it would be difficult to remove this mark of identification if its location was known, the bureau figures the secrecy avoids attempts to eradicate the identfication number, leaving one sure way to determine rightful ownership.

Richard Wedekind of the National Auto Theft Bureau said the second identification number was first put on cars shortly after World War II when the motor identification number was dropped.

That left only the body serial number visible and state motor vehicle administration switched to those numbers as the identifying mark of autos.

* * * *

IT WAS AGREED that the serial number would be placed in an easily accessible location on the body, It would be stamped on a stainless steel plate and welded to the body.

All auto companies except Ford follow this practice today. Ford stamps the number in the metal of the car under the hood.

The new pratice makes the number more accessible and more easily checked by police officials who stop a car. Generally, the serial number plate is located in the door frame of the car.

The Ford practice has the advantage of being more difficult to tamper with and still being fairly accessible. Ford also uses an aluminum plate on the door post which carries an identification number, but this plate is easily removed.

The second identification number hidden away on all cars is the one top law enforcement and insurance officials really count on fora closely-guarded secret, they final identification of a car. feel there is almost no chance

Because its location is suchof it being tampered with.

Meet Wednesday

Chapter 21 of the National Assn. of Retired Civil Employes will meet at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, in the Garden Room, Mottell's and Peek, 901-939 E. 3rd St. Refreshments will be served after the business session.

Big Palos Verdes Homes in Demand

Luxury home sales at Grandview Palos Verdes, peninsula community of Edward K. Zuckerman and Barney R. Morris, reached a record smashing $1,300,000 in October.

Sales Director William C. Kulow attributed the sales increase to homeseeker's desire for smog-free living in addition to the peninsula's easy access to Los Angeles International Airport and the major aircraft and electronic plants in nearby industrial areas.

At Grandview Palos Verdes there are 12 plans, providing for interiors of up to 1,813 sq. ft. for 3- and 4-bedroom, den or family room, 2-bath homes offered in a selection of 45 exterior designs.

Vet Needs Only $190 for Home

Priced from $12,850 and requiring $190 total cost and impounds to move in, Park Westminster's few remaining homes should attract quick sales.

Jim Young, vice-president of Brighton-Bilt Homes, said the purchase of a Park Westminster home is as simple as paying rent, and much more practical.

The homes feature 3 bedrooms and 2 baths, with 2-car garages. Kitchens feature built-in gas ranges and ovens, garbage disposals, ample storage space planned for all parts of the homes, and decorator coordinated interiors.

To see Park Westminster drive east from Long Beach on 7th St. or Westminster Blvd., to Hwy 39. Turn right to 29th St., and then left to the sales office.

Up to 9 Miles More Per Gallon! Up to 20 More Horsepower!

YES! In the next two minutes I'm going to show you how you can get up to 20 MORE HORSEPOWER from your car . . . how you can save enough gas in a single year to drive up to A FULL THOUSAND MILES . . . how you can eliminate most of the ignition knocks and pings that are driving you crazy now . . . how you can get battery-saving, sure-fire starting even in below-freezing weather—and do it without buying one single complicated gadget—without paying a mechanic a penny! How? SIMPLY BY CHANGING YOUR OLD SPARK PLUGS—WITHOUT PAYING ONE PENNY MORE THAN YOU'D PAY TODAY FOR ANY ORDINARY SET OF PLUGS.

By ED MITCHELL

Let me say this at the start. If your car has been driven more than 3,000 miles, you know that you're going to have to change your spark plugs in the next few weeks anyway! What I'm offering you on this page is a very simple investment. I want you to try the most fantastic spark plug in the world, entirely at my risk. A spark plug that costs not one penny more than the old-fashioned model that's on your car today. But THIS revolutionary new POWER-FLASH spark plug lasts up to 10 times as long as that old-fashioned model . . . gives you back the full blazing horsepower that the old plug is robbing you of today . . . actually saves you enough gas to drive half way across America, every single year that you use it!

Does this sound impossible? It's been proven a thousand times this year! Here is a small example of that proof.

This Is Why Your Car Wastes Gas, Loses Power

Some day, if you ever have a spare moment, lift one of the old-fashioned spark plugs out of your car! Look at the bottom of that plug. In 10 seconds, you'll learn more about gas waste than any book could teach you in a year.

If that plug has been in your car three thousand miles or more, then what you'll see on the bottom of that plug is FILTH! The Firing Point of that plug—the most important single point in your car—will be choked, strangled and fouled with BLACK, FILTHY CARBON! Carbon that robs your car of as much as 20 vital horsepower every time your engine fires!

Now, wipe that filth away and look at the Firing Point itself. This is the POWER POINT of your car . . . the pinhead of electricity that turns raw gas into 300 horsepower of driving energy! And what is the condition of that POINT? CORRODED . . . PITTED . . . SCARRED . . . AND WORN! Hardly able to deliver half the spark it should! Wasting gas . . . wasting money every time you put your foot on the pedal!

Yes! You pay $2,000 . . . $3,000 . . . $4,000 for your car. And a single 99¢ part robs you of the real power and enjoyment of that car.

At Last a Plug So Smart That It "Thinks"

Now look at the new plug—the revolutionary POWER-FLASH plug that I send you—for exactly the same price that you're paying today!

Here is a plug that has not only ONE firing point—but hundreds of potential firing points! That actually ELIMINATES THAT DEADLY CARBON . . . BURNS IT UP . . . THROWS IT AWAY . . . KEEPS ITSELF SPARKLING CLEAN ON EVERY SINGLE STROKE! The full, blazing horsepower that was there when your car was brand-new, is still there as much as 30,000 miles later.

But that's just the beginning! This plug actually gives you the full firing power you need for every driving condition—smooth, dependable power for city stop-and-go driving . . . effortless horsepower for the parkway . . . blazing reserve power for super speeds! No more missing, sputtering, knocking when you want to pull ahead of other cars at high speeds! No more groaning take-offs at the lights! FULL POWER 24 HOURS A DAY . . . or we send you a new set Free.

And that's still just the beginning! Best of all—this is one of the toughest, strongest, longest-lasting plugs ever made! YOU COULD ACTUALLY POUND IT AGAINST A CONCRETE WALL WITH A HAMMER WITHOUT EVEN DENTING IT—AND THIS AMAZING PLUG WOULD STILL FIRE CLEAN AND HOT FOR 30,000 MILES! Yes! These fantastic plugs give you such terrific, consistent, long-lasting service that we can afford to make one of the most amazing guarantees you ever heard!

See The Amazing Difference Yourself!

Only one Firing Point on old-fashioned plugs—means trouble!

Hundreds of potential Firing Points on Power Flash Spark Plugs avoids trouble.

PRICE SLASH! Only 99¢ Each!

Yes! the world's finest Spark Plug—guaranteed to give you up to 9 miles MORE per gallon, up to 20 MORE horsepower—and now yours for the same price as you'd pay for any old-fashioned, single-pronged set of spark plugs!

Think of it! During the past year alone, we have sold over ONE MILLION of these revolutionary Power Flash Spark Plugs—at $1.45 apiece—at $9 and $12 a set! But now we are able to produce them in huge, mass-production quantities! And because this mass production slashes costs—we pass every cent of these savings on to you, in what is probably the greatest car bargain of your entire life!

Remember! You get the same iron-clad, full money-back guarantee! You get the same superb quality—that keeps these plugs operating at full efficiency in your car for two full years! And you get the same fantastic power and pick-up and performance and acceleration—and you get them at regular plug prices! Try them entirely at our risk! Send for your no-risk trial set TODAY!

Proven On 120,000 Cars!

Yes! Over 120,000 sets of these POWER FLASH Spark Plugs have already been purchased at $1.45 each! Read what drivers all over the country say about their incredible performance—the same kind of performance that you can have this very next week—without paying one penny more than you would for ordinary plugs!

SAVES $8 A MONTH ON GAS ALONE!

"Your Power Plugs are well on the way to paying for themselves. So far have saved about $8.00 a month on my gasoline bill. As far as I can figure, I am getting 9 miles more per gallon of gas than I used to get."

R. O. Duluth, Minn.

GOES FROM 16 TO 23 MILES PER GALLON IN ONE HOUR!

"Received the original order for your Power Flash spark plugs for my Chevrolet 8. I tried them out on my vacation trip for about 2,500 miles and find they improved my mileage per gallon from about 16½ to 23 miles per gallon, so am sold!" A. C., Chicago, Ill.

LASTS 3½ TIMES AS LONG AS ORDINARY PLUGS — AND STILL PERFECT!

"Several months ago, I ordered a set of your Power Flash plugs for my 1953 Zephyr (English Ford). These cars are rough on spark plugs—one set of ordinary ones lasting about 2,000 miles. Since installing your Power Flash plugs, I have driven over 7,000 miles and they are still performing wonderfully well! My gas mileage has increased about 3 miles per gallon, and I notice quite an increase in performance."

P. W. K., Huntington Park, Calif.

29 MILES A GALLON FROM A '56 CHEVIE!

"I am really surprised at the performance of my 1956 Chevrolet 210 Ranch Wagon. I installed the Power Flash plugs the day they arrived, and my mileage has increased 7 to 10 miles per gallon. I am a fast driver and maintain the prevailing speeds on the super-highways—yet I was only able to put 4 and 1/10 gallons of gasoline in my tank yesterday after a special test of 120 miles!"

P. H. V., Orleans, Mass.

Guaranteed For Two Full Years!

Try It at My Risk Today!

What have you got to lose? These amazing "POWER-FLASH" plugs cost exactly the same price that you are paying today—only 99¢ each—or $5.94 for a complete set for six-cylinder cars, and $7.92 for a complete set for eight-cylinder cars. Think of it! They cost no more than ordinary old-fashioned plugs—and they can save you up to $100 this year!

But that's just the beginning! Here is my guarantee to you—a guarantee that no other spark plug manufacturer in America would dare to make! Put these plugs in your car yourself. No mechanic needed. Nothing to adjust. From the very first moment that you get back in that car and drive, you must notice amazing new power and pick-up—or I'll send every cent of your money back!

You must notice amazing new gas savings . . . you must eliminate ignition knocks and pings . . . you must get instant carbon-free cold weather starting—or I send every cent of your money back! And you must continue to get this thrilling, new-car performance year-in and year-out—FOR TWO FULL YEARS, or 30,000 MILES—or I'll send you a new set—FREE!

OUR COVER

"'The time has come,' the walrus said . . ." And that's a lot of malarkey because, as anyone but characters in "Alice in Wonderland" should know, walruses don't talk. All they can do is grunt and bellow. But, don't worry, walruses won't feel badly over being exposed this way; they're thick-skinned cusses who just want to be left alone in their native northern waters to chomp up mollusks and pick shell kernels out of their tusks with fish bones. Speaking of tusks, they're one reason there aren't more walruses. People kill them for the ivory in the tusks; also for oil, hides and food. Walruses are clumsy on land and easy to kill. But they are interesting creatures, at that. See more about them on Page 10.

NEXT WEEK

The Capitol at Sacramento, we all know, is a place where laws are made (good and bad), and where the Governor hangs his hat to transact state business. But how else does this magnificent building serve Californians? When and how did it come to be built? As a matter of fact it serves a myriad of uses and, besides, it has a tremendously interesting past. Southland tells all about it next week in a story titled "It's Your Capitol!"

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze BENBOW. My great-uncle by this name left a large sum of money which my mother never got from England. — Mrs. L.S., Long Beach.

L.S.: BENBOW was a nickname was a strong, skillful archer in England. The earliest form of the name, recorded in London in the 13th century, was William Bendebowe, clearly illustrating the source of this name before its modification. The Benbow coat-of-arms from Shropshire has two symbolic golden bows placed vertically between two bundles of golden arrows lying horizontally on a black shield. Recent family records list the British Vice Adm. John Benbow (1653-1702) of Shrewsbury, Shropshire.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief genealogy for KELLY and KELLEY. — M.E.K., MRS. M.K., Long Beach.

M.E.K., M.K.: The Gaelic Irish O'Ceallaigh was changed to the present English spelling of Kelly and Kelley four centuries ago. This famous family descends from Ceallaigh, a brave Gaelic leader whose name meant simply "Warrior." The prefix "O" means "Son of." The Kellys ruled vast estates in Galway, Ireland, for centuries. Their home, Castle Kelly, is pictured on their coat-of-arms (a silver tower supported by two rampant lions, centered on a scarlet shield). The Kellys lost most of their holdings in the days of Queen Elizabeth I. Among early settlers of York County, Pa., were John and Thomas Kelly, land owners in 1781.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would you give the origin of VAUGHAN and VAUGHN. — H.S., Long Beach; M.L., W.V., Los Angeles.

H.S., M.L., W.V.: The Welsh VAUGHAN family descended from Princes of Wales who lived prior to the 10th Century. Vaughan meant "short in stature" in ancient Cymric-Welsh. In Ireland, Vaughan is from O'Maughane or "Sons of the great man." Both Welsh and Irish American descendants shortened the name to VAUGHN. The family coat-of-arms has a rampant lion centered on an ermine covered shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on BROWN. — Mrs. M.H., Mrs. A.B., Mrs. O.R., Long Beach; Mrs. K.B., Indianapolis, Ind.

"Brune" was used in the 11th century to describe a brunet among fair-haired people. By the 1400s Brune was converted to BROWN in England, Scotland and Ireland. The Browns were barons in East Lothian, Scotland, in A.D. 1116. One of the Brown coat-of-arms has a dagger placed diagonally under a silver boar head on a black shield, with the motto "Pracmium virtutis honor," or "Honor is the reward of virtue." Peter Brown of England arrived in Massachusetts on the Mayflower in 1620 and was the family ancestor in America.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give data on FOY. — Mrs. D.M., Paramount.

D.M.: American FOY families may have either Irish or English backgrounds. The Foys of Erin are progeny of the Clann O'Fiaic of Derrybrook, near the town of Enniskillen in north Irish Ulster. O'Fiaic translates as "Sons of the Raven," a mystical, ancient name connoting "wisdom." The Gaelic name was first altered to O'Fye, then to Foy in the 1500s. In England, Foy was respelled from the Roping and bulldogging are wild and dangerous sports to the uninitiated, but to Jack Makley of Anaheim "it's just like any other job." Above are Makley on white horse, Jigger, and Wes Babcock, champion of saddle bronc riders of area in 1956-57-58, in team roping at L. B. Mounted Guard corral.

Jack Knows How to Outpull Bull

By George Eres

JACK MAKLEY'S a guy who throws the bull and nobody lifts an eyebrow—even an eyelash width.

The 28-year-old Long Beach-raised man is a prime beef tosser and is a four-time area rodeo champion. He's won three championship saddles, 1955, 1958 and 1959, in the Cowboy Association of America bulldogging division and the 1957 team roping saddle in the Western Cowboy Assn. competitions.

Currently he's rated fourth in the state in "open class" (non-members of the Rodeo Association of America) in bulldogging, according to Western Approved Rodeos, a branch of Western Fairs Assn. "I was second up to a month or so ago," said Makley, "but I haven't been competing in the north."

All of Makley's titles are for amateur competition.

"But I'm planning to go professional," he said. "There's some $3 million a year in professional prize money won in the United States in rodeos each year," he explained.

EVEN IN THE amateurs, rodeo work pays off, says Makley. "I paid a $60 entry fee for three events at Barstow last year: team roping, calf roping and bulldogging. I placed in all three: first in calf rope; seconds in team roping and bulldogging and won $485 in prizes. Over a period of a year it pays off."

Makley's fastest time bulldogging is 2.5 seconds. "That was in practice," he admitted. "My fastest time in a rodeo was 3.3 seconds over a six-foot barrier. Fastest professional time I know of is 2.3 or 2.4 seconds."

HE OWNS TWO quarter horses, each 9 years old. He's trained them himself and figures they're as good as they come.

"And a rodeo cowboy is only as good as his horse will let him be," Makley points out. One of them, Sorley, he figures to be worth about $3,500. His other horse, Jigger, is one of the best in the country, according to Makley, although it's not as valuable money-wise.

"Jigger stands calm in the box—that's where a horse can make or break you. If he breaks the barrier, you've got a 10-second penalty to overcome."

MAKLEY TIPS the scales at 160 pounds and just from looking at his 5-foot tall figure, you'd think no bull would be impressed. But he's rugged enough to handle any of the up to 600-pound steers in amateur competition and feels able to hold his own against the up to 900-pounders he would come up against as a professional.

Actually, Makley is not a cowboy—except on weekends. He's superintendent for the Indoor Weather Co., a heating and ventilating firm in Anaheim. He's never punched cows or worked on a ranch.

But he was raised just a hoot and a holler from horses. His parents still live at 3200 Golden Ave., where as a boy of 15, he had acquired his first horse, and had some experience at the Long Beach Mounted Guard clubhouse corral on Golden Ave.

HE TRIED his hand at nearly all phases of rodeo competition—roping calves and steers, bulldogging, bronc busting, bare-back bronc riding, even bullfighting.

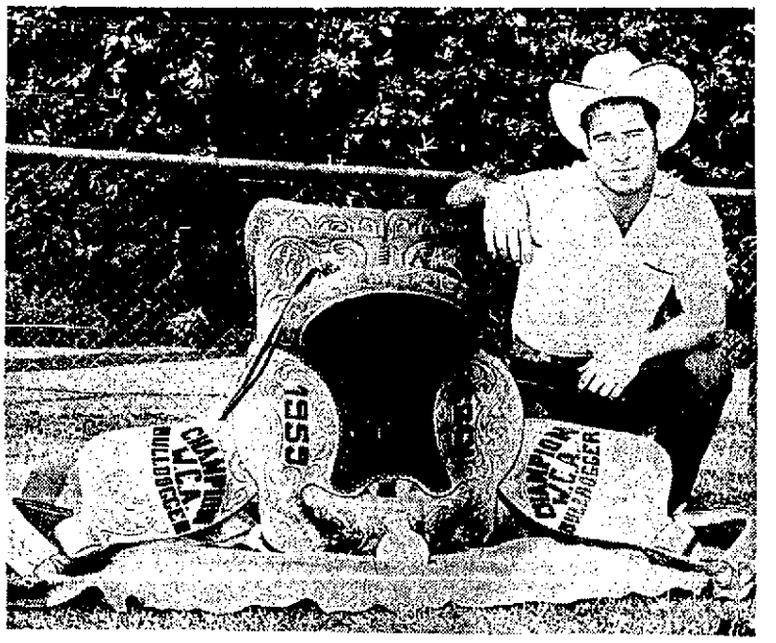

His bullfighting was as a clown in a rodeo.

"I gave that up. I never was chewed up but there was always the chance. I've though of starting again but I haven't had the time.

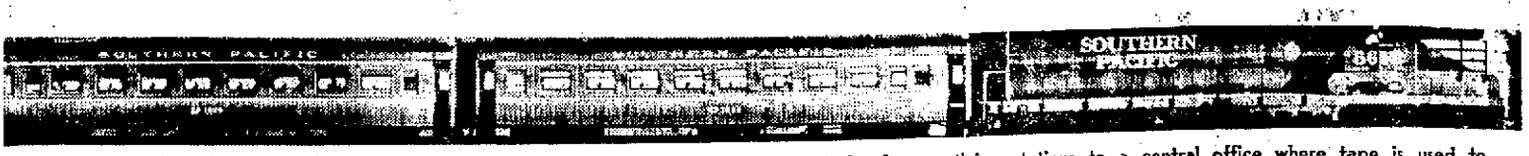

"I'm just roping and bulldogging now," he said. "They say it's dangerous work, but after you do it a while, it's just like going to work on any other job. I've had my nose broken twice; I was hooked by a steer's horn in the mouth (it healed so it's not at all noticeable); broke an ankle bone and pulled the ligaments in my leg—nothing to worry about."

Makley is shown in action "dogging" a steer in a rodeo at Stanton. On white horse, another rider "hazes" steer to keep it on straight path.

Makley displays one of four championship saddles that he has won. This one was the prize when he gained the title of champion bulldozer of this area.

TV cameras have been turned on trains in the constant quest for greater efficiency in railroading. In this case, cameras relay images of passing trains from outlying stations to a central office where tape is used to produce pictures, like that above, for study by railroad yard officials.

TV Monitors the Trains

By Joe Houston

TRAINS NOW can be monitored by television, using video tape.

Pictures of moving trains can be taken on the railroad line and flashed within seconds to wherever they are desired.

From study of the picture, the yardmaster knows both the car numbers and their sequence in the incoming train and can plan accordingly. When the freight yard has a complete picture of a train several hours before it enters a yard, the car types and numbers can be checked to keep each car heading toward its correct destination. Also, the information can be used to plan the make-up of new trains from arriving cars.

THIS IS THE WAY the Videograph system works, according to the Stanford Research Institute of Menlo Park:

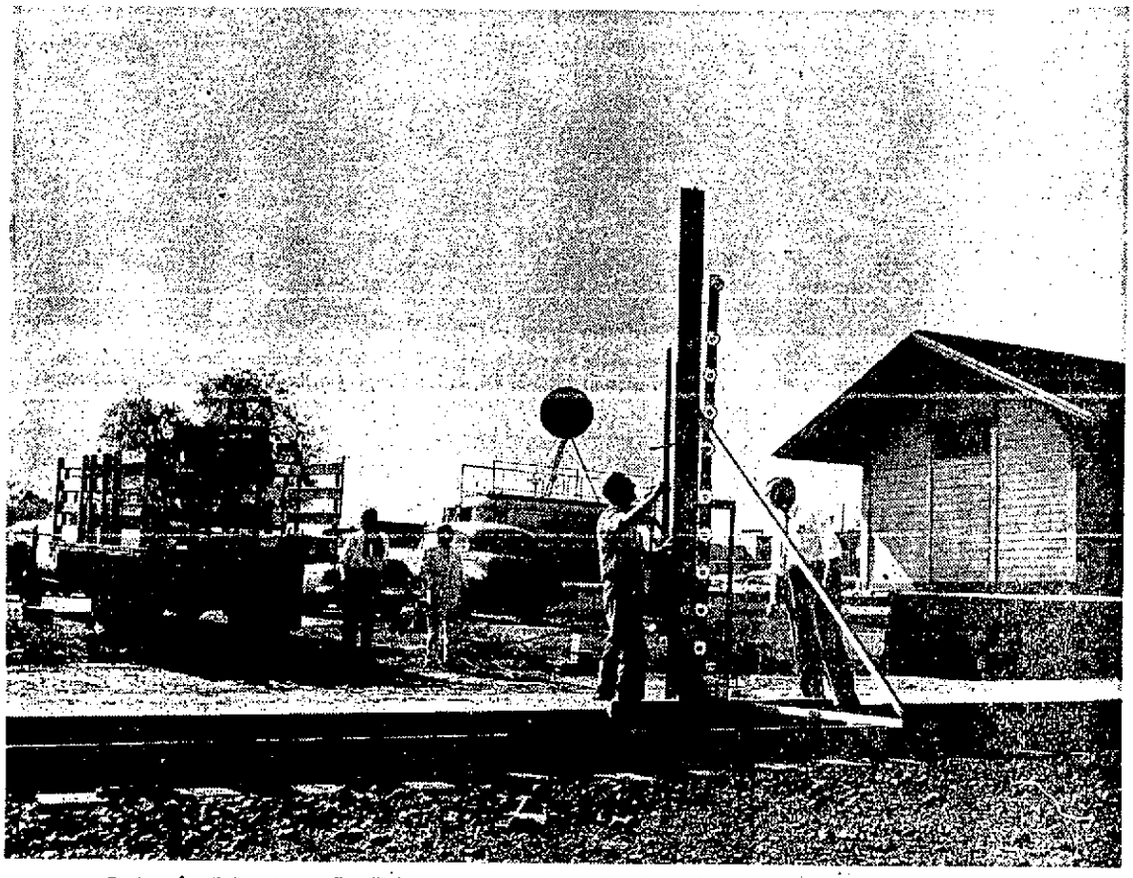

An unattended television camera is set up beside the railroad tracks at an outlying station. When a train passes, floodlights are automatically turned on, and the camera begins recording images of the cars as they pass by. The picture is flashed by coaxial cable or microwave relays to the desired point. There, the Videograph printout immediately turns out a clear, printed picture of the train on a running two-inch-wide paper tape.

Most railroads now get car information from employes who walk past the trains to check and record numbers and types while they are stopped at outlying stations. This data is then telegraphed or phoned to the next change point. Some lines, however, use conventional closed-circuit television by manually recording car numbers because the usual TV framing rates tend to blur numbers unless the trains move slowly.

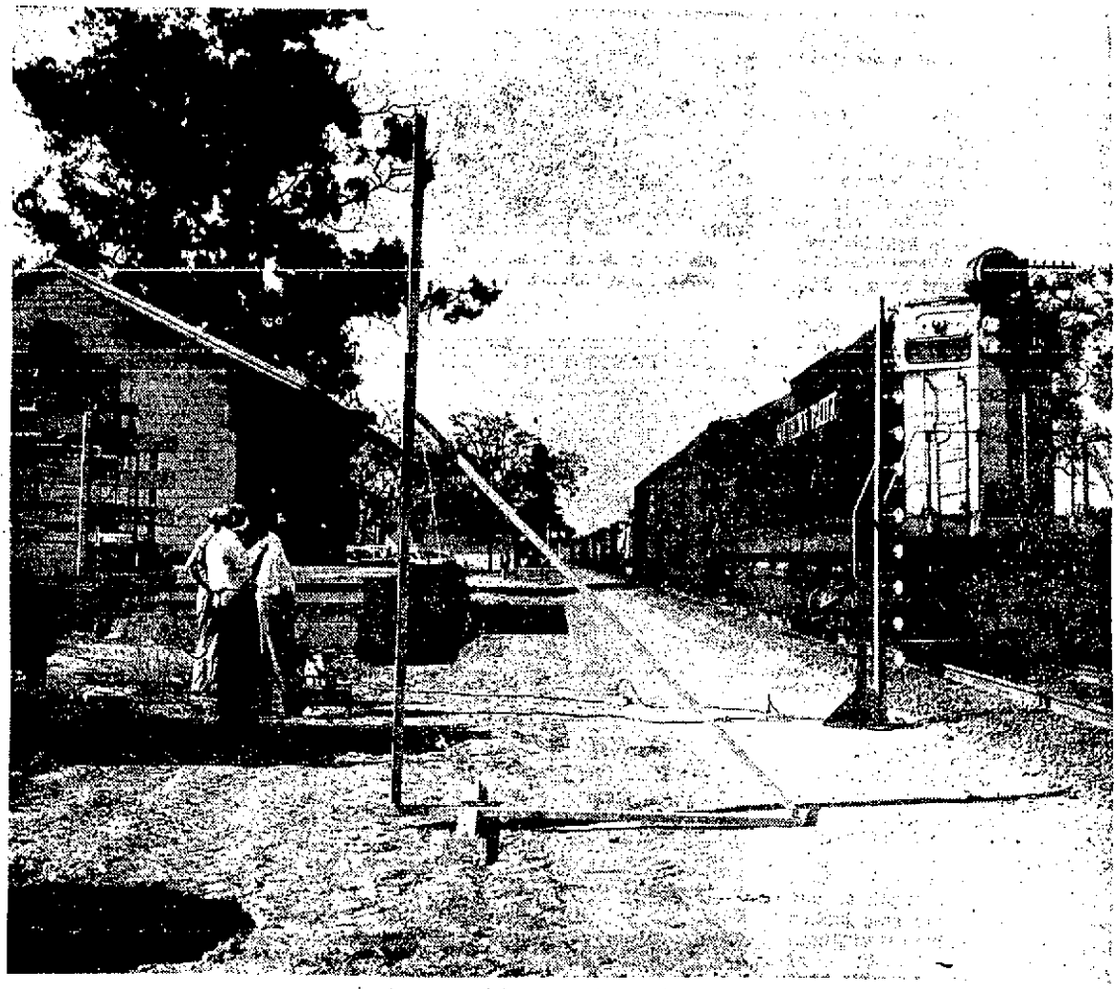

The new system employs a version of the Videograph electrostatic printer developed by SRI. It is a high speed duplicator which uses television methods. A camera that is especially designed to transmit a sharp, clear signal, looks at the material to be reproduced. It then sends its signal by coaxial cable or microwave to the printing equipment. The signal deposits electrical charges on a continuous paper tape, and these charges correspond to the dark areas of the image. The tape is dusted with black powder which clings to the charged portions of the surface. Then the powder is heated and pressed into the paper to make a permanent record.

DURING TESTS to check the feasibility of the new system of TV monitoring trains, the SRI mounts a TV camera on a truck where floodlights are set up at the railroad tracks. Mobile microwave equipment also stands by to relay the image.

The taped TV pictures make for the accurate communication vital to running a railroad. The same equipment could be used for communication between other elements of a large railroad. For instance, another study, made for the Denver & Rio Grande Western, shows that it works well for transmission of printed material such as way-bills, much more quickly and efficiently.

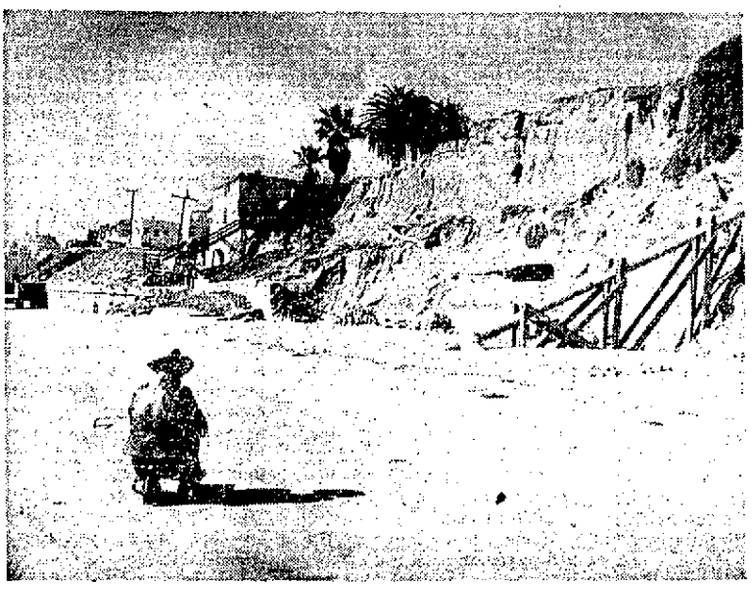

During feasibility tests, floodlights are set up by railroad tracks. Note television camera mounted on truck and the adjacent microwave relay equipment by which pictures of train are transmitted.

When a train passes, floodlights go on automatically and the camera records the image, relaying the picture to the distant printout equipment. Car number and positions in trains may then be recorded.

The Year of the Big Storm

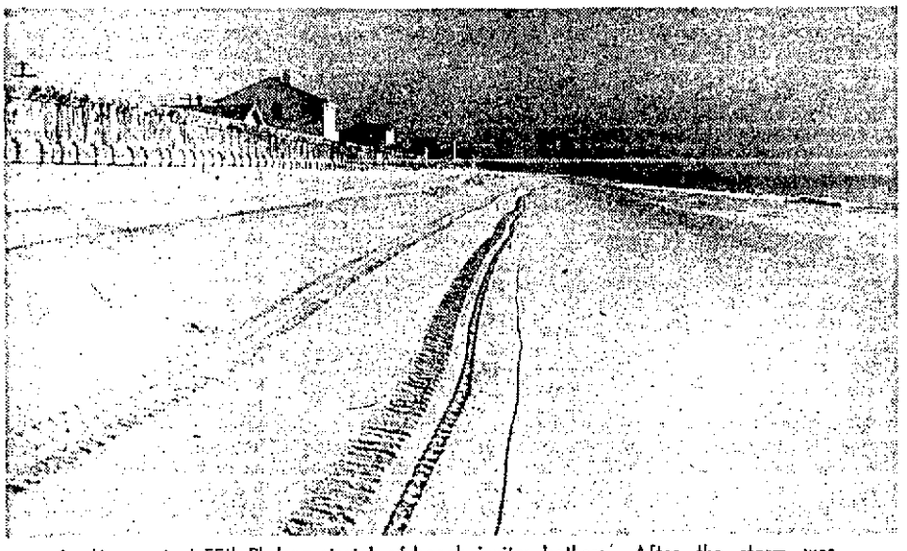

ON JAN. 21, 1943, it began to rain in Long Beach. It rained all day and night and continued on Jan. 22 and Jan. 23 with no letup. The wind was from the southeast and it came roaring into the business and residential district—smashing plate glass windows and ripping tile from roofs. That was the winter a California rainfall mark of approximately 26 inches in 24 hours was recorded. What the storm did to the beach is shown in the photographs below. Those on the left were taken two days before the storm hit by the Harbor Dept. The photographs on the right are of the same locations after the storm passed over.

On the beach below the bluff at 13th Pl., the strand had this smooth, unbroken look before the record storm broke.

Debris was piled high below the bluff at 13th Pl. after the storm. Note erosion by comparison of pipe in photos.

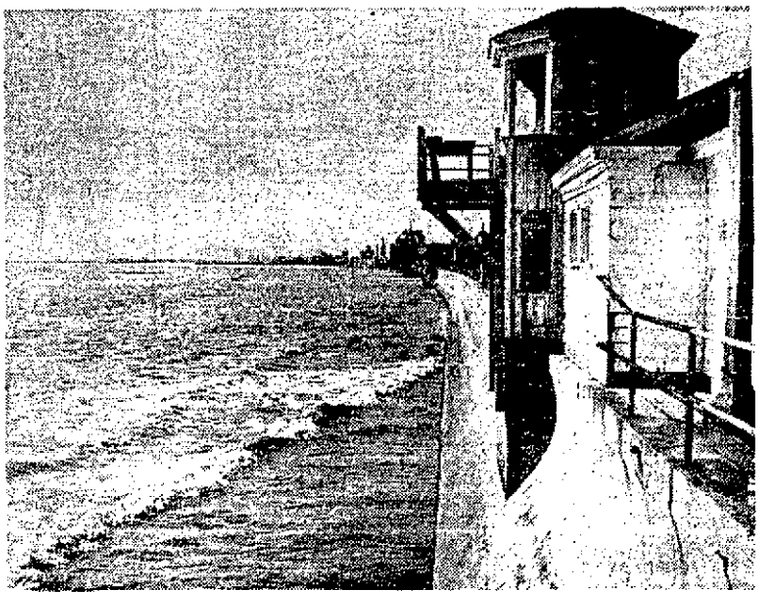

Looking east at 55th Pl. long stretch of beach invites bathers. After the storm was over, it was estimated more than 1,000,000 cubic yards of sand had been washed away.

Barely recognizable, but still looking east from 55th Pl. photo shows how a storm destroyed beach.

Photographs above and at right are view looking west at Molino Ave. approximately same tide time "before and after."

Sand protection piled against the concrete wall at Molino Ave. was washed out by waters lashed to fury by high winds.

The Vanishing Walrus

By Aubrey B. Haines

IF SOMETHING is not done to protect the Pacific walrus, it may become extinct within a decade! Though conservationists are aware of this, chances are slim for passing legislation, which should be both national and international to guarantee the animal's survival.

Each year some 10,000 walrus are hunted and killed. During the same period only half that many are born. With a total walrus population of 45,000 there is little hope that the animal can maintain itself against its greatest enemy—man. According to Dr. John L. Buckley of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, less than half the walruses killed or wounded are recovered.

Today the Pacific walrus is practically confined to the Arctic Circle, though once its range extended to the British coasts and to Virginia.

EACH SPRING Eskimos enter the Bering Sea in old whaling boats and native umiaks to hunt the migrating animal. At this season the walrus herds move north with their young. Eskimos depend upon a five-week season to provide them with walrus meat for the ensuing year.

Such adventure is always potentially dangerous, for the animal can easily sink a small boat with its tusks. The Eskimos eat great quantities of walrus meat as well as the fat, or blubber, after they remove the oil to burn in their lamps. They use the hide for roofs, harnesses, and boat coverings, while the ivory tusks are carved and sold to traders.

THE WALRUS gets its name from the Swedish word, hvalross, "whale-horse." The Pacific walrus has larger tusks than the Atlantic walrus. It has an external ear-passage—though no external ears—and very thick, bristly whiskers.

The devoted walrus mother, who bears one baby every two years, will give her life for her young. The little walrus rides on his mother's back, relying upon her milk for more than a year. At the end of that time, his tusks having grown big enough for him to seek food on his own, the calf digs for shellfish.

Fat, wrinkled walruses, giant mammals related to the seal, sprawl on ice floes in the Arctic seas. Growing ten to twelve feet long, they weigh from a ton to a ton and a half. Unlike seals, however, they grow two large ivory tusks that curve downward from the upper lips. The tusks may grow as long as two feet and be four inches thick, weighing more than ten pounds apiece.

Using their flippers, the awkward animals waddle off into the sea and swim down as deep as 200 feet to dig with their tusks for their menu of clams and oysters. Every few minutes they may be seen coming up for air. At last they hoist their huge bodies back onto the ice by grasping it with their flippers and using their tusks as grappling hooks.

When a herd sleeps on the ice, it leaves a sentinel to stand guard. Nevertheless, it is not difficult for a polar bear to pass by the sentinel undetected and kill one of the animals. With a loud roar the rest of the herd scrambles into the water. Each mother slides her young to security, shoving it with her chest and guiding it with her fore-flippers.

A REAL monster of the deep, strange and awful stories were told of the walrus by early voyagers to the Arctic seas. However, Captain Cook gave a very different account of his impressions of the walruses he saw on the north coast of America. "They lie in herds of many hundreds on the ice," he said, "huddling over one another like swine and lie like a herd of pigs in a yard. They roar so loudly that at night, or in foggy weather, they gave us notice of the vicinity of the ice before we could see it. We never found the whole herd asleep, some being always on the watch.

"These, on the approach of the boat, would awaken those next to them. The alarm was thus gradually communicated so that the whole herd awoke presently. But they were seldom in a hurry to get away until after they had once been fired at. Then they would tumble over one another into the sea in utmost confusion. They did not appear to us to be that dangerous animal which authors have described—not even when attacked. Vast numbers of them would follow us and come up close to the boats. But the flash of the musket in the pan, or the bare pointing of it, would send them down in an instant."

A YOUNG WALRUS, kept for some time by members of the Jackson-Harmsworth Expedition, was found to be an amusing pet. One kept on board a Dundee whaler used to sleep with an Eskimo dog and got into the same kennel with it. It ate blubber and salt pork but liked the sailors' pea soup better than anything else. Most sociable, unable to bear being alone, it would tumble down the hatchway to seek the society of its beloved sailors and scramble into the cabin if the door was open. When it fell ill, before it died, it seemed most grateful for any attention shown to it.

The Pacific walrus population, put at about 45,000, is in danger of extinction and there is little chance of its surviving against its greatest enemy—the human hunter.

DEAR MISS RULE: Let us know the origin of CURRY and CURRIE. — B.C., Mrs. W.C., Long Beach.

B.C., W.C.: The celebrated Clan Curry ancestor was Sir Walter de Currie of Annandale, a town in Dumfriesshire, southeast Scotland. Ancient Viking chonicles tell in balladic poetry of Piers de Currie who fought valiantly against Norwegian invaders of Scotland, and died in battle in 1263. Currie or Curry originated as a warrior name, Corra, for "Spearman." Irish O'Corra descendants also altered their name to Curry.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the meaning and shield for LANZ.—S.L., Lakewood.

S.L.: The German warrior-name LANZ has been known from time immemorial. It translates as "lance" or spear, portraying a brave spearman in Teutonic German armies. A battalion of fierce warriors charging with their 16-foot long spears would be a formidable enemy even today. No coat-of-arms is available for this family.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

This Will Be a House Divided

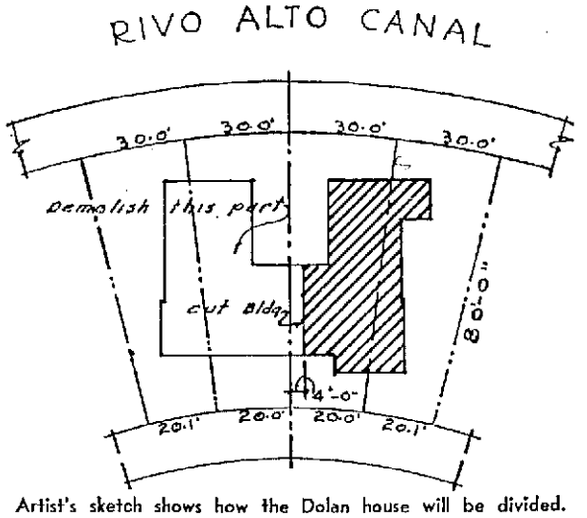

Now occupying four canal-front lots, the sprawling Francis Dolan home at 182 Rivo Alto Canal, will undergo drastic remodeling. Dolans will live in lots at the left.

By Eileen Ball

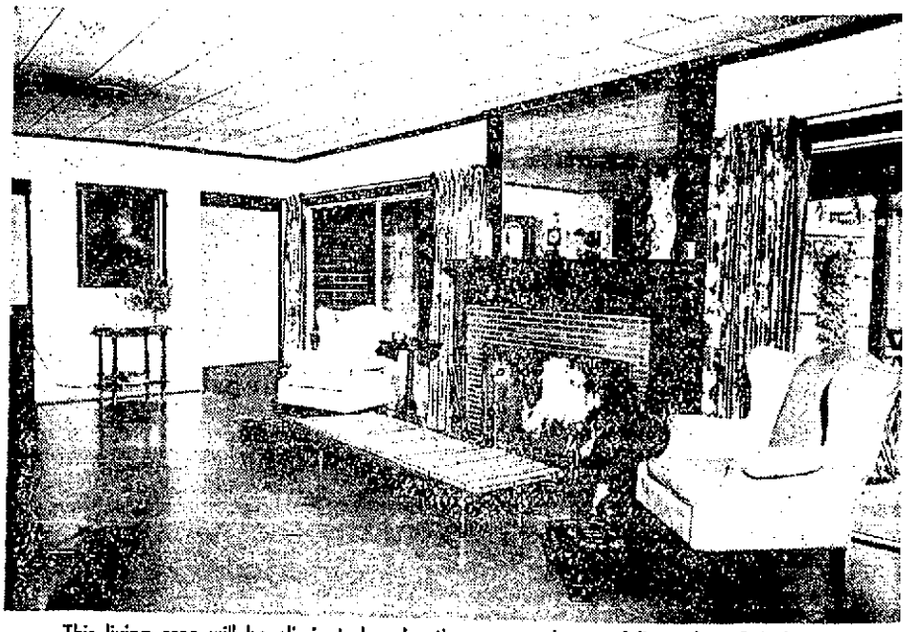

AMONG the most popular of all home magazine articles are those depicting the before-and-after effects of house remodeling. Today's story, however, is relegated to a "before" description of a house that, paradoxically, is not scheduled to gain footage but to lose space! Such is the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dolan, 182 Rivo Alto Canal, which is due to undergo most a radical remodeling, an architectural coup de grace still in the formative stages.

Occupying four canal-front lots, the Dolans' sprawling cinderblock dwelling spreads over a luxuriance of land . . . property which has grown far too valuable to warrant the occupation of just one dwelling. The pending solution to the problem is unique; the Dolans have decided to literally cut their house in two, demolishing the larger portion of it in order to free two of the lots for the construction of another individual dwelling.

What is to happen to the remainder of the Dolan house is already neatly forecasted on blueprints. From an expansive footage of over 2,200

Artist's sketch shows how the Dolan house will be divided.

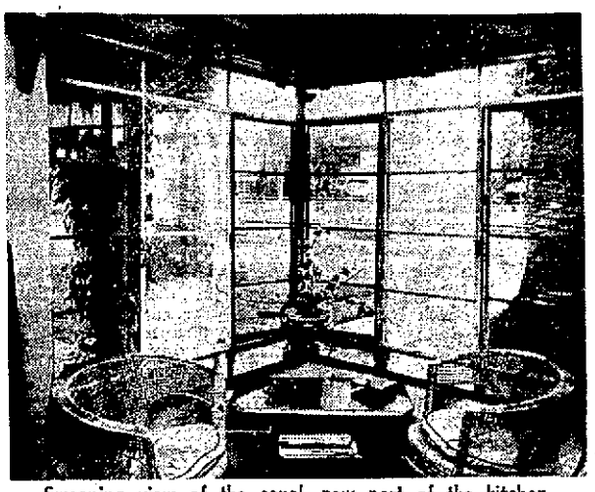

This living area will be eliminated under the proposed remodeling plan. Painting on wall at left is of Mrs. Dolan's great-great-great-great-aunt, which was done in 1760.

Sweeping view of the canal, now part of the kitchen and dinette, will be retained as part of family area.

square feet, the house will reorganize and rearrange itself into 1,000 feet of compact living area—a plan that, happily, promises to offer more actual living comforts than before!

ASIDE FROM THE obvious economic considerations underlying the plan, another situation has prompted the Dolans' decision to minimize their living pattern. The residential needs of the family have been radically reduced with the maturity of two sons. In short, the Dolans like millions of other "grown up" families, no longer have need for such a large house.

What now constitutes the entry, living room, hallway and three bedrooms will be eliminated from the future scheme of things. The den-study will become the main living area—a space that, by means of modernization, will join the kitchen in one convivial area for informal family living. One bedroom and bath will remain intact; a second bedroom, dressing area and bath will be created out of the space now occupied by an attached garage. (A new separate garage will be built in its place.)

Meanwhile, there are many points of interest in this unique masonry structure which will remain unchanged: thick masonry walls will continue to offer maintenance-free exterior, a richly textured interior plus the property of natural insulation. And, of course, the house will remain luxuriously situated to enjoy its "front row center" vista of the canal, a proximity ideal for this family of boating enthusiasts.

ADDING A GREAT DEAL of distinction to this home are a number of antiques. These are items which, in the main, have been handed down in Mrs. Dolan's family for generations. A notable example is a portrait in oils that hangs just inside the living room to the left of the entry. Entitled "The Lady of St. Johns," it depicts Mrs. Dolan's great, great, great, great aunt who sat for the portrait in 1760 in St. Johns, New Brunswick. This handsome study in somber tones hangs over a kidney-shaped antique Victorian table.

On another wall of the living room is exhibited an elegant wool broadcloth wall hanging—an ambitious piece of handiwork the applique and embroidery of which represents untold hours of labor and love. Projecting an interesting Oriental-inspired motif, this splendid example of early American handiwork dates back over 100 years.

The living room's prevalence of antique furniture is countered both by the use of clear colors and the inclusion of a few frankly contemporary counterparts. Walls are creamy yellow, the floors bay-aqua; both colors are successfully combined in chintz draperies lined with cream-colored satin. Stretching invitingly before the open brick fireplace is a punoi—a long, low lounge piece which, crafted of oiled walnut and padded in foam rubber, represents the modern approach to informal comfort. Styled and constructed by one of the Donlans' sons, this good looking piece of furniture contrasts delightfully to a pair of wing-back fireside chairs upholstered in neutral linen homespun. Squat black needlepoint footstools accompany each chair—again projecting a delightful counterpart to the punoi's muted madras cloth upholstery.

ONE OF THE DOLANS' finest antiques is represented in an unusual rope-legged, dropleaf table in mahogany. Called a deal table, this piece exactly matches another that stands in the den. Used together, they become a single table capable of seating 16.

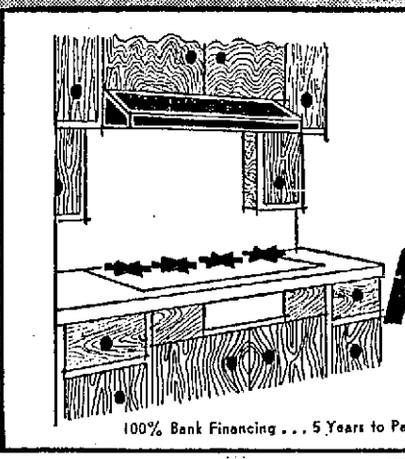

IN TURN, the wide passageway leads to the den which is scheduled to convert to a new living area. With this in mind, the wall now separating the den from the kitchen will be removed and a table-height serving bar will be built in its stead.

One wonderful aspect about the plan is the fact that the magnificent canal view now enjoyed solely by the kitchen and its dinette will be shared with the adjoining family room.

Finally, with the present living room and entry obviated from the plan, a new entry will be constructed—a pleasant, view-inspired area which will open from the patio directly into the new living area.

The Horseman Who

By Edna M. Hull

PESTILENCE, symbolized by one of the Biblical Four Horsemen, once rode rampant to the terror of whole populations, but today is held in check by modern scientific methods. These include the control of the rodent hordes which ignorance once permitted to roam uncurbed.

Rats which invade the haunts of man are the greatest foes among the rodents, and seaport cities where ships from ports of all the world call to trade are among the principal danger centers. Infected rats carry such diseases as bubonic and pneumonic plague, endemic typhus, certain types of dysentary and other ailments.

Continual war against rats is carried on. In Long Beach, wharves, jetties, rocks and breakwaters are policed daily by men who carry poison to places that rats are likely to frequent. Constant vigilance is maintained in other suspect areas of the city. These are the measures of safety.

Dr. Irving D. Litwack, Long Beach Health Officer, says, "If the safeguards were lifted, plague and other rat-borne diseases could run rampant again as they did in past centuries. Fortunately we have a network of Health Departments providing a service that makes such epidemics impossible under present safeguards."

RATS HAVE BEEN a problem in the United States since the earliest settlers arrived in ships on which the pests came as stowaways. They are also brought in daily with cargo on ships, by rail or on trucks.

One protective measure on ships is rat guards (see photos). They are large circular metal disks placed on all chains, hawsers, ropes or lines of any kind that extends from ships tied up in the harbor. The guards block passage of the rats on or off the vessel along these easier routes. Although they can still jump off and also can find ways to board ships. They are more clever than most animals and have great ability in concealing themselves.

The alien rats may be distinguished from the native wood rat by their scaly tails and coarser hair. There are three types:

The rattus Norvegicus is the largest and fiercest of the three. It is known as the house, wharf, sewer or Norway rat. Its overall measurement is 16 inches and it weighs an average of 12 ounces, although specimens up to 24 ounces have been found. It is brown in color, has coarse body hair, small

"The End of the Trail," masterful statue by noted sculptor James Earle Fraser, stands in park beside Tulare County road.

JUST BEYOND the woven wire fence that separates Mooney's Grove from the macadamized thoroughfare leading from Tulare to Visalia stands the famous masterpiece, "The End of the Trail," by James Earle Fraser, the great American sculptor. Preoccupied passengers in the automobiles racing along the highway, men and women, young adults and tots and teeners, scarcely glance toward the park as they pass.

In this country and abroad, Fraser received many medals and prizes for his art. Among his well known works are "Bust of Theodore Roosevelt," Senate Chamber, Washington, D. C.; Buffalo 5-cent piece; "Monument to Bishop Potter," Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York, N. Y., "Equestrian Relief Portrait of Children of Harry Payne Whitney;" "Journey Through Life," Rock Creek Cemetery, Washington; "Alexander Hamilton," Treasury Building, Washington, D. C.

play at the Panama Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco in 1915. After the fair it was sold without Fraser's knowledge to Mooney Park. Fraser had no model for this statue. It grew out of his life among the Sioux Indians when he was a small boy in Dakota Territory. He played with the Indian children and liked them and their games. Hunters, wintering with the Indians, stopped over to visit his grandfather. On one occasion he heard a bearded old hunter remark bitterly, "The Injuns will all be driven into the Pacific Ocean."

THE THOUGHT so impressed the boy that he could not forget it. "In fact," said Fraser, "it created a picture in my mind which eventually became 'The End of the Trail.' I liked the Indians, and could not see why they were to be pushed into the Pacific."

The first model of "The End of the Trail" was finished when Fraser was 17. When he was 20, he took the model and went to Paris where he studied at Ecole des Beaux Arts and Colorassi and Academie Julian. While in Paris "The End of the Trail" won a $1,000 prize for the best work of art, painting or sculpture in an exhibition of work by Americans. Fraser was asked to make a replica of it for the San Francisco World's Fair, which he did. It was reported that $250,000 worth of photographs were sold of the statue, but of this Fraser received nothing.

When the exposition closed the Tulare County Board of Forestry obtained the statue and shipped it in knocked-down form for reassembly in the park. It has been coated with dark paint to protect the plaster-like substance of which it is made and which is subject to weather erosion.

HOLLYWOOD

Can She Cancan!

Sophia Loren plays her first role as a blonde, that of a can-can dancer, in a western, "Heller With a Gun," for Paramount.

By Bob Blair

THERE IS NO star in Hollywood who can top the working record of Sophia Loren. In 18 months she has been before the cameras in no less than six pictures.

Nor has any female star enjoyed the variety of male stellar partners as has Sophia. In the past year and a half she has played opposite Cary Grant, Clark Gable, Anthony Quinn, Tab Hunter, Maurice Chevalier and John Gavin.

This half dozen important films started with Paramount's "Houseboat," released last year, in which Sophia starred with Cary Grant. After that came "Black Orchid," in which she switched her affections to Anthony Quinn, and then on to "That Kind of Woman" with Tab Hunter. Those three films produced box office results that prove the sultry's star's popularity.

DUE FOR GENERAL release around the country soon is "Heller With a Gun," the story of a fiery can-can girl of the last century who toured the old fighting West, and in which Anthony Quinn was again her co-star.

"I don't mind hard work, and lots of it," Sophia said, "as long as the pictures, and the men I work with, are exciting."

Horseman Who Shall Not Ride

rat is found only near salt water. It is more common on vessels than Norway rats, but all these aliens travel on cargo ships.

IN A LABORATORY experiment a pair of Norway rats multiplied to 1,500 in a year. They start breeding at three months, produce 3 to 10 litters a year and each litter may number 10 to 20 young.

"Wild life is one of the reservoirs of plague germs," Dr. Litwach says. "It is from infected wild animals that many of the fleas come that infect the rats. We can control the urban population of rats, but the Sylvanis or rural type of plague carried by wild animals is difficult to reach. Urban rats may either become infected by fleas from wild rodents or infected rats may be brought in from plague areas. There is always a problem to fight."

The ornamental date palms that can be seen throughout the Southland are favorite nesting places for the rodents. In Long Beach the fruit is removed to discourage them and many of the palms are sprayed with rat poisons.

ON THE WHARVES and in slaughter houses two or more traps approved by the department must be kept freshly baited and inspected daily. Periodically, a few of the trapped rats are taken to the Health Department for inspection. The others must be killed and burned. All traps must be smoked and reset.

Value of examining dead rats from the traps lies in preventing such outbreaks as that which occurred in October and November 1924 in the old Haymarket district of Los Angeles. Pneumonic plague was apparently brought into the district by fleas on a ground squirrel in a load of hay and spread through the rat population of the area. On Oct. 26, the first human victim was admitted to the county hospital. Before the outbreak was controlled and the emergency past, 41 persons were infected and 34 died. Quarantine was lifted on Nov. 13 but the battle went on until June 20, 1925, before the city felt safe again. In the meantime, 150,000 rats were killed, of which 111 were found to be infected. Seven plague-infected squirrels were destroyed. The cost to the city was $2,607,975. Constant vigilance has been maintained since.

Most of the cases of rat-spread disease in this state have occurred in three outbreaks; San Francisco in 1900-1904 and 1907-1908; Oakland in 1919, and Los Angeles in 1924.

Health departments work hard on the problems of pestilence and great are their achievements—but the assistance of all of the people is necessary to complete control. Rat-proofing is making definite headway in the battle but some areas cannot be so treated and other methods are constantly necessary to control the rodents. Keeping food out of the reach of rats and destroying their hiding and nest places are effective measures that anyone may practice.

Casseroles--Order of the Day

Lima beans, tomatoes and corn—all flavor congenial—are spiced up with molasses and dry mustard to give hint of barbecue sauce seasoning. Also made with canned vegetables.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent-Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

IT'S THAT TIME of year when substantial casserole dishes are the order of the day—and nothing could be better than a Bean Bake.

Lima beans combined with tomatoes, corn and sliced onions take on an appetizing new look. The addition of a little molasses and dry mustard as seasoning enhances the vegetable medley flavor.

This casserole calls on the bounty at fresh produce counters, but if they are not obtainable, or if time is a factor, the dish may be conveniently and deliciously made with pantry shelf-handy canned vegetables.

The bean and tomato casserole becomes a complete meal if diced cooked ham is added.

Molasses Tomato Bean Bake

- 2 cans (1 pound each) dried lima beans
- 1 medium onion, sliced
- ¼ cup molasses
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
- 1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn
- 1 cup diced cooked ham, optional

Drain beans; reserve liquid. Add onion to bean liquid in saucepan and cook until liquid is reduced to one-half. Remove from heat; blend in unsulphured molasses, dry mustard, salt and pepper. Add drained beans, tomatoes with liquid, whole kernel corn and ham. Turn into a 2-quart casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 to 35 minutes. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Note: If desired, 2 tomatoes, peeled and coarsely chopped and 1½ cups fresh corn cut from cob may be substituted for canned tomatoes and corn.

Favorite Liver and Bacon

1 pound beef liver
½ pound bacon
Butter or margarine

Place sliced beef liver and bacon on a rack in a broiler pan. Brush with melted butter or margarine. Place broiler pan in broiler so the meat is about 3 inches from the heat source. Broil according to the following schedule or until fork tender: For quarter-in-thick slice, broil 4 minutes per side; for half-inch-thick slice, broil 5 minutes per side. Yield: Four servings.

Serve with Mixed Vegetable Soup, Buttered Rice, French Fried Onions, Clover Leaf Rolls, Asparagus, Apple Brown Betty.

BOOK REVIEWS

Posthumous Brief for an Outlaw

CONTRARY to legend, one of American folklore's most famous "outlaws" did not die with his boots on. Neither did he die with a pistol in his hand. The records actually show that Billy the Kid was murdered by a sheriff of the then Territory of New Mexico who gave him no chance to surrender and lied later when, in a report to his Governor, he said the Kid was armed with a gun.

William Lee Hamlin, a retired attorney of Whittier, Calif. conducted extensive investigations over the years in New Mexico—dug deep into old legal records, interviewed citizens "who were there"—and comes up with what he calls a "posthumous brief for William H. Bonney" titled "THE TRUE STORY OF BILLY THE KID" (The Caxton Printers, Ltd., $6).

Hamlin talked with men and women who knew the Kid personally, others who actually participated in the Lincoln County "war" of 1878 in which Billy was involved and, he writes, "it was their collective opinion that the youth . . ." slain when only 21 by Sheriff Pat Garrett "... though not always blameless, was neither a ruthless renegade nor a killer, and that he was more frequently allied with forces of the law than not."

Billy is pictured as an always-smiling, happy and friendly kid. His relationship with the native Mexican-Americans was marked by an easy camaradie and mutual respect, a boy whose promise of executive clemency (in exchange for his testimony as a witness at a murder trial) was ignored by Gov. Lew Wallace.

It is a fact that the Kid once stole a horse. But old-timers avow that, on the other hand, Garrett was a cow thief who shot the Kid to perpetuate the office of Sheriff—a man "afraid" to go back into the room in which he shot the barefoot, unarmed Billy.

Hamlin's tireless research results in a major contribution to the lore and legend of the Old West.

Other western Americana:

"THE GREAT BUFFALO HUNT" by Wayne Gard (Knopf, $5.75): Although they had been hunted for years, tremendous herds of buffaloes darkened the grazing lands of the Plains in 1871. It was then that professional hide hunters — stubbly-faced adventurers with heavy rifles —came on the scene to join in a hunt that was to continue a dozen years and virtually wipe out the species. Those were exciting years that will be written and talked about as long as the Old West remains a part of American folklore. Gard is an able historian and to read his account of this period is almost as though you are sitting around a campfire and hearing it first-hand from those hard-drinking, hard-riding, hard-shooting men who were there.

VIRGINIA COFFMAN

Former resident of Long Beach but now of Reno, Virginia Coffman authors her first novel, "MAURA" (Crown, $3.95). This tale of suspense is set in England and post-Napoleonic France, concerns a young housekeeper of a girls' school who crosses the Channel to a foreboding French chateau to discover what has happened to one of her young charges, mysteriously whisked away by her guardian.

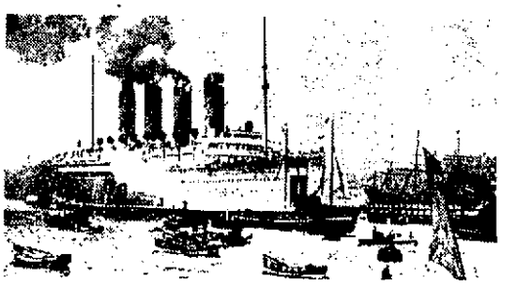

"SAM BRANNAN AND THE CALIFORNIA MORMONS" by Paul Bailey (Westernlore, $5.50): Much has been written about the fabled Brannan, the ambitious and far-seeing pioneer who became California's first millionaire. But no work has brought him more clearly into focus as a true "Saint" for the Mormon cause than Paul Bailey in this revised and corrected edition of an earlier work by this splendid historian. And in this revised and corrected edition of an earlier work by this splendid historian. And in this story of Brannan, the man, there also emerges a sharp and clear picture of the California of Brannan's colorful times.

"I FOUGHT WITH GERONIMO" by Jason Betzinez with W. S. Nye (Stackpole, $4.95): Loco, Cochise, Victorio, fierce Apache chiefs, all. Betzinez, now 99, in whose veins runs the same blood, knew them well but not as he knew his cousin Geronimo with whom he raided and fought as a young man. Later educated at Carlisle, Pa., he wrote this story of his life and the Apache side of the Indian wars. His manuscript was discovered by the military historian, W. S. Nye, who needed only to organize the material to make it ready for publication. Absorbing reading from the Indian point of view.

The crime shelf:

"THE LONELY TARGET" by Hugh Pentecost (Dodd, Mead, $2.95): In Mexico, where he is in hiding, he is called El Zorro Plateado — The Silver Fox. But Jake Beaumont, ex-mayor of New York, actually is the lonely target of a criminal empire, determined to return to the city he loves, lay down a royal flush that will crush the mob and thereby save Barry Quayle, prosecutor who had sent him into exile and who aspires to his old office. How he gets back to New York with the help of newspaper columnist Grant Simon, with death and betrayal lurking on every hand, makes this an outstanding story of action and suspense.

"COME HERE AND DIE" by Jeramy York (Scribners, $2.95): Scotland Yard is mystified by the murder of

S. S. Mauretania in Tyne River, England, 1906

Sir James Bisset, former Commodore of the Cunard Line, describes the early days of steamships in "TRAMPS AND LADIES" (Criterion, $5.95). Included is his dramatic eyewitness account of the Titantic tragedy. Bisset, also author of "Sail Ho!" commanded the Queens Mary and Elizabeth during World War II.

HENRY BARSHA

A Hollywood dentist, Henry Barsha, is author of the first novel "CORSICANA!" (Page - Farrar, Straus and Cudahy, $4.50), which follows the brother-against-brother theme. The setting is the Texas town in the late 19th century.

an English girl in a wealthy American's hotel room, doubly baffled when the American is discovered a short time later with his throat slashed. The finger of suspicion points to Steve Parnell, a young traveling companion of the American. Even Steve's pretty English cousin, Susan King, doubts his innocence despite her love for him. Meanwhile a dogged inspector, digging deep, picks up some strange evidence and solves the case brilliantly.

"FORTUNES FOR ALL" by Vash Young (Bobbs-Merrill, $2.95): A failure at 33, Vash Young quit his job and changed everything about him but his name. Then, with a vision and a resolution, he became successful and happy. He sold $80 million in insurance, gained renown as a lecturer and author. In this book he presents the philosophy which he says earned him all these things.

"GOD'S FRONTIER" by Jose Luis Martin Descalzo (Knopf, $3.95): Call it a fable, one in which emotions are stirred as a Spanish villager performs miracles and is acclaimed as a saint. The author is a Spanish priest and his novel was translated from the Spanish by Harriet de Onis.

PAPERBACK originals (first time published in book form) just issued: (Drink and Be Merry," a frothy collection of barroom humor (Crest, 35c); "Raising Demons," a humorous account of the author's life with her four children, by Shirley Jackson (Ballantine, 35c); "Stampede," a western by Chad Merriman (Ballantine, 35c); "The Outward Urge," a story of man's leap into space, by John Wyndham and Lucas Parkes (Ballantine, 35c); "To Live and Kill," in which Stefan Gazel relives his experiences in war-stricken Poland (Ballantine, 50c); "B. Wiseman's Cartoon Countdown," cartoons of spacemen and their age (Ballantine, 35c); "Pornography and the Law," a study of books courts have declared obscene, by Drs. Eberhard and Phyllis Kronhausen (Ballantine, 75c).

A Reminder of True Christmas

Easily constructed nativity scene serves as a reminder of Christ in Christmas at the yule season. Claudia Dehring, NBC child actress, poses with scene above.

By Steve Ellingson

DURING RECENT years, with all the holiday activities, people have a tendency to stray far from the old and true celebration of Christmas. In fact, there are some places where the Christ Child has been forgotten altogether. For this reason, the National Christ in Christmas Committee has again asked that we support their annual campaign to keep Christ in Christmas.

The committee requested that we develop a nativity scene. One that could be constructed easily by any amateur. They wanted the scene to be made in full color with all 15 of the figures to be two-thirds life size. This makes the scene suitable for use in store windows, in churches and church yards, in city parks and for homes where the figures make both inspirational and beautiful yard decorations. Furthermore, they wanted the scene to be suitable for use by industrial plants, civic buildings, schools, Christmas parades, country clubs or anywhere else people want to put Christ back into Christmas.

The nativity scene you see pictured with this article has been printed in full color. Each of the figures shown is two-thirds life size. When you use these pictures you need not be an artist at all. Since they are all done in many bright and waterproof colors, you need only glue them to plywood and saw them out just as you see them here. This may be done with an inexpensive jig saw or even a hand coping saw. After that they are ready to go on display in your yard or any other place for everyone to see. Complete directions come with each set. Also included are plans for building a stable.

BECAUSE THERE is no painting required and no fitting of parts together, you you couldn't find an easier or better project for youth groups. If you wish, you can paste the pictures right on a wall, where they will be permanent. They have been beautifully done by artist Charles Howell.

This display during the Christmas season will awaken in all of us the true idea of Christmas. It will make us realize that unless we allow the Christ Child to come into our homes and hearts on his birthday, then Christmas becomes merely a tinkling of bells and shining tinsel. Remember, without the Christ Child there is no Christmas.

To obtain the complete set of nativity scene pictures shown here, plus plans for making a stable, send $10 by check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram Pattern Dept., 15155 Saticoy St., Van Nuys, Calif.

Two Who Tell Their

On Modjeska Canyon location, L. Kyle Holmes (right) directs western with Forrest Kellogg as script man and "Joe," dummy that was rolled over a cliff after a scene in a gun battle.

By Anna Mae Murray

WITH HER vacuum cleaner, a Long Beach housewife was doing a most unorthodox thing; the lady was blowing sand across a square of cardboard painted to simulate a slab of weathered wood. The two words, "Whispering Sands," stood out upon the grain like a name on a boothill headboard. As the sand drifted around the letters, a camera whirred.

In the dark room of their home at 1421 East 59th St., L. Kyle Holmes, with his wife, Florence, as "prop lady," was shooting the main title of a motion picture. Amateur photographers, they have won many awards as evidenced by the trophies on their shelves.

This week the Holmeses will be guests of the Death Valley 49ers at their Tenth Annual Encampment, a four-day celebration, and Holmes will present his narrated motion pictures, "Land of Yesterday" and "Whispering Sands."

"LAND OF YESTERDAY" is a story of the peaceful Navajos in Monument Valley of Arizona. Hiking in with an Indian guide, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes made four different trips into the valley, shooting scenery in that remote and flamboyant land. With the

Stories in Movies

Holmeses' guide as interpreter-director Navajo mothers in their velvet dresses and heavy turquoise jewelry, went about the hogans, grinding corn with rocks, weaving rugs outdoors on their simple looms, tending their babies, the children herded bands of sheep; men sat proud and erect in their saddles, silhouetted against a desert sunset.

"Whispering Sands" with its haunting background music is the Sands of Death Valley, of Monument Valley, of the dunes of Yuma, all drifted into one dramatic film, with an exhausted traveler, sinking into the sand with every step, a sun-cracked boot sticking out of a shifting mound, a cross of bleached ocotillo sticks marking a spot.

On the back of their large lot in north Long Beach, the Holmeses have a "little theater," complete with indirect lighting, and a wide screen filling one end of a room. Comfortable chairs and davenports provide seating for friends or club members wanting to "see a show" or to present one of their own. Adjoining the "theater" is a projection and dark room where the Holmeses' ingenuity is challenged, where they create a story, find a theme, process, edit, arrange musical backgrounds, make tape recordings, catalog stock shots.

MANY OF THEIR FILMS have been born of vacation trips. Loading their "picture gear" in the car, they often just take off, invariably discovering some interesting material.

With seven grandchildren and a trampoline in their garden, shots of kids in action are always at hand.

Holmes is a charter member of the Long Beach Cinema Club, formed in 1937 by a group of camera fans, anxious to promote more interest in the making of home movies, and to improve their own techniques through association with others having the same hobby.

At a recent awards meeting of the club, Mrs. Holmes received a gold trophy for her film, "Gun for Sale."

Since he is recognized as a clever and creative man with a camera, Kyle Holmes is often asked why he doesn't become a professional movie maker. His answer is: "As an amateur, I'm free—free to do things in my own way, at my own time, at my own speed. I am never pressured, never bound by rules, regulations or tradition. For my wife and me, making movies is a hobby; we want to keep it just that way."

Coin Club

Long Beach Coin Club will hear a talk on "So-Called Dollars and Embossed Store Card of the Civil War Period" by Ralph A. (Curly) Mitchell at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Recreation Department Building, Ocean Blvd. and Elm Way (Elm Way entrance). An exhibit will accompany the talk and an auction and bourse tables will be featured. Refreshments will be served. Visitors are welcome.

Egg-shell deer can be used as placards, favors and in other ways. They are inexpensive, easy to make.

These Deer Are Dears

By Lorena Fleissig

THESE egg shells have a large hole pricked out of one side so they may be glued flat on a small card.

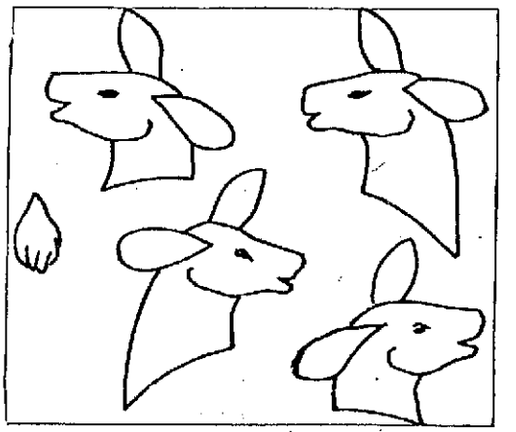

First the shells are lightly sanded to remove oil and stains, then glued on cards.

Trace the head and tail patterns on plain filing cards as they are of light weight and make firm bases. Curve the base of the neck to fit the form of the shell. Decide which side to paint the features, for some heads can be turned to look back, others to face forward. Put heads on the round end of shell.

Put a line of white glue at the curve edge, allow to become tacky. If the curve is right, it will then stick fast to the shell on contact.

Small ribbon bows in gold, red or green glued at the neck make them festive.

Make a black curve with water paint or ink, where the back leg bends. Attach the paper tail.

Drawings show head and tail outlines ready to be cut out and glued to egg shells. Curves should fit shells.

Bright New Horizons at 83

By Betty Hardesty

AT 83, MOTHER Fanny Tracy's zest for living is as undiminished as when she embarked on an ostrich-raising fling at 29, or decided to start ranching on her own at the age of 70.

A perpetual pioneer, Mother Tracy of Buttonwillow, near Bakersfield, now is engaged in one of her deepest interests—guiding into useful manhood the latest of the more than 16 youths from broken homes she has taken under her wing.

SHE IS UP at 5 a.m., has a cup of coffee, reads the local paper and works on her autobiography.

The autobiography will recall a long life that has enthralled all who have met her with her undaunted enthusiasm and physical and mental ability.

She was born in 1877 in Clements, San Joaquin County, where her father, C. W. Rowlee, farmed. When she was 8 the family homesteaded in the Pond area, west of Delano, later moving to Jerry Slough (now known as Buttonwillow) in the wild desert land of Kern County.

She worked in a Visalia cannery, attended Chico Normal School and became a teacher. She taught two years at Buttonwillow before marrying William Tracy. The couple had five children—all with families still living on the Tracy ranch which today spreads over 10,000 acres.

MOTHER TRACY began raising the first ostriches in California in 1906 after reading about them in a magazine. It was the era of feathers and plumes and she imported a pair of 18-month-old "chicks" from Arizona. She named them Phoenix and Tempe and the bill came to $555, including $55 for freight charges. The austerities of World War I put a stop to this frilly enterprise.

Then, in 1953, the entire population of Buttonwillow watched fascinated as Fanny took a fancy to Chinese white geese. She brought in 2100 from New Mexico and turned them loose in the cotton fields. The geese gobbled up everything but the cotton plants and soon other Kern County cotton growers were bringing in their own "weeders."

Today chickens are the only birds Mrs. Tracy keeps on her personal 12-acre farm, although the boggy rice fields nearby are popular with varieties of birds and water fouls.

FANNY STARTED this new farm about 12 years ago. She had been staying with her sons and daughters following the death of her husband in 1942, but she wanted to express her own individuality.

"Here I'm boss," she explains.

There was a sparkle in her eyes as she recalled the decision to go out on her own. Between bites of home-made pie, from her ranch grown apples, she recalled for guests,

"People said, 'What can an old lady of 70 do?' "

She told how she sent carpenters to move in an old house which she had roofed and repaired. She used an old oil barrel as a stove and camped out at the site until she could occupy her new home a couple of miles from where her oldest son, Cecil, still lives in the house where he was born.

EACH SUMMER SHE clears out the canned goods of last year to make room for the new crop of fruit and vegetables. The "clearing out" is done by giving the food away.

She spreads a big table for visitors, some 80 to 100 Southland hunters who drive up for rabbit hunts testify to this. In the early days, the ranchers kept a pack of dogs to keep the jack-rabbits out of mischief, but now, periodically, the ranch is open to hunters.

MOTHER TRACY has not let up in meeting new challenges and her sprightly conversation turns constantly to a project now very dear to her—a protege.

This young man is the latest of more than 16 youths from broken homes whom she has guided into useful manhood by sharing her ranch and family life with them.

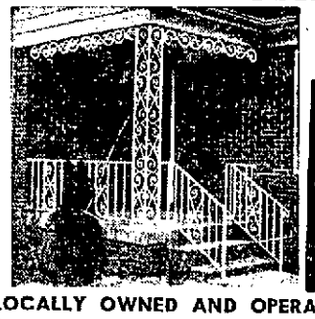

James, who she is helping at present, was told to put down his hoe when she discovered his remarkable talent for freehand drawing.

Now attending Pasadena City College, James receives weekly packages of oranges, chickens, smoked turkey, apples, nuts or home-baked goodies Mother Tracy sends him "to make him feel wanted and belonging." In turn she requires him to send her, weekly, two drawings suitable for greeting cards. These, she explains, are then printed in color to add to the supply already on hand and in popular demand.

The challenge of it whets her pioneer spirit, but her deepest interest is in the welfare of "her boy."

Lusterware: An Ancient Art

By Helen L. Gillum

These two examples of lusterware are at least 140 years old, representative of an art that extends back many centuries.

LUSTERWARE vases, pictured with this article, are examples of an art thought to have been developed centuries ago. These matched vases are known to be at least 140 years old and are the property of Mrs. R. E. Hagenbruch, 212 Mira Mar Ave., given to her by friends in New York State many years ago.

A deep mellow bronze in color, they are of the type known as "gold" lusterware, with a painted turquoise band around the base of each one. Although the maker of these two pieces is not certain, the Wedgwood influence is evident in the raised designs on the bases consisting of canary-yellow baskets of flowers.

Lusterware is a china decorated or fully covered with a shiny metallic color. It is most commonly divided into three classes, silver, gold, and copper. The lusters are made by certain processes which use metallic oxides. Silver lusterware is made from platinum oxide; gold, with sometimes bits of tin, iron or copper, produce all other effects from the deep bronze tones of the above vases, to pale copper, pink, moonglow, deep purple, mottled "Sunderland" and others.

LUSTERWARE IS thought to have originated either in China or Persia. There is a story that this gorgeous ware was a direct result of the Mohammedan yearning for beauty and self-expression. The Koran strictly forbids any representation of living beings in any form; sculpturing, pictorial art, even household ornaments are restricted to purely conventional motives or the simplest of nature-forms. But the Asiatic love of color and ornamentation persisted, and efforts were constantly made to imitate jewel-tones and the bright sheens of precious metals.

These ancient craftsmen were eventually able to impart a metallic or pearl-like radiance to the outer surfaces of ceramic wares. This became a beautiful and delicate form of art, and produced different effects, such as jade, ruby, gold, silver, mother-of-pearl and others.

TO BRING lusterware back to more "modern" times, a man by the name of John Hancock, who worked in the Spode factories in 1800, is credited with making the first commercial lusterware. Other potters in Leeds, Bristol, Sunderland, Staffordshire, Belleek, and Swansea soon followed, including Wedgwood, whose pink luster "shells" are collectors' items. Many makers of old lusterware are known, but marked pieces are very rare. This ware was never made in America.

English factories are still turning out lusterware. Many old pieces are being honestly reproduced, with no deception being intended. Good old English luster, made before 1850, is heavier than the newer pieces. It is also very smooth and clear of bubbles, while the potting rim at the base is rougher and deeper. Many experts can tell a new piece by the color, which is brighter than the old.

TINFOIL on baked potatoes is one of those oddities of dining out that no one understands or likes but everyone takes for granted—you know, like parsley and finger bowls and sticky sweet rolls.

Well, sir and ma'am, after years of picking Alcoa and Reynolds wrap out of our teeth, imagine our consternation and surprise when a dinner companion one night asked a waitress to remove the foil—and got away with it. Hardly anyone any more ever asks a waitress to do anything creative like that; she might insult you or, worse yet, walk off in the middle of the meal.

About the time this happened we finished reading, a little belatedly, John Keats' recent best seller, "The Insolent Chariots" (Lippincott), which convincingly and alarmingly expounds the thesis that we are all caught up in a mad pas de deux with the automobile wherein we have become its slave and it the ruler of our civiliazation.

The tyranny of machine and circumstance over man spurs Keats to rebellion but the traveler's lot is not a happy one for reasons ranging beyond the hardtop-and-blacktop trap. As evidenced by the accursed foiled-again potato, we must face the tyranny of man over man. To wit:

YOU'RE HOLDING an airline reservation. You're told the airline limousine will pick you up at your hotel an hour before flight time, though you know from experience it takes only 10 minutes to get to the airport. But meekly you submit to this wastage of your time.

The problem turns out to be academic; when you get to the airport you find out the flight is an hour and a half late anyway, despite the fact that when you inquired before you left your hotel and were told it's on time.

Once aboard your luxury flight—which is further delayed an hour at the end of the runway due to traffic—you face the tyranny of the stewardesses, most of whom regard the passenger as a necessary evil. Think we're kidding? Sit opposite the galley and eavesdrop on their conversation:

"We'll serve the champagne with the martinis, otherwise we'll never get through." "That brat in 14B stepped on my toe twice; I wish she's go outside and play." "There's a pest in 6C who wants a glass of water right now."

You don't dare say anything, any more than you do to the filling station attendant who forgets to wipe your windshield or the waiter who

SOUTHLAND TRAVELER

A Visit to Calico

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Independent, Press-Telegram Travel Editor

WHERE TO GO on a day off, or on a weekend?

The Southland traveler probably has greater selectivity than any person living anywhere else. Ninety minutes will take him to the sea, the mountains or the desert.

The desert? Certainly. Nothing can match a pleasant fall day in the desert, and a nice place to go these days is the great Mojave Valley in northern San Bernardino County—up and over Cajon Pass on Hwy. 66 to Hesperia, Victorville, Barstow; off Hwy. 66 at Victorville (Hwy. 18) to such points as Apple Valley and Lucerne Valley; or 9 miles east of Barstow (Hwy. 91) to Walter Knott's Calico Ghost Town.

Calico got its start in the 1880s when silver was discovered in the near-by Calico mountains, and $86 million in the metal was mined before the veins petered out. Borax was found a little later in Mule Canyon. A fire ravaged the town in 1887, and all that remained until a few years ago was a handful of adobe ruins, abandoned mine shafts and sun-bleached frame buildings. Knott, attempting (and doing a fine job) to restore it to its original glory, has made it a major tourist attraction — despite the fact that his "saloons" dispense soda pop instead of the hard likker the miners demanded and got.

If you are a camera fan, a rockhound, an antique collector, or just out to have a good time, you'll probably have a ball in the Calico foothills or in Calico with its miniature narrow gauge railway, curio shops, underground mine tours and other attractions.

Yeah, man, there's plenty of parking space!

BIG DOIN'S at Elsinore today. If you get out that way you will want to look in on a parachute jumping competition and glider flying event. The All Year Club lets us in on the fact — something we didn't know—that Elsinore's Skylark Field is a favorite for glider flying because of the strong thermal currents in the Lake Elsinore Valley. If you get hungry, remember that there'll be a barbecue, too. Simply drive Hwy. 18 to Corona, then Hwy. 71 to this picturesque lakeside town.

DON'T FORGET Brawley's big Cattle Call and rodeo next weekend. Numerous attractions include a Western dance Friday night, parade Saturday at 10 a.m. with the finest equestrian units in the southwest included, another dance Saturday night, a barbecue to end all barbecues to start at 11 a.m. next Sunday. A Vigilante posse will roam the streets terrorizing beardless men and non-western gals. Kangaroo court, too!

PACIFIC Railroad Society, Inc., a non-profit, non-professional organization of railroad and travel enthusiasts, plans a novel land-sea excursion from this area to San Diego, via Santa Fe, next Sunday. The schedule calls for a side trip by rail on Santa Fe's Escondido Branch, and a two-hour cruise on San Diego Bay. Departure from L.A. Union Station will be at 8 a.m. The train will pull out of San Diego for the return trip at 6 p.m. Mail reservations for this Nov. 8 Autumn Excursion by writing to the Society at Box 5279, Metropolitan Station, Los Angeles.

SIXTY VARIETIES of Sasanqua camellias are blooming at Descanso Gardens, 1418 Descanso Dr., La Canada, and they say it's quite a show. Other varieties of camellias will start to bloom as the season progresses at this, the world's largest outdoor planting of more than 100,000 plants. And if you like flowers, don't overlook a mammoth mum show slated Nov. 6-8 in Glendale's Civic Auditorium.

IF YOU HAVE any doubts that people from the outside aren't anxious to see things you can see any day or weekend, get a load of this: The All-Year club reports an all-time high of 4,435,700 visitors were attracted to the Southland during the 12 months ending Sept. 1 (up 7.2 per cent from last year) and that while here they spent a record-shattering $644-plus millions. Quite a hunk of change!

Maestro of Air Skills

By Herb Shannon

Pioneer airline pilot, Johnnie Martin, now a flying school operator, prepares for hop in Morrisey 2150, made next door to his school. He heads volunteer sheriff's aero squadron.

AERIAL traffic violators over Santa Ana and vicinity are likely to be nabbed by a self-taught pilot who has since shown more than 20,000 others how to fly.

Likewise, when a boat is missing offshore or a hiker is lost in the mountains, Capt. J.W. (Johnnie) Martin if the Orange County Sheriff's Aero Squadron probably will be at the head of the air search and rescue party.

And like the other 35 pilots in the squadron, Martin receives not a nickel for his services on these missions of mercy or law enforcement. The Aero Squadron is strictly voluntary. The county pays expenses only when the pilots are actually under orders.

SUCH CIVIC SERVICE is typical of Johnnie Martin, now 61. He has belived that responsibility is an essential ingredient of the aviation industry since the day he taught himself to fly in a World War I "Jenny" some 40 years ago.

One of his proudest boasts is that he and his brothers were granted exclusive rights to the old Irvine Ranch air strip not long after they started the Martin School of Aviation there in 1921.

"The Irvines saw we were operating a serious business and not a flying circus," Martin recalls. "They turned the property over for use as a public airport on condition that we would operate it."

TODAY, MARTIN operates the school, maintenance shops, sales agencies for Piper and Beech aircraft, fueling facilities, charter trips, storage and other services, but the beneficial monopoly no longer exists.

Since Orange County Airport reconverted to civil use from its status as a P-38 fighter strip during World War II, competing services have sprung up on the field. Martin believes this is all to the good.

"Competition is good for everybody," he maintains. "It helps us all to grow."

Flying instruction is not the only aviation field in which Johnnie Martin pioneered. In 1928 he took leave of absence from the school to take a job with Standard Airlines, the embyronic forerunner of American Airlines, thereby qualifying as one of the first airline pilots in the nation.

"That was back in the days of what we called the air-rail line," Martin recalls. "We flew single engine Fokkers at first, and then Fairchild trimoters, in short hops broken by segments of rail travel.

"We would take a passenger from Los Angeles to Phoenix in one jump, and then in another flight to El Paso. Then the passenger would take a train to Fort Worth, where another airline would take him farther east to a New York rail connection."

The L.A.-to-Phoenix segment took four and a half hours, Martin remembers. Now, he points out, commercial jet transports fly coast-to coast in the same length of time.

The airlines no longer hold a lure for Johnnie Martin. He is back again where he believes he can best advance the cause of aviation. But it all dates back to that day in 1920 when he soloed his newly-purchased JN-4 biplane after only a few hours of observation.

"I would have given a million dollars to get out of that plane while it was in the air," he admits. "But I'm glad I took it up. I learned responsibility the hard way."

Going Places

brings your dessert before the main course on the grounds that he's only got two hands and anyway it isn't his station, or the cab driver who arrogantly grabs your tip even though he never so much as leaned over to open the door for you.

AT MOTELS if you timorously suggest $35 a night seems a trifle high, you are disdainfully advised that this court is a member of World's Most Superb Inns, Ltd., and there's a more modest dump about 12 miles straight down the road where you might get in for $30 if you have references.

And so we continue to be pushed around.

Shirley and Bob Sloane will be happy to help readers with their travel problems. Address them in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine Long Beach 12, Calif. All will be answered as soon as possible but those sending stamped, self-addressed envelopes will get preference.

Cat Queen of the Flower Mart

WITH TODAY being the start of International Cat Week, we are going to tell you about a kitty who lives up to the slogan, "Many a man's best friend is his cat."

Her name is The Duchess. Perhaps her name should have been The Queen, for she is certainly the center of attention at the flower mart on Wall St., Los Angeles, although she lives in Long Beach at 3126 E. Anaheim St.

Every other morning between 2:30 and 3 a.m., this aristocratic 8-month-old Persian kitten rides, completely at ease, in a station wagon with her owner, Earle Galloway and another kitty, Lucky Amber, to the mart where Galloway obtains fresh flowers for his floral shop. The Duchess' sweetness—she is the gentlest pussy ever — equals that of the thornless roses. The flurry of the mart is momentarily hushed when The Duchess makes her graceful entrance.

The Duchess, Persian owned by Earl Galloway, of Long Beach, loves to pose with floral background.

By Eleanor Avery Price

BACK AT THE shop on Anaheim St., The Duchess still commands attention by deliberately setting herself off to advantage in a tasteful background of flowers. Her favorite resting place is a window swivel on which flowers turn for the pleasure of passersby. Often as many as 15 people at one time stand and watch this furbaby as she goes round and round, sublime in her contentment.

Sometimes The Duchess will blink her one big hazel eye and her one big green eye at her admirers or express her appreciation with a flick of her fluffy tail. Occasionally she flows off her pedestal and moves to the window to put up her little paws at someone who meets her warm sun of approval. Then she will rub her silken head against the glass before returning to her flowery merry-go-round.

LIKE ALL CATS, however, this handful of fluff has a full wake-time schedule and can become all fire and simulated fury at the drop of a pin. She is as much of a dancing dervish among the posies as another cat would be in a field of volatile catnip. She is very inventive and also adept at retrieving a ball, and she delights in spoiling Lucky Amber's naps in a flower box or on a certain child's chair in the shop.

As for food, The Duchess wants to sample everything her owner eats. She "goes" for prime ribs with sauce, hot dogs with mustard, malts, whipped cream topping off desserts, liver and other innards, turkey, boned fish, and scrambled eggs. If nothing else is in the offing, she laps at a saucer of milk or nibbles on cooked vegetables, small amounts of which go a long way for any cat.

You can help get International Cat Week off to a good start by attending the Pacific Cat Fanciers show which concludes at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium this evening. For complete information on Cat Week, address American Feline Society, 41 Union Square, West, New York 3, N. Y.

CALIFORNIA Pet Fair will take place Nov. 6, 7, and 8 at Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles. Big-name talent will include The Shaggy Dog, Cleo, Rhubarb, and TV and movie personalities. Merchandise will be sold in many booths. Show hours are to be noon to 10 p.m. on Nov. 6 and 7; noon until 8 p.m. on Nov. 8.

SOUTHERN California Obedience Council Convention is set for Nov. 8 at Lakewood Country Club. All obedience people are invited.

ENTRIES CLOSE Nov. 2 for the unbenched show and trial of Riverside Kennel Club set for Nov. 15 at Hemet Fair Grounds.

Go-Togethers Spark the Garden

Discovery of two or more plants that go well together is always a happy event for the gardener. For while many plants mix, there are some that seem made for each other's company. And these can make the big difference between any garden and a very special garden.

It is with good reason, therefore, that members of the California Association of Nurserymen are ever on the alert for these go-togethers. They seek them not only for their own gardens but to pass on to their customers.

One combination that's always popular for the rear of a sunny border is the tall spikes of blue delphinium with those of the fiery Red Hot Pokers. They are all the more striking when planted against the defining background of a fence or wall.

Daffodils of any color are the better for a cover planting of blue violas and white Carpet-of-Snow alyssum. The giant yellow trumpets of King Alfred are especially enhanced when blooming on stems that push up through this combination. Plant the cover soon after you plant the bulbs. Also with bulbs, try pansies as a base planting for tulips.

Along a walk or in the front of a foundation border, a combination of gray-white Dusty Miller and coppery-red fiberous begonias always appeal. For variation, try Dusty Miller on one side of a walk, the begonias on the other.

Try flowering fruit trees over spring blooming bulbs or flowering fruits over pink and white azaleas. You won't always find varieties that bloom at just the same time, but you won't lack for fun while you work it out. Your nurseryman can give you the best advice about what and when to plant go-together plant material.

Happy Snaps Are Everywhere

CAMERA ANGLES

Happy snaps abound for the photographer who looks; like the expressive shot here showing children at a miniature farm.

By The Shutterbug

HOME MOVIE makers who take their filming seriously enough to use 16-millimeter equipment may now make pictures in dim light on a new high-speed color film devised originally for missile tracking and other scientific uses.

The film is Eastman color reversal film, a natural-color material that is blood brother to Kodak's recently introduced high-speed Ektachrome for 35mm still photographers. The 16mm film packs quite a wallop with an exposure index of 160 daylight and 125 tungsten — and unfortunately it will deal a heavy wallop to the amateur's pocketbook, too, compared with the cost of ordinary color films.

The 160 rating for Eastman color reversal film, daylight type SO-260 makes it 16 times as sensitive to light as Kodachrome. With "pushing" in development, its speed can be doubled with satisfactory color results, and in use for missile data recording the film has been exposed at indexes up to 500. This is close to the speed of the fastest 16mm black and white films generally available.

THE SLIGHTLY SLOWER tungsten version, Type B, SO-270, gives spectacular results in filming such subjects as night football games, boxing and wrestling matches, stage shows, home living rooms and other scenes illuminated by artificial light.

Daylight Eastman color film may be useful in capturing interior scenes lighted only by natural light coming through windows; in filming in the light of early morning or dusk, and in other situations where the light would be too dim for other color film.

Limited distribution of the new Kodak film has already begun, and full supplies are expected to be available in early 1960. So far only two Kodak processing laboratories — at Rochester, N. Y., and Hollywood — are equipped to handle it because it requires special processing equipment. Independent processors may be licensed to process the film, Eastman announced. And the avid home movie fan experienced in doing his own developing can develop Eastman color reversal film with ordinary Ektachrome chemicals (Process E-2).

EASTMAN HAS high hopes for the new film's acceptance by defense, scientific, commercial, and industrial users, but frankly admits it does not expect mass use by amateurs.

Though the amateur filmer long has needed a color film with Eastman color reversal's high speed, he is likely to develop sharp pains in the pocketbook when he prices the new product. A 100-foot 16mm roll lists for $13.95, and processing costs $9 a roll extra. That comes to about $6.55 a minute on the basis of 3½ minutes of screen time for each roll.

LONG BEACH Camera guild will have two contests, one for black-and-white prints and the other for color slides, at a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Guild's new meeting place, Los Altos Library, 5614 Britton Dr. Anyone interested in photography is invited. Meetings are held on the first and third Wednesday evenings of each month.

YOUR GARDEN

Labor-Savers for Garden Fun

By Bob Gilmore

A good pair of garden gloves and a bulb planter facilitate the planting of fall bulbs, making for more fun, less work.

FALL BULB planting can become an easier, more enjoyable hobby if you utilize certain garden accessories. Most of these are nominal in price and their usage certainly is not limited to bulb planting alone. A little practice with these aids will guarantee greater success with your gardening tasks.

Proper soil preparation is certainly a must at planting time. This chore was once considered back-breaking; but this is no longer true. You can obtain a long handled cultivator which will decrease the backbending. In addition, these cultivators are now equipped with extra long tines which dig deep into the soil and do a splendid cultivating job. They may also be used for churning into the existing soil humus that improves texture and porosity.

YOU CAN OBTAIN at a very economical price a duster that contains the dust and may also be used for applying it. Dusting bulbs before planting them is good insurance for minimizing the insect population. In addition, the same insecticide may be dusted on the plants during the growing season to effectively control the pests. This product is an all-around dust and may be used for general garden purposes.

Special digging tools may be used in place of a trowel if the gardener so desires. These are available with either a long or short handle. By pressing and turning the tool it digs into the ground to the desired depth; then the tool is reversed to bring up the section of dirt, leaving a perfectly formed planting hole. The bulb is placed in the hole which is then covered.

FAST GROWTH of newly planted bulbs may be realized by using a concentrated type of dry plant food. A teaspoonful of the concentrate is placed about one inch below the planting hole. As the bulb roots grow they gradually penetrate the level where the plant food rests and absorb the essential nutrients. Thus you can accomplish both the planting and feeding requirements at one time.

Planting a ground cover of annual plants will enhance the beauty of your bulb garden. You have a wide range to choose from. Pansies and violas are used extensively in this area as are Iceland poppies. In addition, for something a little different you might try California wild flowers. These grow quickly, require little care and are certainly at home in your local garden.

Flowers That Bloom All Year

Calendulas, named after calendar, bloom all year.

By A. C. McLeod

YOU CAN HAVE flowers in your garden, and home, practically every day of the year, Southern California is probably the only section of the United States where this miracle of horticulture is possible. The secret consists of intelligent plant selection.

Many plants serve a dual purpose: They are colorful in the outdoor garden and may also be used to advantage for decorating the interior of your home. Not all varieties, of course, will hold up after being removed from the parent plant.

ONE IMPORTANT factor in keeping plants flowering is to remove all full bloom blossoms before they go to seed. In the first place, flowers that have lost their vigor are seldom an attractive sight. In the second place, a plant exerts tremendous effort to manufacture seeds; thus sacrificing future floral production.

A VERY POPULAR annual that flowers on an all-year basis is the calendula. Its name, supposedly derived from the Greek word of calendar, indicates that the flowers appear every day during the calendar year. Very likely you can expect a few exceptions but calendulas are very dependable producers. The flowers are splendid for lovely shades of lemon and yellow. Calendulas want a sunny exposure. They are excellent for cutting.

Two varieties of pelargonium are also highly recommended for their ever-flowering characteristics. One is pelargonium horotorum which is the common geranium. It is often identified as the horse-shoe or fish geranium (due to the odor of the leaves). Another pelargonium variety, peltatum, is the ivy-leaved type and is well suited to Southern California growing conditions. The weak period for these two subjects is during the winter season but even then you can expect a fairly intermittent flowering program.

Other varieties that will prove valuable for adding color to your scene throughout the year include: Euphorbia splendens, lantana, alyssum, begonia semperflorens, the Chinese forget-me-not, lobelias, verbenas, vinca, petunias statice perezi and salvia.

Tips on Gardening

By Dorothy Jonson

GARDEN TIPS for the week: Although certain fall bulbs are now available, don't be in too much of a hurry to plant. It is probably desirable to obtain planting stock early while you may have advantage of the best selection. But generally speaking, it is best to postpone planting until the weather cools down somewhat. This is especially true of tulips and hyacinths which prefer a cool starting soil.

Fall, in this area, is the ideal planting time for lawn seeds. This is true for both renovating and starting new lawns. Therefore, better postpone this job until the temperature moves down somewhat. It is very difficult to obtain a good grass stand during the hot weather. The soil must be kept constantly moist until the tiny seedlings are fairly well established.

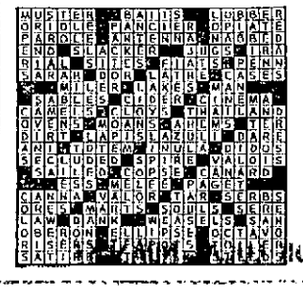

November is an excellent month in which to start a new compost pile and I think there is nothing finer than compost for adding humus to all alkaline soil.

Some people save grass clippings and add them to their compost piles but there is a definite danger of fungus in this practice. Actually, grass clippings are nothing but water and there is very little beneficial material in them. However, if you like to make them part of your compost, add soil sulphur occasionally, spreading a layer of agricultural sulphur over the entire compost pile. This will offset fungus danger and hasten decomposition.

Fallen oak leaves and pecan leaves are beneficial since both contain tannic acid. Many things can be added to your compost pile . . . including grapefruit, old tomatoes, cabbage, grape seeds and rice hulls.

Always keep your compost pile clean by disinfecting it occasionally with a copperether disinfectant.

HOW TO Put Finish on Panels, Planks

1. For stain, or stain-wax, apply the mixture and wipe off excess. Repeat until you get shade you want. For any ready-to-finish wood, consult your dealer for finish. Methods outlined here are general.

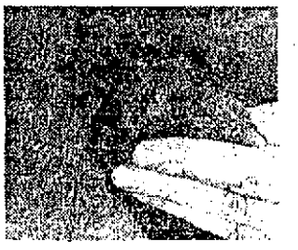

2. There are many wax-finishing systems. Remember: after waxing, you can't apply paint, varnish. Use stain or bleach to lighten or darken wood before finishing. Follow directions on can.

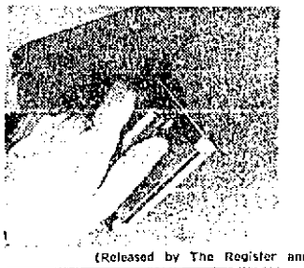

3. For clear finish, brush on clear sealer or thin coat of white shellac mixed with an equal amount of denatured alcohol. Mix thoroughly. When dry, fill holes with wood putty that matches the paneling.

4. Go over wood with No. 1 steel wool or No. 00 sandpaper. Then apply a second coat of clear (or pigmented) sealer or varnish. Use white or natural filler for second coat on open-grained wood.

5. For final coat, apply dull varnish and buff it to a gloss when dry. To enamel or paint an open-grained wood, use a filler; closed-grained woods (birch, maple and so on) don't require filling. Sand surface lightly between coats.

6. For lacquer finish, brush on a coat of lacquer sealer. When it's dry, sand the surface lightly. Follow this with several coats of clear lacquer; buff and wax. When applying any finish, carefully follow directions on can.

Caricature by Milt Reppert

ROY RICHARDSON
Voila!

MONTH AFTER month he labored. He tried this combination, then that. He added ingredients, he subtracted them.

And then—voila!—after six months of trying, Chef Roy Richardson discovered the recipe for the hot fresh rye rolls which win high praise day after day at the fashionable Victor Hugo restaurant, 730 E. Broadway.

With 21 years of professional cooking experience behind him, Richardson is a whiz at creating original recipes. His strawberry cream and banana cream pies are quite fabulous. His coconut cream pie is so superb that Mr. and Mrs. Lou Furst, owners of the Victor Hugo, comment enthusiastically: "We could eat a whole one ourselves!"

IN THE DINNER entree department, Richardson's talents shine like copper cooking ware. His broiled Australian lobster, with drawn butter ($2.95) is of lip-smacking goodness. Beautifully smooth are his lobster thermidor, $2.95, and lobster Newburg, $3. Other entrees which demonstrate his skill are veal scallopini, $2.25; panfried halibut with anchovy butter, $2.25; broiled swordfish, $2.50; and brochette of beef, $2.75. For steak-lovers Richardson broils choice eastern beef over glowing charcoals which impart perfect flavor. The restaurant features a Junior New York cut and a Junior Top Sirloin, both $2.95. All of the foregoing are highlights of dinners which include soup du jour, large chilled salads, those fine rye rolls and other hot roll varieties, baked potatoes and beverage.

The Victor Hugo's daily luncheons are equally popular—and for good reason. The prime rib luncheon, $1.75, and the top sirloin luncheon, $1.50, include soup, salad, potato, beverage and dessert.

The restaurant is open daily from 10 a.m. to 2 a.m., Sundays from 3 p.m. on.

I'll always remember...

A very serious actress

by JOAN COLLINS

WHEN I WAS LITTLE, my father taught me that open-mindedness was a virtue. "Try to appreciate an opposing viewpoint," he used to say. "It makes life more expansive."

Several years later I had an opportunity to recall these words. One afternoon I told father that I would like to go to dramatic school and become an actress. He hit the roof. He sat me down for a long lecture on the difficulties and fierce competition of show business. He was firmly against my going to dramatic school.

I repeated the advice he had given me as a child: "Try to appreciate an opposing viewpoint. It makes life more expansive." That stopped him, and we made a bargain. I suggested I be given two years of dramatic training. If after that time I hadn't made any important progress, I would enroll in a secretarial school and never again seek an acting career.

Father agreed. Fortunately I got a job in a London show within two years and was on my way as an actress. I had dreams of becoming a great dramatic star and decided that I would act exclusively on the stage. No films for me. I was going to become a serious actress.

Other Ideas

My agent had other ideas. One day he introduced me, without my knowledge, to a film producer. When I found out what the man actually did—produce motion pictures—I exploded. I called my agent all the names I could think of.

"I told you I'm not interested in movies," I screamed. "I want to become a serious actress. I'm not interested in films. How dare you take me here."

My agent must have thought I was crazy. "You'll never get anywhere," he cautioned, "unless you keep an open mind."

That sentence struck a responsive chord. It reminded me of my father's words. I quickly backtracked. I apologized. And lucky that I did, for a few weeks later I was out of work, and soon broke. And if it hadn't been for that film producer, I probably would have starved. It was he who helped me get a job in films. I found myself under contract to the J. Arthur Rank Organization and then to 20th Century-Fox in Hollywood.

Nowadays I always remember to live with an open mind. It helps make life more expansive, also more liveable. ■

Author Joan Collins goes shopping in Mexico while on location for The Bravados, with Gregory Peck.

On Parade

"Gettysburg must not become a sideshow!" That is the gist of the flood of letters from PARADE readers following publication of the article, A new communique from Gettysburg (Sept. 27). The article described how promoters plan to turn the 80-acre Adams County Poor Farm, at the edge of the battlefield, into a housing subdivision and business center.

Outraged at this threat to one of the most revered of American shrines, readers are suggesting creation of a fund, to which everyone may contribute. Such a fund would permit buying up the property intact, transferring the aged residents to a new home with modern facilities, and thus preserving the farm as part of the historic heritage that is Gettysburg.

The decision to sell now rests with the Adams County commissioners. Meanwhile, you can add your own thoughts to the others by writing to the commissioners at Adams County Court House, Gettysburg, Pa.

For years, reader Clara Rees, of San Jose, Calif., just turned 80, has had "a hankerin for lemon crackers." Now, thanks to PARADE'S Beth Merriman (Lemon crackers from the gay '90s, Sept. 27), Miss Rees is baking them.

She writes: "When I was a young woman in Ohio, I used to bake lemon crackers. I would have liked to do it again in my old age, but I was always stumped by that 5¢ worth each of baking ammonia and lemon oil. I want to thank you for having made the recipe available.

"I rolled the dough to fit a large pan, then scored it with a fork to give the top a fancy pattern. When the crackers were baked I cut them to any size. They were lickin' good."

NERVOUS TENSION HEADACHE

Better than aspirin or aspirin with buffering

How Tension Headaches Start

Most headaches are caused by tension that tightens muscles in back of neck and scalp. This tension presses on nerves and causes headache pain. In turn, the pain builds up more tension, more pressure—makes your headache worse. To break up a tension headache and obtain fast, more complete relief—you should try the special medication in Anacin, not obtainable in aspirin nor in aspirin with buffering.

ANACIN® relaxes tension releases pressure relieves pain fast

Tension headaches need the extra medication in Anacin. So why take mere aspirin or even aspirin with buffering which contains only one pain reliever and has no special medication to relax your tension? Anacin contains a number of medically approved ingredients. Three out of four doctors recommend the ingredients in Anacin for pain of headache, neuritis and neuralgia. Anacin Tablets give a better TOTAL effect — more complete pain relief because they contain special medication which not only relieves pain fast but also relaxes tension and releases pressure on nerves. Safer, too. Anacin has a smoother action and does not upset the stomach. Change to Anacin today!

Who is this man?

A century ago he was condemned for treason

This Monday will mark the 100th anniversary of the day this man was sentenced to death. The decision was carried out a month later, and he became the first American in peacetime to be convicted of treason and executed. Since his name often is on the lips of school children, this is a man you should know. Can you identify him from these clues?

Later, this controversial man grew a long beard.

1 Born in Connecticut in 1800, this man could say a relative came over on the Mayflower.

2 Although his death was sensational, he led a quiet life for most of his years. He went from one arduous task to another—shepherd, tanner, farmer, currier, surveyor, wool-dealer.

3 A restless man, he had many aliases, but his favorite was "Nelson Hawkins."

4 Twice married, he was the father of 20 children. He joined five of his sons in Kansas because of his beliefs. But helping him carry out the plan that led to the gallows, three sons and two sons-in-law were killed.

5 A devout Bible reader, "Hawkins" once studied for the ministry. Yet, in Kansas he was responsible for the murder of five men in one night, and later the deaths of several others.

6 A political fanatic, he recruited, trained, and raised funds for what amounted to his own private army.

7 Plans of his conspiracy filtered to the U.S. Secretary of War. No one moved to stop "Hawkins" because the conspiracy seemed too incredible. However, he went into hiding and grew a beard to conceal his identity.

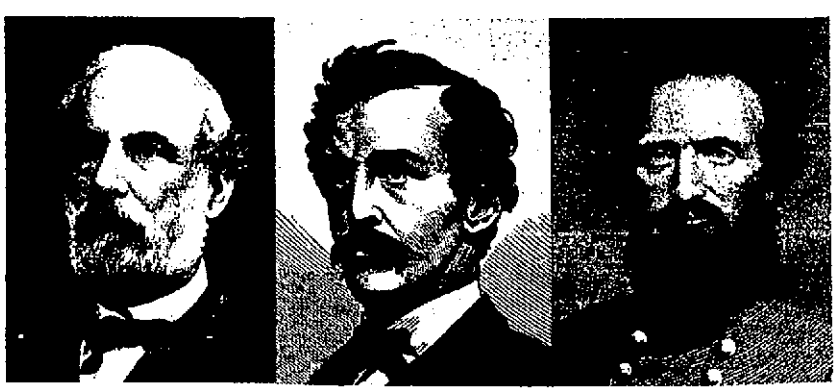

8 On a Sunday night, with a 22-man army, he attacked a Federal arsenal. Hours of fighting ended with his capture by a company of U.S. Marines. Their commander: Col. Robert E. Lee, with Lieut. J. E. B. Stuart as his aide. Ten of the little army were dead, five had escaped, and seven, now imprisoned, would be executed.

9 Convicted of treason, he was sentenced to be hanged in public. In December he rode to the execution grounds, seated on his own coffin. Gazing at the Southern countryside, he exclaimed, "This is a beautiful country." Among the military who heard this serene farewell were Maj. Thomas J. (Stonewall) Jackson and John Wilkes Booth. His place in history became more permanent because of a marching song that carried millions into the Civil War.

10 His long-cherished scheme was to set up a mountain stronghold that would facilitate the escape of fugitive slaves. The first—and last—step in this plan was his famous raid on the Federal arsenal at Harper's Ferry, Virginia.

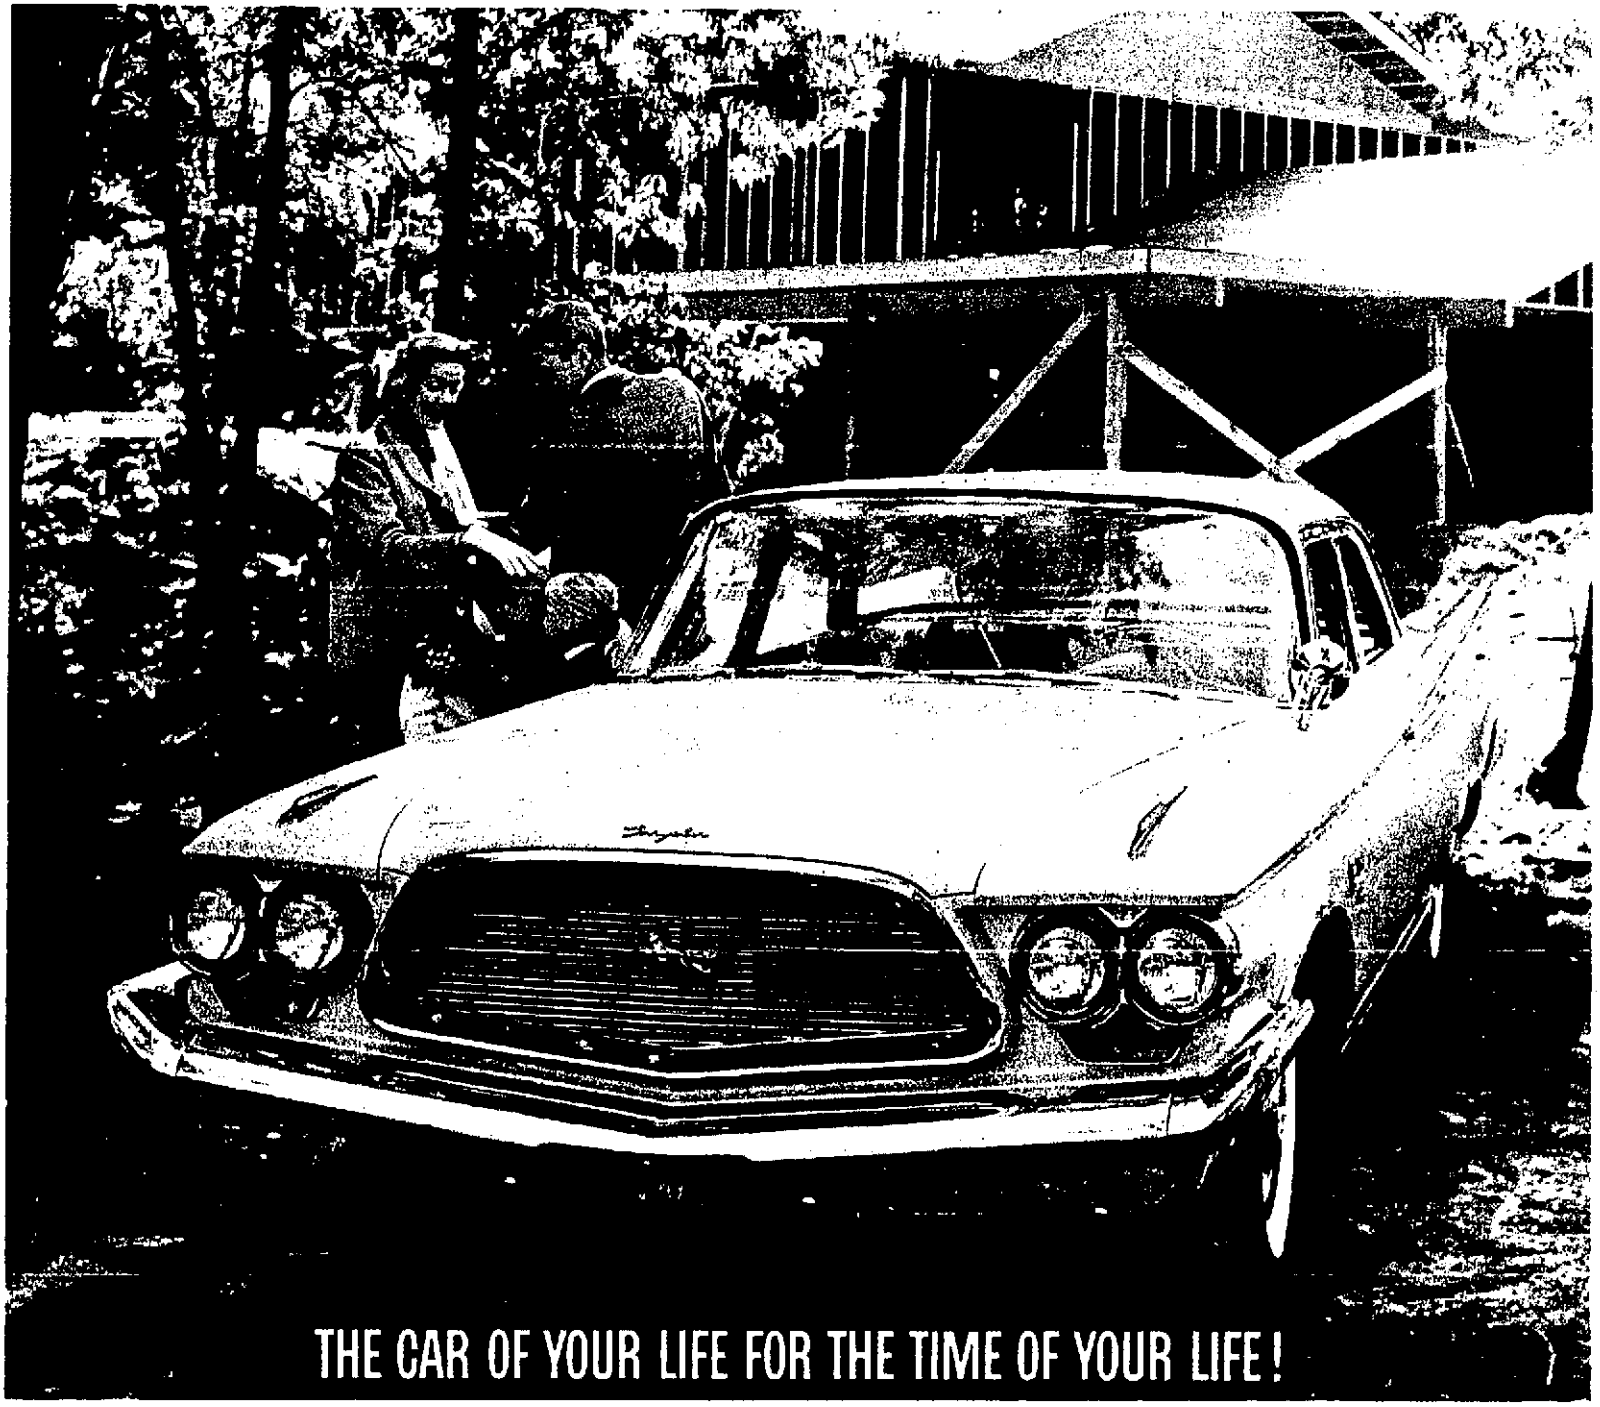

Who was he? Look at bottom of page.

When a new baby comes, your "old" baby needs special attention and understanding. If his nose gets out of joint a bit, that's normal. But you can do much to help prevent jealousy—or help him recover from it more quickly.

● Give your first-born fair warning (a month is usually plenty) that a new brother or sister is coming. Take him to see a little baby, so he won't be disappointed at his baby's size and lack of talents. Slip him a small present, too, when friends bring a gift to the newborn!

● If your youngster "acts like a baby" (wants a bottle, talks baby talk)—a common whim at this time —treat it casually, and occasionally go along with his game. But remember to compliment the grown-up things he does—things the new baby can't do!

● Let him "help" with the baby when he wants to—but give the newcomer as much care as you can when the older child is busy elsewhere. And, remember, your toddler or pre-schooler is not old enough to be left alone safely with your baby!

● Heads-up viewpoint may start with chin-lifts in the early days, chest-lifts late in the second month. By four or five months, baby's doing real push-ups—the better to enjoy what goes on around his house! He'll also enjoy Heinz Meat-and-Vegetable combinations—wonderful "appeteasers" such as Vegetables and Ham, Vegetable Egg Noodles and Chicken, Vegetables and Beef. Both Strained and Junior versions.

● Trimming baby's nails is safest when he's snoozing. Clip tiny nails short so he won't scratch himself—and use blunt-end scissors, of course.

● New twist to an old favorite: Heinz is first to bring you screw-on caps—now on most Heinz Strained Baby Food jars and many Junior varieties! These convenient caps—so easy to open and reseal airtight—are extra effective for keeping baby's second helpings moist and tasty in your refrigerator. Another development of Heinz new multimillion-dollar Research Center, which is devoted to guarding your baby's health and well-being.

● Do you know what your baby can get only from Heinz? Many delicious exclusive dishes, such as Tutti-Frutti—a blend of apricot, orange and pineapple—the fruits babies love best. Or hearty, new Heinz Strained and Junior Spaghetti, Tomato Sauce and Meat.

Volkswagen's Dr. Nordhoff: "I welcome the competition."

Will Americans take to the new compact auto? A noted German expert makes his predictions in an exclusive analysis for Parade readers

THE NEW SMALL CARS

by LLOYD SHEARER

WOLFSBURG, GERMANY

IN THE HISTORY of the auto industry, 1959 will be recorded as the year small cars made big news.

How will these compact cars—those with a wheelbase of 106-109 inches—sell in today's market?

G.M., Ford, and Chrysler, manufacturers respectively of the new Corvair, Falcon, and Valiant, expect to sell among them upwards of 500,000 units. If the pace of early sales continues, these expectations may be reached if not exceeded.

For years the "Big 3" were reluctant to enter the compact car field for fear that 1) the public would not go for the smaller economy car; 2) sales of the smaller cars would detract from the sales of their more profitable regular lines.

What reluctantly forced them into the field was the steadily mounting sales of the German-built Volkswagen, the French-built Renault, and the American-built Rambler and Lark, which this year, together with a few other imports, garnered an 18 per cent share of the U.S. auto market.

In an effort to predict the possible future of the compact car in America, PARADE flew reporter Lloyd Shearer to Wolfsburg, Germany. His assignment: to interview Dr. Heinz Nordhoff, 60, president of Volkswagenwerk, manufacturers of the No. 1 selling small car throughout the world. Here is his report:

Q Do you think, Dr. Nordhoff, that the success of the Volkswagen in the U.S. is responsible for the introduction by the "Big 3" of compact cars into the American market?

A I wouldn't go so far as to say that. Our success, I think, helped make many of the American people small-car conscious. Other manufacturers then followed suit. This year, I understand, the sales of Ramblers and Larks in America will come close to 450,000. Our sales in America since 1955 approximate 450,000. Those are the kind of sales figures that start competitors thinking. [Rambler sales alone at mid-September were reported at nearly 350,000—more than double the previous year.]

Q How well do you think the Corvair, Valiant, and Falcon will be accepted by the American public?

A I think they will be tremendously successful. These cars offer style, comfort, and roominess; and comfort in transportation is necessary in America, where you have long distances. Moreover, they will operate at lower cost, lower upkeep. They will save space on streets and highways and in garages. In my opinion, Detroit has made a very sound decision.

Q How will sales of compact cars affect sales of Volkswagens and other foreign cars in the U.S.? After all, isn't someone apt to get hurt in this market?

A Our car is not a compact car. It is a smaller car and a cheaper car. And I do not expect our sales to be adversely affected. They may even rise. Because—you take a great company like General Motors. I know it's a great company because I worked there in Michigan in the 1930s. A company like General Motors comes out with its Corvair. It has an air-cooled engine in the rear. It's not very much different in basics from the engine that Dr. Ferdinand Porsche conceived 30 years ago and that we've been using in the Volkswagen. Something like that enhances our reputation. It can only do us good.

Q Do you think the day of the middle-priced car in America is gradually drawing to a finish?

A I just don't know. I think some of the old names will be hurt largely because the difference between them is so small. There are no bad or inefficient cars produced on the American market. All American cars are excellent. To the buyer it is a question of price and taste. I am now talking about the middle-priced cars as we've known them. They are all superb cars. How long any of them will remain is a guess. After all, who ever thought the Packard would disappear?

Q Now that we're producing the compact car, is there any chance that more of these will be sold overseas? Will the compact car expand our overseas market?

A The Corvair, the Falcon, the Valiant, the Rambler, the Lark—these cars, call them whatever you will, come closer to filling the transportation needs of Europeans than any other American-made cars. They have all the technical requirements, with their economy of operation, their lower horsepower, and they might very well become the desirable big cars of Europe. Today any European who buys a large American car does so for only one purpose—pure snobbery. Your compact cars will change this.

Q Do you think the automobile in the U.S. is used primarily for transportation or as a status symbol?

A I would say that, for the past few years, American cars have been symbols of success and status. But all of that is changing now. I was in Rochester, Minnesota, last year at the Mayo Clinic. I was also in other American cities, and I noticed that the standard of living is now so high that no one has to parade his wealth or his status by the size of his car. When only a very few people can buy a certain car, that car becomes a symbol of wealth. But when you have thousands upon thousands of people who can afford the name, then it no longer reflects a particular economic status—all it reflects is a wonderful car that provides wonderful transportation. More and more Americans are using cars for transportation and not for psychological crutches.

Q How do you feel about the rear engine versus the front engine in compact cars? Is there any advantage or disadvantage?

A The Volkswagen, as you know, has the engine in the rear. So, too, do the Corvair, the small Fiat, and others. The rear engine does away with the tunnel on the floor of the car, which permits passage of the transmission and drive shaft from the front to the power wheels in the rear. As an engineer I can tell you that the rear engine is a sensible development. It is sensible also to have the whole unit compact, either in the front, driving the front wheels, or in the rear, driving the rear wheels. There is no good technical reason, in my opinion, for having an engine in the front propel the rear wheels.

Q To what do you attribute the phenomenal worldwide success of the Volkswagen, and particularly the huge success of the Volkswagen in the U.S. market?

A It is an honest value. We improve the car from year to year but we never restyle it radically, so that there is no great depreciation loss from year to year. Our success in America we owe largely to the fact that Detroit a few years ago left the $1,500 car field uncovered. There were many persons in America who wanted a cheap second or a cheap first car—a car purely for basic transportation. Volkswagen filled the need. If there had been a similar American-made car at around $1,500 offering the same economy virtues, Volkswagen might never have gotten anywhere. We fill a need at a certain low price level.

Q What is the future of the automobile, engine-wise and design-wise, as you see it in the next 10 years?
A There will be a development in the next 10 years of an engine that will utilize a very high compression ratio with low cost fuel. This will come about through the cooperation of the large oil companies with the large auto manufacturers. I do not see in the next 10 years an atom-powered automobile or a gas turbine engine or the Diesel engine in most cars. I think automobiles will not be too different from what they are today. When you get compact cars as beautifully styled as the new ones in the U.S., cars that are styled for comfort as well as beauty—you are pretty much getting to the optimum in design.

Q Is there any possibility that the new compact cars put out by the Big 3 will cut sales of Volkswagens in America by 30 or 40 per cent? Or will the German wage differential always prove an advantage?
A I do not think the compact cars will lower our sales. Our workers average 75 cents an hour, which is a good deal less than the American workers get—but this wage differential makes it possible to export our car to America and still remain competitive.

Q In your opinion, what mistakes have American auto manufacturers made in the production, distribution, and advertising of American cars in the U.S.?
A It would be very presumptuous of me to answer that question. After all, which one of us does not make mistakes? It is extremely difficult to judge the temper and times and tastes of Americans. Hindsight is so easy to come by, but at the time a major production and marketing decision must be made, that's extremely difficult. As far as we are concerned, I think I can say this. It was a mistake for Detroit to get out of the $1,500 field. If the $1,500 gap had not been left open, we would never have been able to make a success in America.

I think some of the production people thought Americans wanted more than they really did in automobiles. In the boom they overpriced themselves. They priced themselves out of the market. Now they have taken a sound step backward in the price field. They are starting a new trend in the compact car field at a lower price.

As regards advertising, that is one field in which Americans are supreme. They know how to sell their wares.

Q Do you welcome the competition of the new compact car, or do you view it with anxiety?
A I welcome the new competition very much. Our Volkswagen output is sold out for the next seven or eight months, and I am not worrying. Not now. Tomorrow—that may bring a different story. ■

Students of politics in Bethlehem, Pa., tackle subject with heated discussion, quiet interest. Above, lawyer William Joachim makes point to course's sparkplug, Frank Marcon. Class included one housewife (upper l.), one businesswoman. All were handpicked, agreed to lead new classes.

A new study course brings new blood—like these businessmen—to grass-roots politics

by ED KIESTER

BETHLEHEM, PA.

ON ELECTION DAY here, 20 Bethlehem businessmen will chalk up a victory. All spring, they met over Thursday breakfast for instruction in the ins and outs of practical politics. All fall, many of them put their lessons into practice—by rounding up registrants, soliciting votes, raising funds for both parties. No matter how the votes are tallied, the amateur politicians will have achieved their aim: to inject fresh blood into politics on the precinct level.

Similar transfusions are taking place all across the U.S. With the aid of nine slim booklets called The Action Course in Practical Politics, Americans everywhere are learning how to be full-time citizens. Published and distributed by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the nonpartisan course has been especially prepared for small groups meeting in offices, factory lunchrooms, and hotels. There students discover that democracy means working hard for votes. To date, more than 15,000 have learned the lesson.

And, as in Bethlehem, they have been putting their lessons to work. All 20 of Bethlehem's "alumni" volunteered for some kind of party work. One served as chairman of the Northampton County Democratic finance committee. Most cheerfully accepted such thankless tasks as chauffeuring voters to the polls and running a mimeograph machine. One man decided he was too old to start in party politics. But he persuaded his son to become a Democratic block captain.

Results have been equally striking in other cities. In Minneapolis, the Chamber of Commerce set up nine study groups. Before half were completed, six students held party offices, nine others were helping to raise funds, and 20 more had become block workers.

In Greensburg, Pa., a 20-man study group produced six candidates for local office. Five were students; the sixth was the wife of the discussion leader. She ran for school board after reading his pamphlets.

In Springfield, Mo., the whole town went politics-happy; 11 courses were organized, including three by a Baptist church, two by the League of Women Voters, and one by a doctors' group.

In New York, the Chase Manhattan Bank sent the teaching materials to 170 key U.S. banks, and in Syracuse, a course sponsored by 22 corporations produced nearly 600 graduates and a mark for all other communities to shoot at.

The number of Americans eager to work at politics surprised even the course's sponsors. At last count, pamphlets were being distributed at the rate of 1,000 sets a week. The course was in its fifth printing. Sponsors predicted half a million graduates and more than 1,000 "schools" before the course was one year old.

In pioneering Bethlehem, 12 more study groups are being planned. Discussion leaders will be drawn from the original class, one of the first in the nation. Chamber President Frank Marcon heard about the project last fall, had the students picked when the course was announced. Discussion leader Robert Snyder received his study materials in the mail February 12 at 7:30 a.m., launched his first meeting half an hour later.

The Green Freshmen

At the beginning, most of Bethlehem's students described themselves as "fairly well-informed" on politics. The class was divided equally among Democrats and Republicans, included a coal dealer, a neurosurgeon, a housewife, and a bank president. It required only a minute to show how little they really did know. Snyder asked how many could name the party leader in their neighborhood. Not one could. Neither, he admitted, could Snyder.

Before the course ended, every student had met, and discussed the problems of, his precinct leader (see photo). Lessons began with "The Individual in Politics," later focussed on such basics as how party workers coax voters to the polls, how they decide which issues to emphasize, how campaign funds are spent, where businessmen fit into the machinery.

'For too long, a handful has done the work'

Before each meeting, students read the day's pamphlet. Then they were given fictional "cases" dealing with typical problems of party organization, and they were asked to discuss them. One case, for example, centered around a businessman's attempt to propose a "good new candidate" for his party's ticket. A party leader explained why parties prefer their own workers to newcomers: "It's like business. We like to promote from within."

This case provoked a hot dispute in Bethlehem. Locally, Democrats outnumber Republicans 5 to 3 and monopolize local office. Some Republicans feel the party's decline has resulted from its failure to nominate strong candidates. In class, several party members said so. "But at least," said one Republican afterwards, "we know now that we can't expect to rush in and change things overnight."

In theory, the course is supposed to steer clear of local issues. Discussion leader Snyder struggled hard to keep out localisms, but students were always quick to draw local parallels. In fact, some students complained the course was not local enough; one lost interest when he was not permitted to sound off.

But most students quickly found themselves fascinated by the "nuts and bolts" of politicking. On the morning of the third session, a six-inch snowfall nearly paralyzed the city. Nonetheless, 12 members slithered over snowy streets to class.

Steady Visitor

As the course went on, several dug deeply into recommended outside reading. One student, Dr. James R. Gay, visited all 25 political clubs in the county. By the time Democratic County Chairman Donald Sawyer and three Republican officials appeared at the final meeting, half the class volunteered for party work.

Both parties accepted volunteers gladly. The professionals pointed to a crying need for workers to help in canvassing, registration, and fund-raising. Sawyer praised the course: "They got a real sure grasp of the fundamentals in a very short time." But he still was appalled at the students' lack of knowledge about local politics. When one complained that voters never had a chance to meet the candidates, Sawyer snapped: "Between September 1 and November 1, the Democrats will hold 146 rallies in this county. How many chances do you need?"

This gap in knowledge, however, can be explained because students still are learning. Nationally, Chamber officials have been considering a follow-up program to fill some of the gaps. And the Chamber has been concentrating on businessmen who hang back from politics in the fear it might hurt business.

Bethlehem's businessmen-graduates agree that the best way a businessman—or any American—can fulfill his obligations as a citizen is by organization and diligent work at the grass roots. Last fall, Democratic party workers numbered 2,100,000, Republicans 1,000,000. Leaders of both parties have admitted that this difference in organization was a major factor in the Congressional election results.

"For too long," says Dr. Gay, one of Bethlehem's most avid graduates, "we've been letting a handful of people do all the work in politics. All the rest of us have done is give money sometimes and sit back and complain. I think we learned that if we don't pitch in with the tough jobs, we've nothing to gripe about. That's what I was doing for my party this fall." ■

Door-knocker James Griffith, a telephone official, tabulates voters in neighborhood, above calls on insurance man Palmer Eby.

Political education is given bank president Harold Cooper (right), by steelworker Ed Bennett, a district leader, as part of course.

JUNE ALLYSON

Her husband 'conned' her into TV

June Allyson and husband, Dick Powell: He's head of Four Star Television, production company.

by ARNO JOHANSEN

Almost every star who appears regularly on a weekly television show calls it a "rat race."

The story conferences, the sponsor taboos, the casting problems, the too-short rehearsals —all end up in a ceaseless, panic-level assembly line, too often productive of monotonous mediocrity.

The one "easy caper" in the TV acting game is known as the "emcee anthology bit."

An example is the Alfred Hitchcock show, in which the roly-poly "Hitch" comes on-camera for a few seconds and says something like: "Tonight our program features the fascinating, gripping story of Sadie Glutz, a woman who knew what she wanted and had the equipment to get it."

Other examples are the David Niven show, the Jane Wyman show, the General Electric Theatre with Ronald Reagan, the new Henry Fonda program, the Loretta Young show. Generally the master or mistress of ceremonies is a name well known to the public who owns a fat piece of the show and stars in a limited number of programs.

The acting fraternity is particularly fond of TV anthologies because they call for a minimum amount of acting and are worth large fortunes to the stars who own them. They can be released endlessly to TV stations all over the world, or sold outright to a network on a capital gains basis. Only a few months ago Loretta Young, one of the sharpest, shrewdest personalities in show business, offered her backlog of more than 200 video films for a mere $5,000,000.

The newest TV recruit doing the emcee anthology bit these days is cute, diminutive, froggy-voiced, veteran motion-picture star June Allyson.

June is hostess of The Du Pont Show, telecast Monday nights over CBS-TV.

This program in which June acts—"I'll do only nine of the 32 shows this season"—is owned by Four Star Television, Inc., a production company in turn owned by Dick Powell, Charles Boyer, and David Niven, all three of them long-time favorites.

As all moviegoers know, June Allyson and Dick Powell have been married for 15 years, so June is now in the position of working for her husband. "And against my will," she says. "The big lug really conned me into doing this program."

As hostess of Du Pont show, TV anthology, June is seen on Monday nights over CBS.

According to June, "I was very happy staying at home, taking care of Pam and Ricky, our two children, and trying to be a good wife to Richard: I hadn't made a movie in a year, and that was fine with me, because 1) good scripts are hard to find these days, and 2) I'm not as ambitious as I used to be. When I first came to Hollywood in 1943, 'drive' was my middle name. All I wanted was success. Now all I want is contentment. Anyway, contentment is what I had until earlier this year.

"One night Richard came home with the announcement that he'd invited some of the Du Pont executives for dinner. Richard is up to his ears in television, you know. His Four Star outfit has nine shows on the air, and we're always entertaining sponsors or sponsors' wives or agency executives. And it's perfectly all right with me because I love being a hostess for my husband.

"The Du Pont people came for dinner," June continues, "and I was the charming little hostess, and everything went fine until the following morning. Then Stan Kamon from Richard's office called up and said, 'Congratulations, Junie! You're in!'

"I didn't know what he was talking about. After all, Richard hadn't told me anything. 'What do you mean?' I asked. 'Congratulations about what?' Stan hemmed and hawed and cleared his throat. 'I guess Dick'd better tell you.'

The Mystery Story

"That night Richard came home just as cheerful as you please. Ordinarily he's so tired he can just manage to crawl in the front door. This night he was flying on Cloud 9. 'June,' he began, 'let's go out to eat.' I knew something was cooking, but I wasn't about to let on. I played it straight."

At the restaurant Dick Powell confessed to June that he had sold her into television as the star of a weekly anthology series to be entitled The Du Pont Show with June Allyson.

"But I don't want to go into television," June objected. "I'm happy staying at home with the children."

Powell persisted. He explained to June that she would have to work only 41 days a year. ("A number," she says, "I later learned he drew out of a hat.") He gave June a pep talk on how much she would earn for so little work. In fact, he went so far as to paint a picture of "a million laughs and no aggravations."

"I let him rave on," June says, "because I figured we'd have to make a pilot to sell the show, and I would mess it up so badly that no buyer would even come close to it. So I said real sweetly, 'Okay, darling. You win. When do we make the pilot?'

"That's when Richard let me have the clincher. 'Du Pont,' he said proudly, 'bought the show without a pilot. They bought it on the basis of your name, and if you value your name as an actress then this has got to be the best show you can possibly turn out.' "

Thus June Allyson was "conned" into the frenetic world of television—a world in which she quickly learned that a half-hour dramatic program (23 minutes and 40 seconds without commercials) is machined out in five days. She also learned that in contrast to motion-picture production, where doing three pages of script is considered a day's work, television calls for shooting 14, 15, 16 pages of script a day.

Quality Counts

More important yet, she learned that the overriding problem in TV production is how to combine speed with quality.

"I decided right at the start," June says, "that I would not compromise on quality. The budget on this program is $50,000 a show, even more. I know Richard and his company are losing money on it. But I don't care. They'll make a fortune on the re-runs. Anyway, I demanded the best scripts and the best production staff Richard could get. Our producer, Al Cooperman, is brilliant. He knows the type of material the big stars want.

"As a result we've got Ginger Rogers, Bette Davis, Irene Dunne, Jane Powell, Ann Sothern, and a lot of others. And our top pay a show for these names is only $10,000. It's our material that brings them in. The programs we're turning out—we've already got 11 in the film can—are top-grade shows. I'm telling you we've got the best anthology series on the air, and . . ."

At this point I held up my hand.

"Wait a minute," I cautioned. "You sound like a used-car salesman on TV. Instead of the happy housewife who's been shanghaied to do a show."

June Allyson shook her lovely blonde head. "I know," she said. "Isn't it awful? I sound just like Richard. That's the trouble with being married to a con man. It's catching." ■

A new chicken-and-rice dish

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

THIS FLAVORFUL NEW version of chicken and rice is something to crow about. Toasted sesame seeds mingle with delicately browned rice, surrounding crisply tender chicken cooked to a turn in a sauce enhanced with a lacing of wine. For a memorable dinner, start off with frosty tomato juice and hot cheese crackers. With the chicken, serve fluffy Hubbard squash and broccoli in brown butter. Add a salad made of lettuce chunks, sliced ripe olives, diced celery, and slivered raw onions in garlic dressing. Climax with a chocolate chiffon pie and coffee.

CHICKEN WITH SESAME RICE

- ¼ cup butter or margarine, divided
- 2 tablespoons sesame seeds
- 1 cup uncooked regular rice
- 2 cups chicken broth or stock, divided
- 1½ teaspoons salt, divided
- 1 frying chicken (2½ pounds), cut up
- ⅓ cup flour
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- ½ cup dry white table wine

Melt 1 tablespoon butter in skillet; add sesame seeds and rice; cook over moderate heat, stirring frequently until lightly browned. Add 1½ cups chicken broth and ½ teaspoon salt; heat to boiling. Turn into two-quart casserole; cover; bake in slow oven (300°) while browning chicken. Combine flour, remaining salt, and paprika in a paper bag. Shake chicken pieces, one or two at a time, in flour mixture until well coated. Brown floured chicken slowly in remaining butter. Remove casserole from oven, place chicken on top. Heat remaining broth in skillet to loosen browned particles from pan; pour over all. Pour wine over chicken; cover; bake about 40 minutes longer, or until chicken is tender. Makes four generous servings.

The device —a heating coil sealed within zinc-plated steel sheets —fits neatly under the battery in the battery box and plugs into house current, drawing no more than a 100-watt bulb. In four sizes, to fit any car or truck. About $9.95. Visionator, Inc., Dept. PP, 120 N. Peoria St., Chicago 7, Ill.

A MACHINE TO MIX YOU UP

Parade reporter tests a device that may save lives in outer space

by ARTHUR RICKERBY

PENSACOLA, FLA.

I was all alone in a giant ball. My feet were tightly strapped to the bottom of a huge chair. A green belt held me down. On my head a shiny silver helmet was firmly held by screws that bit into my scalp.

Gears meshed, and the ball started to move. Five tons of steel and 180 pounds of human were off on a simulated space adventure in a machine that has no duplicate anywhere in the world.

I couldn't see the outside, but I knew what was there. Huge panels of controls. Machines registering my every heartbeat and breath. Scientists huddled together watching the panel.

At first I was going head over heels, round and round, tumbling fast. My body strained against the straps and my head protested the ups and downs. Then, as if a giant hand had taken hold of me, I seemed to be going sideways at the same time.

I broke out in a heavy sweat. Dizziness set in. It seemed that I was standing on my head and my feet at the same time. Once I was sure I was going over backward. Finally I didn't know which way I was going.

Just when I felt that my stomach and I were about to part company, the machine slowed down and came to a stop. I had gone through the most vigorous ride ever taken in the Navy's Human Disorientation Device.

Just such trips as mine may help the Naval School of Aviation Medicine understand the problems of travel in outer space. With the $625,000, two-story-high "HDD," the Navy can reproduce in the laboratory the actions of a space capsule tumbling to earth. Naval scientists hope to learn how much horizontal and vertical spin a human being can take, and how much he can do for himself while spinning. Finally, the Navy's findings may help us understand a strange disorder of balance that at one time or another affects perhaps one-fourth of the civilian population.

HDD can spin at 60 revolutions a minute both horizontally and vertically, a speed near which one nose cone recently returned to earth. What will 60 r.p.m. do to a spaceman? For example, if a rocket nose cone lands on water, its passenger may have to open a hatch or eject himself in some way. If he is too disoriented, some mechanical means must do it for him.

Disorientation may be equally serious when satellites become large enough for use as platforms in space. Crews manning these platforms will be weightless since they will be beyond the force of gravity. To overcome weightlessness, it has been proposed that the platforms spin and generate their own gravity field. But spinning may disorient crewmen.

The Navy hopes to overcome this problem by the use of HDD. Perhaps, scientists suggest, some speed more comfortable than others may be found.

The Navy hopes also to answer such questions as: Will drugs lessen disorientation? Can humans be conditioned to spinning? Are some people less susceptible to spinning than others?

Although HDD is a new machine, plans for building it date back to World War II. Naval aviators complained that, while they were in a spin or steering sharply, stationary objects seemed to move with them. Unable to maintain correct sightings, many pilots crashed. To overcome this condition—called ocular-gyral illusion—the Navy asked for a machine to reproduce spin conditions and angular acceleration.

Whether disorientation results from the tumbling of a rocket ship or the spin of a more conventional aircraft, the physiological site of the trouble seems to be the inner ear, or, more specifically, the semicircular canals. The three sets of canals are on three different planes in the head. As we move our heads, the ebb and flow of fluid pressure in the canals gives us the facts about balance and position. But when the body is spun, this pattern of pressure is confused. No longer can we trust our own sensations.

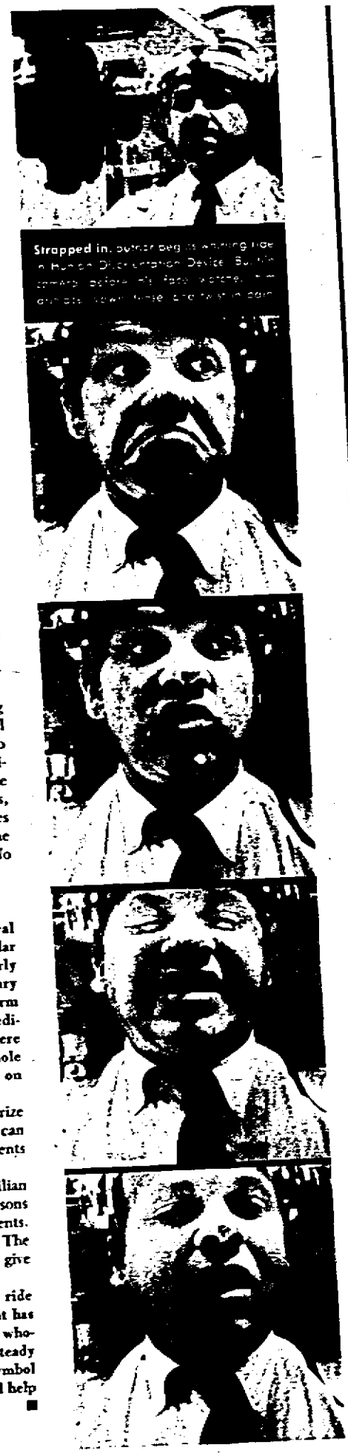

Help for the Tortured

Whatever the Navy learns may help civilian medical men to understand better the problem of semi-circular canals. Disturbances of the canals are particularly common among older people. Although attacks vary in length and severity, victims of the more violent form are among the most tortured patients known to medical science. They suffer complete unsteadiness, severe dizzy spells. Level objects appear sloped. The whole world seems to be moving. Some even crawl about on all fours because they are unable to walk upright.

Right now treatment for this disorder is to cauterize the inner ear—a remedy that, unfortunately, can cause deafness. Navy doctors hope HDD experiments may lead them to a less drastic cure.

And just as space experiments may help civilian victims of semi-circular canal disturbance, so persons with damaged canals may help in space experiments. Deaf persons report no effect from an HDD ride. The Navy thinks that those with damaged canals may give further information along these lines.

Perhaps, fittingly, one of them will be first to ride HDD at its top speed of 60 r.p.m.—a barrier that has not yet been cracked. From my own experience, whoever has this honor I wish good luck—and a steady stomach. It's a rough, thrilling ride—a fitting symbol of the loneliness and power of the space it would help to conquer. ■

REGULARITY WITHOUT PILLS OR MEDICINES

Millions have eased away constipation with a good-tasting breakfast food

Corrects constipation due to lack of bulk

Has this happened to you? If you are bothered with constipation, have you fallen into a trap that may be both harmful and expensive?

Every time you get off schedule, do you seek relief with harsh laxative drugs—and find yourself taking pills or medicines in larger and larger doses?

It may come as a surprise to you that when constipation is caused by a lack of bulk in your diet (which is often the case), it can be corrected with a good-tasting cereal food.

This good-food way to safe, natural regularity is Kellogg's All-Bran—just a half-cup of Kellogg's All-Bran once a day, with milk. There's a simple reason why Kellogg's All-Bran is so effective. It is whole bran—and bran is nature's best bulk-forming food. Even a small amount gives you all the bulk you need to stay on schedule.

If you'd like to ease away constipation this natural way, try eating Kellogg's All-Bran once a day for 10 days. But be sure that you get the original, appetizing All-Bran—Kellogg's All-Bran. It's America's favorite whole bran cereal by 3 to 1!

MOMMY!... MOMMY!... MOMMY!

To mothers, that cry means that there's another cut, scratch, scrape, or burn. It also means she should get iodine—but she often doesn't, because iodine burns and stings, upsets youngsters. Here's good news. Science has discovered a new kind of iodine that stops infection best yet doesn't burn or sting. It's polyvinylpyrrolidone-iodine, found only in ISODINE® ANTISEPTIC. Where other types of antiseptics may kill only 1, 2, or 3 types of germs, ISODINE kills all types—even virus and fungus. And up to 40 times faster. Get painless ISODINE ANTISEPTIC. Money-back guarantee.

Medically acclaimed electromyograph proves Absorbine Jr.

Relieves Tired, Aching Muscles Twice As Fast!

Electromyograph shows that after normal period of rest when Absorbine Jr. is applied, tired, aching muscles recover twice as fast as when "nature takes its course."

When your muscles ache, doctors can now read their electric waves through the wonders of the new electromyograph machine. They have proved that Absorbine Jr. "brings aching muscles back" twice as fast as nature can.

These studies showed the speed with which Absorbine Jr. starts treating tired, aching muscles. When rubbed on, Absorbine Jr. actually dilates the peripheral blood vessel walls, making local blood-flow speed up. Unlike mere pain-killers, Absorbine Jr. helps you get better, faster.

My favorite jokes

by PAUL GILBERT

Paul Gilbert, 33, has been in show business since the age of 7, when his parents apprenticed him to a South American family of circus aerialists. Years later the Ringling Brothers signed the group for tours in the U.S., but on one of his first appearances in this country, Gilbert fell 65 feet, injuring himself so badly that his career as an aerialist came to a close. During his months of recuperation, young Gilbert decided to become a comic. He enlisted in the Army Air Force, appeared in Special Service shows, served the War Department as a manager of overseas theatrical troupes. Since 1948 he has appeared at top night clubs and on leading TV variety shows.

TWO CHAPS WERE TALKING, and one said, "Today I got a French poodle for my wife." The other replied, "That's wonderful. Where'd you get such a magnificent swap?"

THE OTHER DAY I said to my wife. "Darling, let's take a trip around the world." She said, "No, let's go some place else."

I'LL NEVER FORGET the words of Perry Mason the day he stood up in court and said, "You show me a trunk murderer, and I'll show you a sloppy packer."

A JAPANESE SALESMAN walked into a travel bureau in Chicago, approached the clerk, and said, "Ah, so, if you please, I like to have one ticket to Yokohama." The clerk said, "Okay, that'll be $875." The salesman was stunned. "What? You crazy! Eight hundred-seventy-five dollah to Tulsa, Yokohama?"

A YOUNG COUPLE was shopping for their first house, so the real estate agent took them to a newly constructed dwelling and presented it as a GI house. The husband said, "What's a GI house?" The agent explained, "That's the government's revenge against anyone who didn't re-enlist."

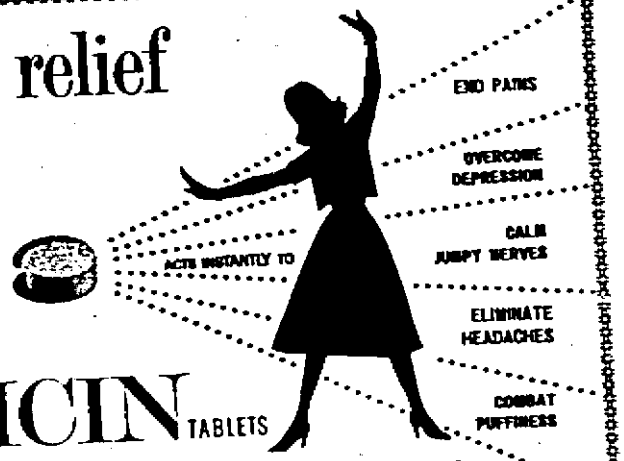

A FAN WAS ENGROSSED in watching a professional football game. Suddenly he was surprised to hear himself being paged over the loudspeaker system. The voice blared forth: "Would Ralph Logan, owner of the car with license number REG 9876567849006432?6, please report to the parking lot immediately. Your car's all right but your license plate is blocking the driveway."

A YOUNG NAVY FLIER on his first combat mission in World War II took off from the deck of his carrier. He zoomed up to 15,000 feet, ran smack into a formation of Japanese Zero fighter planes. During the course of the flight, he shot down seven enemy planes.

On his way back to the carrier, he kept saying to himself, "Great work, great work! First time out and you shot down seven planes. I'm an ace. Maybe they'll give me the Air Medal. Surely they'll take my picture. Seven planes. I'm a hero. They'll give me several medals." At which point he found himself heading for a carrier directly in front of him.

He landed on the deck of the ship, happily slid back the canopy, whereupon a Japanese sailor leaped up at him and said, "Welcome, Yankee. Welcome. You make nice landing." ■

Why you do what you shouldn't

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

Two weeks ago, I stood on a street corner and waited for my wife one whole hour so we could get to an appointment. When she arrived, she said, "Never again. I'll be on time from now on. Honest I will."

Last week, I waited for her again—for 41 minutes. Why does this sort of thing happen over and over? Why do we persist in breaking such rules of behavior as "don't be late," "don't walk on the grass," "don't jaywalk," "don't litter the streets"?

Certainly most of us must realize that by disregarding such rules, we make life less comfortable and more irritating to others. Yet, many people still persist in doing what they know they should not do.

There are many reasons for the minor infraction, according to Dr. William Schumacher, Westport, Conn., psychiatrist. His thoughts may help you toward greater self-understanding and in guiding your children.

1) You may not really know what's wrong. Some people simply never have learned—or been taught—right from wrong. They can't see anything wrong in allowing their leaves to blow onto a neighbor's place, or in strewing trash at the picnic grounds.

Either their parents or teachers have never stressed right and wrong in life's little repetitive situations, or the teaching never really has sunk in.

2) You may lead a rush-rush life. You know the type: nothing can wait, everything must be done in a hurry. These "do-it-now" types jaywalk with hardly a twist of conscience. Sometimes they weigh the pros and cons of slowing down—and of following the rule—then decide it just isn't worth it.

Actually, the U.S. has a tradition for the "do-it-now" school. Delay is deadly to many Americans, and so the little rules just fall by the wayside.

3) You may have need to rebel. Some people associate rules with authority, and authority with parents or teachers, against whom they feel a need to rebel.

Don't misunderstand. These types don't consciously say, "I'm breaking a rule to defy my parents." However, something close to that flashes across the innards of their minds—on an unconscious level.

4) You may think the rules absurd. Some people simply feel the rules make no sense. Thus they have no qualms about breaking them. Perhaps this is why Marilyn Monroe (above) sidesteps the rule, "be on time." For public as well as private appointments, Marilyn has been known to keep people waiting.

Strictly speaking, some little rules lean over a bit far. It would be naive not to concede that.

5) You may feel superior. There's the individual who believes the little rules are not made for him, he's above them.

Somehow, he feels a bit above and beyond regulations. This can be a symptom of important emotional upset—but when it applies only to little rules and not to other more vital things in life, there's not much to worry about.

Somewhat related is the meek soul who cannot be a non-conformist at home or at work. But he can by breaking a little rule "on the outside."

How to teach adherence to the rules? With most adults, it's probably too late. Ideally, children should be taught by parents, teachers, friends, and church counselors to adhere. They should be taught, too, by parental example—that is, parents must practice what they preach.

Of course, children should not be threatened with serious punishment if they break a little rule now and again. But they should be taught to adhere, when possible, on the basis of thoughtfulness, consideration, plain, common decency, and regard for the other fellow.

These, after all, are important ingredients in a growing conscience.

Sometimes, of course, you just have to break the rule. Let's say you are taking your pregnant wife to the hospital. You simply have to speed. Or you have a vital task to do at the office, or an unexpected family obligation, and just have to be late.

Under such situations, obviously regulations should go by the boards. If they didn't, you'd be out of touch with reality.

This brings us to another, and equally important, point. Occasional breaking of little rules rarely is an indicator of emotional upset. On the contrary, the occasional rule-breaker is likely to be exhibiting fairly healthy behavior. He's showing that he can make a conscious choice.

It's the never-break-a-rule or always-break-a-rule types who probably are in trouble. Their behavior may be compulsive, and compulsiveness can be a symptom of real emotional distress. ■
